

The Greatest Lie Ever Told

Transcript for an anonymous video-documentary also released as Holohoax.

"If you tell a lie big enough and keep repeating it, people will eventually come to believe it. The lie can be maintained only for such time as the State can shield the people from the political, economic and/or military consequences of the lie. It thus becomes vitally important for the State to use all of its powers to repress dissent, for the truth is the mortal enemy of the lie, and thus by extension, the truth is the greatest enemy of the State."

A quote on the "Big Lie" (German: große Lüge) falsely attributed to Joseph Goebbels, Reich Minister of Propaganda of Nazi Germany. No one ever gives a citation to the source.

According to Hitler, the "Big Lie" was a propaganda technique typically used by "the Jews." The expression was coined by Adolf Hitler, when he dictated his 1925 book Mein Kampf, about the use of a lie so "colossal" that no one would believe that someone "could have the impudence to distort the truth so infamously." Hitler claimed the technique was used by Jews to blame Germany's loss in World War I on German Army officer Erich Ludendorff, similar to the way the blood libel, the claim that Jews sacrificed babies, was used as justification to persecute Jews throughout the middle ages.

"In this they [the Jews] proceeded on the sound principle that the magnitude of a lie always contains a certain factor of credibility, since the great masses of the people in the very bottom of their hearts tend to be corrupted rather than consciously and purposely evil, and that, therefore, in view of the primitive simplicity of their minds, they more easily fall victim to a big lie than to a little one, since they themselves lie in little things, but would be ashamed of lies that were too big. Such a falsehood will never enter their heads, and they will not be able to believe in the possibility of such monstrous effrontery and infamous misrepresentation in others..."

Mein Kampf, (p. 231 of the Manheim translation).

Holocaust™

Jewish police escort a group of Jews who have been rounded-up for deportation in the Lodz ghetto.

The Jewish Holocaust™ - the alleged murder of some six million Jews by the German Nazis during the Second World War. This notion in recent years has come under increasing fire from "revisionists" and historians. It seems as now that there is still a lot that is unclear about these events.

What if I told you that what you have learned in the history books was not an honest reflection of the truth? Today, we wish to present to you the facts. Facts which may come to you as a shock. Some of which have been hidden from the public for decades.

Today, we will be putting some of the mainstream theories under the scope for the purpose of analysis and revision. We will do so in a way that will enable you, the viewer, to make your own mind up. Some of you might be asking: Why is Holocaust™ revision necessary? The answer, of course, is simple... no matter what the truth is its worth defending.

The Holocaust™ is historically invented - and not a matter of religion... as such it is subject to the same kind of research, scrutiny and analysis as any other historical event. There is nothing anti-Semitic about "revision." When on-going research finds new evidence, or when critical researchers discover mistakes in old explanations - it often happens that old theories have to be changed or even abandoned.

By "revisionism" we mean critically examining the established theories and hypothesis in order to test their validity - with all that said and done, lets begin putting it all into perspective.

Part One The Word Holocaust™

In this first part, we wish to briefly demonstrate a bit of important history. The word "holocaust" is mostly associated with what is regarded as the Jewish Holocaust™, which is said that six million Jews were systematically murdered by Germans in concentration camps during World War Two.

Holocaust - 'hɒləkɔ:st - noun

Destruction or slaughter on a mass scale, especially caused by fire or nuclear war.

Etymologically, a "holocaust" is a complete burning - and the word was originally used by the English back in the 13th century to describe a burnt offering, a sacrifice completely consumed by fire. However, many people around 1915 used the word to refer to Turkish massacres of Armenians (between 1915 and 1923). What is known as the Armenian Holocaust was the Ottoman government's systematic extermination of its minority Armenian subjects from their historic homeland within the territory constituting the present Republic of Turkey.

Crucified Armenian Christian girls by Muslims.

The total number of people killed has been estimated at between 1-and-1.5 million. So... how did it all happen? The Armenian Genocide was premeditated by the year 1909 by a Young Turk Committee composed entirely of displaced Balkan Jews in the format of a syncretist Masonic-Jewish-Muslim sect [which included Talaat, Enver, Behaeddin Shakir,* Jemal, and Nizam posing as Muslims].

(Committee for Union and Progress)

* Behaeddin Shakir or Bahaddin Shakir (Ottoman Turkish: بھاءالدین شاکر; Modern Turkish: Bahattin Şakir; 1874, Istanbul - 17 April 1922) was a founding member of the Committee of Union and Progress (CUP) and the central figure of the Teşkilat-i Mahsusa (Special Organization). At the end of World War One, he was detained with other members of the CUP, first by the local Ottoman court martial and then by the British government. He was then sent to Malta pending military trials for crimes against humanity, which never materialized, and was subsequently exchanged by the British for hostages held by Turkish forces.

In 1909, the Jewish-led and Jewish-financed İttihat ve Terakki Cemiyeti (Committee for the Union and Progress) overthrew the Turkish Empire, which at the time controlled Palestine - a nation which Zionist Jews had long sought to take and claim as their own. As the Jewish-Masons started the 1817 Revolution in France with the tripartite national motto: Liberté, égalité, fraternité (French pronunciation: [libɛʁt̪e egaʁite fʁat̪ernite]), French for "liberty, equality, fraternity" - Young Turks seized the slogan in their revolution of 1909.

◊ Emmanuel Carasso

Enver Pasha,
Minister of War

Dr. Behaeddin Shakir

Talaat Pasha

The founder of the Young Turks was a Jew known by the name of ♦ Emmanuel Carasso.† ♦ Carasso set up the Young Turks Secret Society in the 1890s, in Salonica - then part of Turkey, and now part of Greece. ♦ Carasso was also the master of an Italian Masonic Lodge there called Macedonia Resurrected - the Lodge was the headquarters of the Young Turks and all the top Young Turk leadership were members.

During the Young Turk regime, ♦ Carasso continued to play a leading role. He met with the Sultan to inform him that he was overthrown. ♦ Carasso was in charge of putting the Sultan under house arrest; he ran the Young Turk intelligence network in the Balkans, and he was in charge of all food supplies in the Empire during World War One.

† Emmanuel Carasso or Emanuel Karasu (1862 in Salonica - 1934 in Trieste) was a lawyer and a member of the prominent Sephardic Jewish Carasso family of Ottoman Salonica (now Thessaloniki, Greece). He was a prominent member of the Young Turks - and a leading financier of the entire Young Turk insurrection, and during the Balkan Wars. Karasu was a member (some sources say founder) and later president of the Macedonian Risorta Masonic lodge in Thessaloniki and pioneered the masonic movement within the Ottoman Empire. Masonic lodges and other secret societies in Salonica were meeting places for sympathizers of the Young Turks, including Mehmed Talaat (1874 - 15 March 1921), commonly known as Talaat Pasha, one of the triumvirate known as the Three Pashas that de facto ruled the Ottoman Empire during the First World War - widely considered the main perpetrator of the genocide.

It is ironic that after four centuries after the Turkish Sultans welcomed the expelled European Jews into Turkey, certain Jews belonging to secret societies and to Zionism will kick the Sultan out of power in the early-20th century, destroy the Ottoman Empire and celebrate their victory by massacring by proxy almost the whole Christian Armenian people - one-and-a-half million Armenians, a half-million Greeks, and a half-million Christian Assyrians and Arameans. This, of course, is the version of history that is well-documented but rarely spoken of...

This Jewish coup d'état that overthrew the Sultan of Turkey was set... and on the road to much bigger things: They (i.e. Jews) wanted to ferment a war between Christians and Muslims,‡ which they predicted would start in the Balkans and grow into a world war. The idea was that if Christians, Muslims, Slavs and Teutons fought a long and hard war, these Jews believed they would be left standing in Jerusalem. These facts were known back then and were very regularly recorded in literature and the media.

✧ Raphael Lemkin

✧ Elie Wiesel

✧ Raphael Lemkin§ was explicitly moved by the Armenian annihilation to coin the word "genocide" in 1943 - and define systematic and premeditated exterminations within legal parameters.

Armenian Holocaust

Massacres of Armenians

‡ Cf. Albert Pike's letter to Giuseppe Mazzini, dated 15 August 1871, concerning Three World Wars.

§ ✧ Raphael Lemkin (24 June 1900 – 28 August 1959) was a lawyer of Polonized-Jewish descent who is best known for coining the word genocide and initiating the Genocide Convention. Lemkin coined the word genocide in 1943 or 1944 from the rooted words genos (Greek for "family, tribe, or race") and -cide (Latin for "killing").

The Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide was adopted by the United Nations General Assembly on 9 December 1948 as General Assembly Resolution 260. The Convention entered into force on 12 January 1951.

Although for the Zionists, broadening the meaning of the word "holocaust" to encompass murder of segments of other population groups is a vicious attempt to diminish the right of the Jewish survivors of this horror to point a finger at the perpetrators. There is great Jewish indignation at using the term "holocaust" and regard its use in almost any other context as an infringement of trademark rights.

Author's Note

On the United States Holocaust™ Memorial Museum (USHMM)

✧ Elie Wiesel<sup>**</sup> and the above-named Holohoax museum are as linked together as the military-industrial complex. Wiesel serves Israel and the International Jewish power structure, and in turn, it looks after him and ensures that he is not only wealthy, but famous and covered with honors and decorations that bring him respect.

The United States, since President Woodrow Wilson and the 1913 takeover of the U.S. Treasury by the Jewish banking cabal's Federal Reserve System, has been a captive nation. Even though it appears to be the most powerful nation on earth - that is appearance only if you define a nation as being governed by and serving the people who formed and created that nation.

The truth is, the American people have a foreign parasitical entity attached to our nation, which has changed its very demographic make-up and just keeps spawning more and more anti-American policies. One of the spreading tentacles of this parasite is the United States Holocaust™ Memorial Museum (USHMM): The museum is exempt from income taxes, and presumably property taxes on their prime real estate.

When one studies this museum, how it came into being and how it operates, one can clearly discern its parasitical nature - and why, rather than contributing to the national well-being, it takes away from it.

On Sunday and Monday, 28-29 April 2013, it celebrated the culmination of several months of "commemoration" of the museum's 20th year of existence.

<sup>**</sup> ✧ Eliezer "Elie" Wiesel KBE (Yiddish: אליעזר וייזל, Elyezer Vizel; 30 September 1928 - 2 July 2016) was born in Sighet, Transylvania (Romania) - a Jewish writer, professor, political activist, Nobel Laureate and supposed Holocaust™ survivor. Wiesel and his family were supposedly deported by the Nazis to Auschwitz when he was 15 years old. His mother and younger sister perished there, his two older sisters survived. Wiesel and his father were later transported to Buchenwald, where his father died.

The Elie Wiesel Award recognizes internationally prominent individuals whose actions have advanced the Museum's vision of a world where people confront hatred, prevent genocide, and promote human dignity. Established in 2011 as the United States Holocaust™ Memorial Museum Award and renamed for inaugural recipient ✧ Elie Wiesel, it is the Museum's highest honor.

Wiesel is the one upon whom the "Holocaust™ Industry" feels safe in heaping praise, therefore he has enough "distinguished service" type awards to wallpaper a room. He has been in the service of the terrorist state of Israel for most of his long life, condoning the dispossession of the native Palestinian people, and even their destruction by napalm bombing and massacres carried out on a regular basis. He's not really a very good liar, although a prolific one, and so his self-created life story is not convincing to a mind that has even a little bit of critical capacity.

Established in 2011 as the United States Holocaust™ Memorial Museum Award was renamed the Museum's highest honor for its inaugural recipient ♦ Elie Wiesel.

Refer to: Appendix to The Greatest Lie Ever Told: Nobel Laureate ♦ Elie Wiesel is a liar and a fraud.

United States Holocaust Memorial Museum 2011 Elie Wiesel Award Ceremony

Speaker at the 2011 USHMM Awards ceremony:

"By unanimous consent of the United States Holocaust™ Memorial Council, this award will henceforth be known as the United States Holocaust™ Memorial Museum Elie Wiesel Award."

Applause...

The speaker hugs Wiesel, who is wearing the kippah.††

"We remember the suffering... - we remember the fire - but what about the other side? what did those who survived do with their - survival?"

The video narration continues.

Many people credit a Jewish man named ♦ Elie Wiesel with giving the term "Holocaust™" its present meaning... but he does not feel that the word adequately defines the event and wishes it were used less frequently to describe significant occurrences as everyday tragedies. This is perhaps why he pushes to enforce the copyright, trademark and service mark on the word "Holocaust™" - in fact, the misuse of the word and the questioning of the Holocaust™ has landed people a jail sentence in some places; like France, for example.

†† Skulcap, kippah (or kipah), yarmulke: three different words, all in one short paragraph, for the same round Jewish head covering. Are they interchangeable?

Not quite. To begin with, kippah alone is italicized, since it does not appear as a recognized word in English dictionaries. More importantly, although all kippot and yarmulkes are skulcaps, and every yarmulke is a kippah, not every kippah is a yarmulke. This is because the Hebrew word kippah, as it is used in Israel and increasingly in the Diaspora, denotes any skulcap worn by a Jew for religious reasons, whereas "yarmulke," which comes from Yiddish, generally refers only to the sewn satin or felt cap, commonly with a cotton lining, of Ashkenazi Eastern Europe. Although it needn't necessarily be black any more, as all yarmulkes once were and most still are, it cannot be knit, crocheted, or embroidered like many kippot. If it were, it, too, in the contemporary language of most American Jews, would be no longer a yarmulke but a kippah.

The two words are not equally old. In early rabbinic Hebrew, kippah means a vault or dome, whether of a building or of the heavens; deriving from the biblical verb kafaf, to bend or force down from above, it also came to signify a man or woman's domelike cap - unless kippah in the latter sense derives independently from cappa, a Latin word for a head covering that has given us our English "cap." But prior to the 6th or 7th century there is no written attestation for cappa, which probably comes from caput, "head," and it is even possible, if not terribly likely, that it was cappa that descended from kippah.

‡‡ Colin Luther Powell (born 5 April 1937) is an American statesman and a retired four-star general in the United States Army. He was the 65th United States Secretary of State, serving under U.S. President George W. Bush from 2001 to 2005 - the first African American to serve in that position. During his military career, Powell also served as National Security Advisor (1987–1989), as Commander of the U.S. Army Forces Command (1989) and as Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff (1989–1993), holding the latter position during the Persian Gulf War. Born in Harlem as the son of Jamaican immigrants, Powell was the first, and so far the only, African American to serve on the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

♦ Elie Wiesel is a Jewish professor and Zionist "think tank"; he is the author of 57 books, including Night, a work based on his experiences as a prisoner in the Auschwitz concentration camp(s). Wiesel is also the advisory board chairman of the newspaper Algemeine Journal. Wiesel was criticized by former DePaul University professor and political scientist ♦ Dr. Norman Gary Finkelstein§§ in his book The Holocaust Industry.

♦ Dr. Norman Finkelstein

Finkelstein accuses Wiesel of promoting the "uniqueness doctrine" which holds, according to Finkelstein, the Holocaust™ as the paramount of evil and therefore historically incomparable to other genocides. Hundreds of World War Two survivors and descendants of survivors have signed a letter published as an advertisement in a Saturday New York Times on 23 August 2014, condemning the massacre of Palestinians in Gaza and calling for a complete boycott of Israel - see page following.

According to the letter, the condemnation was prompted by an advertisement written by ♦ Elie Wiesel and published worldwide accusing Hamas of child sacrifice - and for comparing the group to the Nazis - see page following. The letter, signed by 327 Jewish survivors and descendants of survivors and sponsored by the International Jewish Anti-Zionist Network, accuses Wiesel of abuse of history in order to justify Israel's actions in the Gaza strip.

§§ ♦ Norman Gary Finkelstein (born 8 December 1953) is no stranger to controversy. The American-Jewish scholar, political scientist, activist, professor, and author is one of the world's leading experts on the Israel-Palestine conflict and the political legacy of the Jewish Holocaust™. Apart from his parents, every member of Finkelstein's family, on both sides, was exterminated by the Nazis.

His best known book, The Holocaust Industry, has catapulted him into the spotlight, due to its contention that American Jewry have ruthlessly exploited the so-called Holocaust™ for political and financial gain. In his eyes the mainstream Jewish organizations are 'hucksters,' 'gangsters' and 'crooks'; ♦ Elie Wiesel (celebrity Holocaust™ survivor) is the 'resident clown' for the Holocaust™ 'circus'; reparations claims against Germany for Nazi-era slave laborers are 'blackmail' - and the mainstream Jewish organizations steal 95% of the monies earmarked for the so-called victims of Nazi persecution, and then throw them a few crumbs while telling them to be grateful. It is very hard to sink much lower than to turn the colossal suffering of the Jewish people during World War Two into an extortion racket.

"They have disgraced the memory of the Jewish people's suffering on the one hand by turning it into an extortion racket. If there were any doubt left, I would point to the recent London Times article headlined Swiss Holocaust cash revealed to be a myth, that is all the claims against the Swiss banks were a fantastic concoction of the Holocaust™ hustlers. But then, after turning Jewish suffering into an extortion racket, to then deny the so-called actual victims these monies extorted... it is very difficult to imagine sinking any lower on a moral level than that. If they were all put behind bars, it wouldn't be yet, in my opinion, be a just punishment.

Jews rejected child sacrifice 3,500 years ago. Now it's Hamas' turn.

More than three thousand years ago, Abraham had two children. One son had been sent into the wilderness and was in danger of dying. God saved him with water from a spring.

The other son was bound, his throat about to be cut by his own father. But God stayed the knife. Both sons – Ishmael and Isaac – received promises that they would father great nations.

With these narratives, monotheism and western civilization begin. And the Canaanite practices of child sacrifice to Moloch are forever left behind by the descendants of Abraham.

Except they are not.

In my own lifetime, I have seen Jewish children thrown into the fire. And now I have seen Muslim children used as human shields, in both cases, by worshippers of death cults indistinguishable from that of the Molochites.

Top part of a full-page advertisement written by ✡ Elie Wiesel and published worldwide accusing Hamas of child sacrifice - and comparing the group to the Nazis.

Provocatively, Wiesel's paid Op-Ed was headlined, "Jews rejected child sacrifice 3500 years ago. Now it's Hamas' turn."

The ad reportedly appeared in The Washington Post, The New York Times, The Wall Street Journal, The Chicago Tribune, The Los Angeles Times, The Miami Herald, but NOT in the London Times (aka The Times).

A representative of The Times said: "In brief, [The Times] [feels] that the opinion being expressed is too strong and too forcefully made and will cause concern amongst a significant number of Times readers."

The full text of Elie Wiesel's paid Op-Ed is below:

'Jews rejected child sacrifice 3500 years ago'

More than three thousand years ago, Abraham had two children. One son had been sent into the wilderness and was in danger of dying. God saved him with water from a spring.

The other son was bound, his throat about to be cut by his own father. But God stayed the knife. Both sons – Ishmael and Isaac – received promises that they would father great nations.

With these narratives, monotheism and western civilization begin. And the Canaanite practices of child sacrifice to Moloch are forever left behind by the descendants of Abraham.

Except they are not.

In my own lifetime, I have seen Jewish children thrown into the fire. And now I have seen Muslim children used as human shields, in both cases, by worshippers of death cults indistinguishable from that of the Molochites.

What we are suffering through today is not a battle of Jew versus Arab or Israeli versus Palestinian. Rather, it is a battle between those who celebrate life and those who champion death. It is a battle of civilization versus barbarism.

Do the two cultures that brought us the Psalms of David and the rich libraries of the Ottoman Empire not share a love of life, of transmitting wisdom and opportunity to their children? And is any of this discernible in the dark future offered by Hamas to Arab children, to be suicide bombers or human shields for rockets?

Palestinian parents want a hopeful future for their children, just like Israeli parents do. And both should be joining together in peace.

But before sleepless mothers in both Gaza City and Tel Aviv can rest, before diplomats can begin in earnest the crucial business of rebuilding dialogue... the Hamas death cult must be confronted for what it is.

Moderate men and women of faith, whether that faith is in God or man, must shift their criticism from the Israeli soldiers – whose terrible choice is to fire and risk harming human shields, or hold their fire and risk the death of their loved ones – to the terrorists who have taken away all choice from the Palestinian children of Gaza.

I call upon the Palestinian people to find true Muslims to represent them, Muslims who would never voluntarily place a child in danger.

I call upon President Obama and the leaders of the world to condemn Hamas' use of children as human shields.

And I enjoin the American public to stand firmly with the people of Israel who are in yet another struggle for survival, and with the suffering people of Gaza who reject terror and embrace peace.

Let us return child sacrifice to the darkest corner of history, and work towards a brighter future with those who choose life, Arabs and Jews alike, all of us Abraham's children.

Jewish survivors and descendants of survivors and victims of Nazi genocide unequivocally condemn the massacre of Palestinians in Gaza

As Jewish survivors and descendants of survivors and victims of the Nazi genocide we unequivocally condemn the massacre of Palestinians in Gaza and the ongoing occupation and colonization of historic Palestine. We further condemn the United States for providing Israel with the funding to carry out the attack, and Western states more generally for using their diplomatic muscle to protect Israel from condemnation. Genocide begins with the silence of the world.

We are alarmed by the extreme, racist dehumanization of Palestinians in Israeli society, which has reached a fever-pitch. In Israel, politicians and pundits in The Times of Israel and The Jerusalem Post have called openly for genocide of Palestinians and right-wing Israelis are adopting Neo-Nazi insignia.

Furthermore, we are disgusted and outraged by Elie Wiesel's abuse of our history to justify the unjustifiable: Israel's wholesale effort to destroy Gaza and the murder of more than 2,000 Palestinians, including many hundreds of children. Nothing can justify bombing UN shelters, homes, hospitals and universities. Nothing can justify depriving people of electricity and water.

We must raise our collective voices and use our collective power to bring about an end to all forms of racism, including the ongoing genocide of Palestinian people. We call for an immediate end to the siege against and blockade of Gaza. We call for the full economic, cultural and academic boycott of Israel. "Never again" must mean NEVER AGAIN FOR ANYONE!

A letter published as an advertisement in a Saturday New York Times on 23 August 2014, condemning the massacre of Palestinians in Gaza and calling for a complete boycott of Israel.

The ad, sponsored by the International Jewish Anti-Zionist Network, as it appeared in The New York Times.

The video narration continues.

Since 2011, ✧ Elie Wiesel has served as the Chairman of the controversial Ir David Foundation Council - Ir David Foundation, commonly known as Elad* ("City of David") is a Jerusalem-based Israeli association which aims to strengthen the Jewish connection to Jerusalem, create a Jewish majority in Arab neighbourhoods east of Jerusalem, and renew the Jewish community in the City of David, which is also part of the neighborhood of Silwan. The foundation works to achieve its goals by tourism, education, archaeological excavations and obtaining homes in the area to establish a Jewish presence.

✧ Elie Wiesel has also been accused of using the Holocaust™ to justify the ever-expanding illegal Israeli expansions into foreign territories.

Part Two The Number Six Million

The story of the number six million was given judicial authority at the Nuremberg Trial of German leaders between 1945-and-1949. Proceedings which proved to be the most disgraceful legal farce in history. For a far more detailed study of the iniquities of these trials,

The Ir David Foundation is committed to continuing King David's legacy as well as revealing and connecting people to Ancient Jerusalem's glorious past through four key initiatives: archaeological excavation, tourism development, educational programming and residential revitalization.

which as Field Marshal Montgomery said, made it a crime to lose a war - the establishment of the International Military Tribunal (IMT) at Nuremberg in November 1945 is assumed these days to have been an obvious choice for the World War Two international community... but at the time it was far from clear how to deal with the surviving Nazi leaders. Confusion behind the idea of Nuremberg is exemplified by the attitude of the Soviets to the IMT - the Soviets always assumed that the trial was a propaganda exercise and the defendants were guilty a priori.

One week before the trial started, the Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Vyshinsky infamously made a toast to the defendants with the words "may their paths lead straight from the court house to the grave."

Field Marshal Montgomery

Andrei Vyshinsky

The Soviets never altered their perception of Nuremberg as a show trial and were deeply critical of the subsequent acquittal of three of the defendants and the seven defendants who received prison sentences instead of the death penalty.

Should anyone be misled into believing that the extermination of the Jews was proved at Nuremberg by evidence, they should consider the nature of the trials themselves... based as they were on a total disregard of sound legal principals of any kind. The accusers acted as prosecutors, judges and executioners - guilt was assumed from the outset.

Russians were also, in some instances, the judges... - Russians, whose military were guilty of committing war crimes against the Polish in what is known as the Katyn Forest Massacre, where the number of the dead is estimated at about 22,000, which includes about 8000 Polish officers. The Soviet prosecutor attempted to blame this slaughter on the German defendants.

At Nuremberg, ex post facto legislation was created,* whereby men were tried for crimes which were only made crimes after they had been allegedly committed.

* An ex post facto law (corrupted from Latin: ex postfacto, lit. 'out of the aftermath') is a law that retroactively changes the legal consequences (or status) of actions that were committed, or relationships that existed, before the enactment of the law. Such legal changes are also known by the Latin term in mitius.

An ex post facto law is a law that makes illegal an act that was legal when committed, increases the penalties for an infraction after it has been committed, or changes the rules of evidence to make conviction easier. The United States Constitution prohibits the making of ex post facto law. In some nations that follow the Westminster system of government, such as the United Kingdom, ex post facto laws are technically possible, because the doctrine of parliamentary supremacy allows Parliament to pass any law it wishes.

In Canada, ex post facto criminal laws are constitutionally prohibited by paragraph 11(g) of the Charter of Rights and Freedoms. It should be emphasized that the Charter prohibition applies only to criminal law. Changes to civil law in Canada can be, and occasionally are, enacted ex post facto.

The "common plan" ex post facto law, dictates that if any German person was anywhere near a Nazi camp, during the Holocaust, they are guilty of every crime ever committed at the camp, whether the crime has ever been proven or not.

More disturbing, however, were the methods employed to extract statements and confessions at Nuremberg, particularly those from SS officers, which were used to support the extermination charge. The American Senator Joseph McCarthy, in a statement given to the American Press on 20 May 1949, drew attention to the following cases of torture to secure such confessions. In the prison of the Swabisch Hall, he stated, officers of the SS Leibstandarte Adolf Hitler were flogged until they were soaked in blood, after which their sexual organs were trampled on as they lay prostrate on the ground.

As in the notorious Malmédy Trials of private soldiers, the prisoners were hoisted in the air and beaten until they signed the confessions demanded of them. On the basis of such "confessions" extorted from SS General Sepp Dietrich and SS General Joachim Peiper, the Leibstandarte was convicted as a "guilty organization." SS General Oswald Pohl, the economic administrator of the concentration camp system, had his face smeared with feces and was subsequently beaten until he supplied his confession.

In dealing with these cases, Senator McCarthy told the press: "I have heard evidence and read documentary proof to the effect that the accused persons were beaten up, maltreated and physically tortured by methods which could only be conceived in sick brains. They were subjected to mock trials and pretended executions... they were told their families would be deprived of their ration cards - all these things were carried out with the approval of the public prosecutor in order to secure psychological - unintelligible - as was necessary for the extortion of the required confessions.

For years, people around the world, the West in particular, had been told that six million Jews were systematically murdered by Germans in concentration camps during World War Two. No scientifically valid proofs were ever produced for the fantastic charge of six million. The only basis for the fantastic figure is an affidavit of 26 November 1945, extracted from a Nazi group leader - Dr. Wilhelm Höttl - not that he knew but that SS officer Adolf Eichmann* had told him in August 1944, in Budapest, that approximately four million Jews had been killed in the various extermination camps, while an additional two million met death in other ways. Even though Eichmann himself during the trial, and even when facing death, never corroborated this assertion. And even though it violated all norms of probability, it has eagerly been trumpeted throughout the world as gospel truth... and anyone questioning it has been smeared as a neo-Nazi or an anti-Semite.

Dr. William Höttl

SS-Obersturmbannführer Adolf Eichmann

Eichmann himself, it should be noted, later called the whole Höttl story "nonsense," vigorously denied having ever made the alleged

* The Zionists assert that Adolf Eichmann was one of the most pivotal actors in the deportation of European Jewry during the Holocaust™.

In 1934, with the rank of SS-Scharführer (Sergeant) Eichmann joined the Security Service Main Office (Sicherheitsdienst (SD)-Hauptamt). Eichmann led the Central Office beginning in October 1939. Here he met with less "success," particularly as deportation of Jews began to replace emigration as a strategy for a "Jew-free" Germany. In this area, Eichmann was to play a pivotal role.

After the foundation of the Reich Main Security Office (German: Reichssicherheitshauptamt or RSHA) in September 1939, Eichmann moved from the SD to the Gestapo and became director of RSHA section (Referat) IV D 4 (Clearing Activities, or Räumungsangelegenheiten) (1940). After March 1941, he became director of section IV B 4 (Jewish Affairs, or Judenreferat).

In the autumn of 1941, Eichmann, then an SS-Obersturmbannführer (Lieutenant Colonel) and the chief of RSHA section IV B 4, took part in discussions in which the annihilation of the European Jews was planned. Since Eichmann was to be in charge of transporting Jews from all over Europe to the killing centers, RSHA chief Reinhard Heydrich asked Eichmann to prepare a presentation for the Wannsee Conference. At the conference, RSHA officials advised the appropriate government and Nazi Party agencies on the implementation of the "Final Solution." Eichmann also relayed these plans to his network of officials who would help him to carry out deportation efforts in German-occupied areas and in Germany's Axis partners.

At war's end, Eichmann found himself in U.S. custody, but escaped in 1946. In the end, he succeeded, with the help of Catholic Church officials, in fleeing to Argentina. There he lived under a number of aliases, most famously Ricardo Klement. In 1960, agents of the Israeli Security Intelligence Service (ISIS or Mossad) abducted Eichmann and brought him to Israel to stand trial. The proceedings before a district court in Jerusalem drew international attention, and historians roundly credit coverage of the trial (famously in Hannah Arendt's Eichmann in Jerusalem) with awakening public interest in the Holocaust™.

On 15 December 1961, Eichmann was found guilty of crimes against the Jewish people. He was hanged at midnight between May 31st and June 1st, 1962. Jewish authorities cremated his remains and scattered his ashes in the sea beyond Israeli boundary waters.

remark, and speculated that Höttl may have picked up the figure from the radio or a newspaper report. This statement was published in a book (by New York: Farrar, Straus and Giroux) in 1983, pages 117-118. This remark has also been confirmed by the Institute for Historical Review. If it were not for Wilhelm Höttl's role in branding into the world's consciousness the trademark six million figure, his place in world history would likely be little more than a footnote.

Besides this unproven claim, there has never been any conclusive evidence to suggest there were ever six million Jews being systematically murdered in German-run concentration camps.

During the Nuremberg IMT, the SS was designated as a criminal organization, which meant that every member of the SS was automatically a war criminal... - even the members of the Waffen SS who fought in battle. However, Laurence Rees† wrote that no attempt was ever made to enforce the view that the mere act of working in the SS at Auschwitz was a war crime.

After the war, Poland became a communist country under the domination of the Soviet Union and the prosecution of the SS men who worked in what is now Poland were turned over to the Polish government. Only 789 members of the Auschwitz staff ever faced justice according to Laurence Rees... - and 673 of them were tried in Polish courts. Here now, for all the world to see, is a scanned image of an International Red Cross document - an official documented figure suggesting the Holocaust™ never happened precisely the way we have been led to believe by academics and the media. Sealed and guarded since the end of World War Two.

At Arolsen, Germany, the official Red Cross records reveal an actual figure [of 271, 301 total deaths] coming out of that time frame which is not even close to the six million mark.

Aufschlußreicher Bescheid von 1984.

The document which shows death records from the Nazi concentration camps, is stored at Arolsen

One of the most startling revelations contained in the records is that the Nazis agreed to let Red Cross workers into German concentration camps in March 1945, to try to ensure the prisoner's safety, according to the documents. To this day, the International Red Cross has never made a claim that six million Jews were murdered in concentration camps. In fact, in one of the most recent statements given by the Red Cross back in 2007,* they give recognition to the fact that suffering did

* The Nazi genocide and other persecutions: 25-10-2007 Statement: Document adopted by the ICRC Assembly on 27 April 2006.

The genocide of the Jews and Gypsies and other persecutions carried out under the Third Reich were the cause of unspeakable suffering. That such events were allowed to happen is the greatest failure of Western civilization.

This failure is also that of the Red Cross as a whole, but it weighs most heavily on the ICRC given the organization's specific mission and its position within the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement. Millions of men, women and children – mainly Jews, but also Gypsies, the handicapped and all those whom the regime considered as opponents or resistance fighters – were exterminated in cold blood, in atrocious conditions, without the ICRC being able to do anything to protect them. Never had the organization's guiding principles been so outrageously flouted, in a total perversion of moral values that resulted in the industrialization of death. For the survivors and the take place under the Third Reich - they give recognition to the fact that millions of people of all nationalities died as a result of war in the areas consisting of Germany, France and Poland. Both civilians and otherwise... but they do not shine any light on the claim of six million Jews being murdered.

15 March 1939 marks the first official hostile action on the part of Hitler.

May 1945 marks the mass surrender of Nazis across Europe - and effectively bows Nazi Germany out of the war.

This means - the German war machine, allegedly responsible for killing six million Jews on the low side was functioning for five years. Not including casualties of war, going simply with the notion that six million Jews died at Nazi concentration camps...

5 years = 1826 days.

43,824 hours = 2,629,440 minutes.

families of the victims, the wounds inflicted by these events remain open to this day.

This failure is aggravated by the fact that the ICRC did not do everything in its power to put an end to the persecutions and help the victims. The organization remained a prisoner of its traditional procedures and of the overly narrow legal framework in which it operated. Having abandoned the idea of public condemnation – convinced as it was that this would not change the course of events, fearing that it would jeopardize the activities it was carrying out for other victims, especially prisoners of war, and not wishing to exacerbate Switzerland's relations with the belligerent States – the ICRC essentially relied on its delegates to make confidential representations to the authorities of the Reich or its satellites. However, these delegates had no access to the corridors of power. Only towards the end of the war did the ICRC's leaders make high-level representations to certain leaders of the Reich and its satellites.

In the words of Jean-Claude Favez, who made the most thorough independent study of the ICRC's efforts to help the victims of Nazi persecution and who, to that end, was granted unlimited access to the ICRC's archives, the organization "did not take the supreme risk of throwing the full weight of its moral authority into the scales on behalf of these particular victims."

Having confined itself to two options – that of the very limited aid operation it was carrying out for the victims of Nazi persecution, with derisory results in regard to the situation of the victims and no impact on the genocide, and that of public condemnation, an ultimate weapon that the ICRC felt it could not use, the organization was unable – until the last months of the war – to make determined, sustained, high-level diplomatic representations to the leaders of the Reich or to those of its allies or satellites, not all of whom shared the destructive fanaticism of Nazi dignitaries.<sup>2</sup>

Such approaches should have been attempted, even if it could be doubted that the desired results would be achieved. For if crime meets with no protest – were it only by means of confidential representations – if repeated atrocities meet with no condemnation – even if no material sanctions are imposed – then it is to be feared that the moral values underlying international humanitarian law will eventually wither away.

With this in mind, the ICRC today regrets its past errors and omissions. This failure will remain engraved in the organization's memory, as will the brave acts undertaken by many of its delegates at the time.

While history cannot be rewritten, the ICRC intends to honour the victims of Nazi persecution by fighting for a world in which the dignity of every man, woman and child is respected in all circumstances.

2. "The question may therefore be asked why between, on the one hand, the aid operation, derisory from the point of view of the victims, [...] and on the other the public appeal, a weapon of last resort which the ICRC [...] felt it could not use, no diplomatic initiative was launched that was both worthy of the drama being enacted before everyone's eyes and based on a precise calculation of risks, such as a protest letter to Hitler or Himmler, or better still a mission by Huber or Burckhardt to Berlin or Berchtesgaden." (Favez, 1999, op. cit ., p. 279)

6 million Jews divided by 2,629,440 minutes = 2.281 Jews per minute.

Right from the get-go, Hitler would have had to kill at least more than one Jew every thirty seconds! not to mention that Auschwitz, where the vast majority of organized killing is said to have taken place, did not have a gas chamber in operation until mid-1943... which makes the mathematics even more impressive. We will have a closer look at the gas chambers later on...

However, assuming the number six million is still correct, we will put it to further analysis...: An approach based on the number of Jews in the world never comes close to six million murdered Jews.

Assessing the number of Jews in the world on the basis of unsuspecting Jewish sources - the World Almanac - featuring information from the American Jewish Committee and the Statistical Bureau of the Jewish Synagogue Council of America.

As you can see, despite being a slight variation "during the war," the number of Jews actually increased. That's not to say that Jews were not amongst casualties of war... but it certainly puts a dent in the fantastical figure of six million Jews being systematically murdered.

In the year 2000, the Israeli government officially claimed there were one million Holocaust™ survivors, mostly Jewish, who are in need of financial assistance. The number one million is corroborated close enough by other Jewish sources. "Survivor" implies "someone escapes by the skin of one's teeth" - and it certainly is terrible that so many are in financial need!

The number "one million," whether its accurate or not, has never really been clear. For a better perspective on this let us consider the mathematics:

The number of survivors alive in 2000 is said to be 1,000,000.

The average lifespan for Europeans in 2000 was about 75 years.

The year 2000 was 55 years after World War Two.

Assuming Holocaust™ survivors ranged from the new-born to the elderly, then we can safely say that on average 55/75th of the survivors have died since 1945.

And the number alive in 2000 equals 20/75th of the number 1,000,000.

Survivors alive in 2000 = 1,000,000.

Average lifespan for Europeans in 2000 = 75 years.

The year 2000 = 55 years after World War Two.

55/75th 1,000,000 survivors have died since 1945.

20/75th 1,000,000 survivors still alive in 2000.

School algebra says that if there were one million in the year 2000, then there would have been about 3.75 million Holocaust™ survivors back in 1945.

About 3,750,000 survivors back in 1945.

3,750,000 survivors alive in 1945 is a huge number... but wait, it gets worse: One million is a conveniently round number... perhaps it was an early estimate and in error in 2004! Israelists use a more refined number... still alive in that year - 1,092,000.

Survivors alive in 2004 = 1,092,000.

Average lifespan for Europeans in 2000 = 75 years.

The year 2004 = 59 years after 1945.

59/75th 1,000,000 survivors have died since 1945.

16/75th 1,000,000 survivors still alive in 2004.

Using the same mathematics we are left with the figure of 5,118,750 survivors back in 1945. A more brazen proof of the devastating fantasy of the six million figure is the rising number of Jewish survivors who claim indemnities from West Germany by 31 March 1956. Germany had settled 400,000 such claims and another 852,812 were pending.

But by 30 June 1965, the survivors claiming indemnities had almost triples! By that date, 3,375,020 were registered with the West German Republic as having suffered under but survived the Nazis to claim indemnities for physical or psychological suffering allegedly incurred between 1939 and 1945.

Taken in Buchenwald just after its liberation by the photographer Margaret Bourke-White.

Between 1953 and 1992, the Federal Republic of West Germany paid out more than 35 Billion dollars in reparations to the Jewish State and to millions of individual victims of National Socialism.

How did this remarkable program get started?

How lucrative has it been?

What does it suggest about the six million figure? and what are its social and political implications?

We must conclude the official numbers asserted for purposes of claiming compensation are either lies for the purpose of extortion or the number six million was a huge exaggeration.

"The alleged Hitlerian gas chambers and the alleged genocide of the Jews form one and the same historical lie, which permitted a gigantic financial swindle whose chief beneficiaries have been the State of Israel and international Zionism, and whose main victims have been the German people and the Palestinian people as a whole."

Part Three Gas Chambers and Death Camps

"If the Holocaust™ that you talk about was real, why don't you allow the subject to be studied? Once can [ ] research any issue, except for this issue, which is sealed. It is a black box, which they do not allow to be opened or re-examined. They do this in order to exploit it."

Mahmoud Ahmadinejad,
Former President of Iran, September 2009

The gas chamber allegation in regards to the Jewish Holocaust™ is perhaps the hardest to believe. Auschwitz concentration camp, which is said to have consisted of work camps and death camps... - the general belief being pushed is that from 1940 to 1945, Auschwitz II-Birkenau went on to become a major site of what has been come to be called the "Nazi Final Solution to the Jewish Question."

It is said that large-scale gas chambers designed for mass killing were used by Nazi Germany as part of their alleged Genocide program. The chemical being used in these gas chambers for the purpose of killing is said to have been Zyklon B.

From here, the corpses are said to have been taken to the crematorium for the cremation process... -in which the corpses would be burned and discarded of.

Crematorium at Auschwitz I - Krema I - reconstructed ovens and brick chimney.

It is said that 1.2 million Jews went through the gassing and burning process at Auschwitz. This is what Holocaust™ academics are calling "the official story."

This density of only 1680 persons implies no resistance at all. It implies total cooperation. Its hard to believe that this many people would go in there without resistance... because its a little under 1 sq. ft per person... - which might make people a little skeptical about the "shower story," especially since there were no soap dispensers.

This density would require military discipline and training.

Its hard to believe that they could get 2000 to move all the way to the back [of the crematorium] so tightly, especially since we are led to believe that Jews were running the operation - see illustration following: Auschwitz - original plan of Crematorium II - featuring the back circled.

* A kapo or prisoner functionary (German: Funktionshäftling) was a prisoner in a Nazi concentration camp who was assigned by the SS guards to supervise forced labor or carry out administrative tasks. Also called "prisoner self-administration," the prisoner functionary system minimized costs by allowing camps to function with fewer SS personnel. The system was designed to turn victim against victim, as the prisoner functionaries were pitted against their fellow prisoners in order to maintain the favor of their SS guards. If they were derelict, they would be returned to the status of ordinary prisoners and be subject to other kapos. Many prisoner functionaries were recruited from the ranks of violent criminal gangs rather than from the more numerous political, religious and racial prisoners; those were known for their brutality toward other prisoners. This brutality was tolerated by the SS and was an integral part of the camp system.

Prisoner functionaries were spared physical abuse and hard labor, provided they performed their duties to the satisfaction of the SS guards. They also had access to certain privileges, such as civilian clothes and a private room. While the Germans commonly called them kapos, the official government term for prisoner functionaries was Funktionshäftling.

There's a fascinating book called "Am I a Murderer?" by ♀ Calel Perechodnik. The author, a Jew, was a Jewish Ghetto policeman in Poland - he helped round up other Jews and put them on trains to the camps.

He contends that the Nazis specifically targeted less observant Jews (such as himself) to be Capos, on the theory that they would take out their rage on their more observant brethren. Subconsciously, if not consciously, they blamed the more visible Jews for attracting the attention of the Nazis and bringing persecution down on the less observant Jews as well.

He also mentions they were told that if they were deemed wanting in their job, they and/or their family would be put on the train themselves.

Auschwitz - original plan of Crematorium II.

Dario Gabbai:

"But inside the crematorium were only a couple of SS - mumbles..."

This level of crowding would take complete compliance - and lots of practice.

The size of morgue 1 - the alleged gas chamber - of crematoriums II & III at Auschwitz-Birkenau ( $210 \text{ m}^2$  (2263 sq. ft)).

The size of the average person: 50 cm wide (1.6 ft) X 25 cm deep (0.8 ft).

Hence:  $(7/0.5 =) 14 \text{ per row}$ ,  $(30/0.25 =) 120 \text{ rows} = 1680 \text{ persons}$  ( $8/\text{m}^2$ )\* lined up like sardines in a can, which is achievable only with military discipline, total compliance of all, and after lots of practicing.

*Ignoring 7 concrete pillars and 4 claimed introduction columns (error of 1.5%). If adding, 30% cooperative, well-drilled children, the number could theoretically have reached 2000 persons.

At some point during the gassing operation, people would probably panick or cause a revolt and surge towards the door. How hard could they push?

Auschwitz - original plan of Crematorium II - an arrow points to the door.

How hard could people push on this door? And what kind of door was used? To find out, we go to the U.S. Memorial website - and look-up "gassing operations" and scroll down to "Further Reading" to find the author Jean-Claude Pressac in his book: Auschwitz: Technique and operation of the gas chambers.

Doors of an alleged "gas chamber" of Auschwitz I (main camp) for the killing of people with the Zyklon B gas.

We find numerous photos of the types of doors being used, which were made from flimsy timber. Do you chose to believe that 1.2 million people systematically, in over-crowded lots of 2000, were complicit in their own deaths!? as to not resist!? not even once!?

Jean-Claude Pressac's book has a photo of the elevator as well.

Auschwitz - original plan of Crematorium II - the elevator has been marked with a dark square.

Document 20: Photograph [PMO neg. no. 205/37] of a provisional 300 kg capacity goods hoist used in Krematorium II [9], found in the Bauhof in 1945.

The elevator which was apparently used to take the corpses from the gassing room to the crematorium upstairs. However, it seems that the elevator had a maximum capacity of 300 kilos (661 lbs)... so the bodies would apparently go on the circled platform - see illustration below.

The following illustration shows two triangular bars... attached at the bottom one to each end of the platform - see illustration above...

The following illustration shows two triangular bars... attached at the top to a stabilizing piece of wood - see illustration below.

With 2000 bodies in the basement and a capacity of 300 kilos... it would take 280 trips up-and-down, seven bodies at a time. This goes to show that the needed time-frame to get kill all of these Jews could never have been met... because discarding of the bodies would have been too time consuming.

The exact number of victims at Auschwitz is difficult to fix with certainty as many prisoners were never registered and much evidence was destroyed by the SS in the final days of the war. However, shortly following the camp's take-over - the Soviet government stated that four million people had been killed on the site - a figure now regarded as greatly exaggerated, even by the Jewish community.

However, the figure that was accepted by the Jewish community was from unproven claims made by Dr. Wilhelm Höttl - as mentioned earlier - that 2,500,000 Jews had been killed in gas chambers - and about half-a-million had died of other causes. Later, he wrote, I regard

2.5 million far to high - even Auschwitz had limits to its destructive possibilities. Essentially, he was going back on claims made during the Nuremberg Trials.

◊ Raul Hilberg's '1961 work The Destruction of the European Jews* estimated the number of Jews killed at Auschwitz at a maximum of one million Jewish victims. As you can see, the more-and-more people have looked into the mathematics regarding these mass killings, the smaller these numbers have gotten over time. The point being is - there is not official number of Jews killed at Auschwitz, let alone during World War Two. There are just different official numbers used by different groups of people... - this much is fact! However, claiming such things usually results in ridicule, persecution, and hollow claims of anti-Semitism and Holocaust™ denial. Any attempts of revision or historical facts checking of these events also results in similar criticisms.

Auschwitz - original plan of Crematorium II - the cremation ovens have been marked with a dark oval.

In the Auschwitz crematorium.

The cremation process is perhaps the most unbelievable part of the operation. 15 individual crematoriums were in Auschwitz, which may seem like a lot, but given the capabilities of these small and flimsy ovens there is just no possible way there would have been an ability to dispose of 2000 bodies at a time.

It takes just over an hour to cremate a body using the crematoriums we use today, which burn at a lot higher temperature. In fact, to put it into perspective, it would have taken a week to dispose of all 2000 bodies properly, which puts the Auschwitz gas chamber story into question - because the belief that 2500 bodies were killed and disposed of at a time is the only way to make the mathematics work.

Let's look at it like this:

In Hour One, 2000 Jews are striped, gassed and killed.

And, at this snail's pace, by Hour 133, or six days later, 15 Jews are cremated - with five left to go.

So, you can't do another gassing until the sixth day, because there is nowhere to put the bodies.

1 hour / 133 hours

The main point here is, the Germans would never have had a system with a ratio like this: 1 hour / 133 hours.

1 killing / 133 cremations

Where the cremation holds up the killing process by almost a week.

ILLUSTRATIONS FOR THE FOLLOWING SEGMENT

Another way to look at it - the 15 ovens take about a row of bodies in an hour... but you have 121 rows of bodies left.

How does the kapo make the story work?

Female Voice of Interviewer (interviewing Dario Gabbai):

So, after taking the bodies out of the gas chamber and putting them on these elevators... then what would happen?

Dario Gabbai:

Dario Gabbai:

Unintelligible - two other people - you know - who would that would putting in stretches... - three, four of them in the stretchers and put them in the ovens -coughs.

Narrator (continuing narration):

He tries to make it work by claiming that three of four bodies are put into an opening at a time!

Female Voice of Interviewer:

How many people were - ah - were you able to put inside of each oven?

Dario Gabbai:

Narrator (continuing narration):

How else does he make it work?

Female Voice of Interviewer:

And - uh - how long would it take to burn...

Twenty-to-thirty minutes... so...

* ◊ Raul Hilberg (2 June 1926 – 4 August 2007) was an Austrian-born American political scientist and historian. He was widely considered to be the world's preeminent scholar of the Holocaust™, and his three-volume, 1273-page magnum opus, The Destruction of the European Jews, is regarded as a seminal study of the Nazi Final Solution.

Narrator (continuing narration):

He makes the story work by saying that it takes twenty-to-thirty minutes to cremate three-to-four bodies. Whereas we said that it takes about one hour for one body with a much better quality furnace. This is an impossibility. Regardless of light-weight the inmates may have been because stacking the bodies on top of each other would have also affected the burning rate as a body is over 60% water - the machines just would not have functioned properly and it would have taken around four hours to burn four bodies.

Also, he [Dario Gabbai] lies about the cremation rate to obscure the fact that fifteen ovens isn't enough to handle 2000 bodies. And when that's established, surely the number 1-to-1.2 million can't be accurate either. What makes it even more unbelievable is that Holocaust™ historians tell us that the crematoriums were not in use until mid-1943* - ending in 1944† - which means there was only a year-and-a-half for all of these bodies to go through the process.

This is Dr. Carlo Mattogno - in his book, Auschwitz: The Case for Sanity, he shows how three-to-four bodies would not have fit into the opening - and the vaporizing water - about 360 liters for twelve bodies‡ - would overwhelm the oven, bringing the temperature down to much for it to function as it normally would.§

We know the setting for Auschwitz was made in the theme of a community - which had some very unusual facilities within - ones which were made available for prisoners, like a swimming pool (see no. 17); a theater for the orchestra and plays (see no. 15); in fact, they even had a maternity ward, a camp library, an art studio, a brothel, a religious facility, a sauna, a soccer field, and more... This is all fact which is backed up by the Holocaust™ Museum itself.

One might be inclined to ask, "Why would they build facilities like this for prisoners in a death camp?" or better yet, "Why would they put the gas chamber and crematorium next to the hospital?" Yet again, the answer is simple, historical documents tell us that almost all prisoners went to the gas chamber on arrival, which would defeat the purpose of housing them... let alone giving them swimming pools and a soccer field. The reason is - because it was not a death camp! it was a work camp. The gas chamber being used was not for the purpose of genocide... but for the purpose of delousing.

Dr. Charles Larson,* a highly regarded U.S. pathologist who was appointed by the Judge Advocate General's department to investigate the conditions and the cause of deaths in the camps, concluded after * Dr. Charles Larson, one of America's leading forensic pathologists, who was with the U.S. Army's Judge Advocate General's Department (JAGD), performed autopsies on hundreds of bodies without finding any that showed evidence of poison gas. He also examined gassing victims at the camp, saying "only relatively few of the inmates I personally examined at Dachau were murdered in this manner."

As Dr. Larson and other Allied medical men discovered, the chief cause of death at Dachau, Belsen and the other camps was disease, above all typhus, an old and terrible scourge of mankind that until recently flourished in places where populations were crowded together in circumstances where public health measures were unknown or had broken down. Such was the case in the overcrowded internment camps in Germany at war's end, where, despite such measures as systematic delousing, quarantine of the sick and cremation of the dead, the virtual collapse of Germany's food, transport, and public health systems led to catastrophe.

overseeing thousands of autopsies that "not one case of death by poison gas was found." The chief cause of death in labour camps, as found by Dr. Charles Larson, was typhus - because "typhus was a wide-spread and serious health threat during World War Two." German engineers and chemists were commissioned to develop a means to counter the typhus epidemic and minimize the loss of life.

Evidence provided by Dr. Charles Larson was deliberately ignored by the Nuremberg court.

Rickettsial pox is an illness that is caused by bacteria of the Rickettsia genus. Physician Robert Huebner and self-trained entomologist Charles Pomerantz played major roles in identifying the etiology of the disease after an outbreak in 1946 in a New York City apartment complex, documented in medical writer Berton Roueche's short story, "The Alerting of Mr. Pomerantz."

Although it is not transmitted by a tick (a characteristic of spotted fever), the bacteria is a part of the spotted fever group of Rickettsia, and so this condition is often classified with that group.

Typhus is any of several similar diseases caused by Rickettsia bacteria.† The name comes from the Greek word typhus (τύφος) meaning smoky or hazy, describing the state of mind of those affected with typhus. The causative organism Rickettsia is an obligate intracellular parasitic bacterium that cannot survive long outside living cells.

Typhus should not be confused with "typhoid fever," while "typhoid" means "typhus-like," the diseases are distinct and caused by different genera of bacteria. Zyklon B was used to disinfect the clothing of the prisoners in an attempt to prevent "typhus," which is spread by body lice.

There was a huge epidemic of typhus at Auschwitz - and what actually happened was that procedures aimed at holding various diseases in check broke down under the pressures of war. The typhus epidemics that raged through the camps in both the First and Second World Wars killed many thousands.

If you suffer from typhus, your body wastes away and you look as if you are starving to death. Typhus is the more logical reason for the severely emaciated prisoners and corpses.

At the western end of the crematorium building which houses the so-called gas chamber disguised as a shower room, one can today see and walk through four delousing chambers which were used to fumigate clothing. The only explanation regarding these chambers is a sign above them - also in five languages - which simply says "fumigation cubicles" (in English) and "Begasungskabinen" (in German).

Eventually, typhus spread to the concentration camps in Germany in December 1944 - and this caused many deaths in the last months of the war, particularly in the Bergen-Belsen camp, where 35,000 prisoners died in only two months time.

Bergen-Belsen concentration camp

Half of all the deaths in the Dachau concentration camp were in the last six months of the war, when the typhus epidemic was out of control there.

Dachau concentration camp

One method that was used to end the typhus epidemics at Auschwitz-Birkenau was the gassing of the sick prisoners. On 29 August 1942, there were 746 prisoners from the Birkenau camp hospital who were gassed to kill body lice was the only effective means of controlling the spread of typhus.*

The most appealing picture associated with showers at Auschwitz is the photo that Jewish men wet from the water entering the drying chamber. It is the Zionist deceivers who want the public to think of gas chambers where Jews were washed under running water.

* Zyklon-B was used at Auschwitz-Birkenau for gassing the Jews, and it was also used to disinfect the clothing of the prisoners in an attempt to prevent typhus which is spread by body lice. The German word for a room where clothing was disinfected with Zyklon-B was "Gaskammer" - the same term that is misused by German-speaking Holocaust™ historians today to mean a homicidal gas chamber.

In spite of all the effort to prevent typhus, there were two serious epidemics, one in the Summer of 1942 and another in the Summer of 1943. On 23 July 1942, Commandant Höss ordered the whole Birkenau camp to be quarantined for fear that the epidemic would spread. On 7 July 1943, he again decreed that the Birkenau camp was off-limits to the German soldiers who were the camp administrators. The disinfectant gassing of the Jews continued even while the camp was quarantined because of typhus.

Eventually, typhus spread to the concentration camps in Germany in December 1944 and this caused many deaths in the last months of the war, particularly in the Bergen-Belsen camp where 35,000 prisoners died in only two months time. Half of all the deaths in the Dachau concentration camp were in the last six months of the war when a typhus epidemic was out of control there.

One method that was used to end the typhus epidemics at Auschwitz-Birkenau was the disinfectant gassing of the sick prisoners. On 29 August 1942, there were 746 prisoners from the Birkenau camp hospital who were gassed. The prisoners, though, considered the hospital to be the anteroom of a homicidal gas chamber - and the fear of being gassed to death kept many of them from going to the infirmary which caused even more deaths.

Tesch/Stabenow was founded in 1924 in Hamburg (Germany) - in 1925, the firm became the only distributor of Zyklon B [on behalf of Degesch] for the region [east of the Elbe]. On 3 September 1945, the two owners of the company - Bruno Tesch and director Karl Weinbacher... and employee Joachim Drosihn - were tried before a British military court: It was argued that the supply of Zyklon B exceeded what was needed for the purpose of delousing... therefore, they must have known all about the gas chamber.

In 1946, both [Tesch and Weinbacher] were convicted [in the Curiohaus trial*] and hung to death.†

Author's Note

Two German firms, Tesch/Stabenow and Degesch, produced Zyklon gas after they acquired the patent from Farben. Tesch supplied two tons a month, and Degesch three quarters of a ton. The firms that produced the gas already had extensive experience in fumigation.

In March 1919 Deutsche Gesellschaft für Schädlingsbekämpfung mbH (Degesch, lit. "German Limited Company for Pest Control") was founded by a consortium of German chemical companies including Degussa, and initially led by chemistry Nobel laureate Fritz Haber. Haber had World War I experience in the development of poison gas for the German chemical warfare program. At Degesch, Ferdinand Flury developed Zyklon A in 1920. Its development was a major advance over previous methods of delivering hydrocyanic acid for pest control because of its improved chemical stability and the presence of a warning odorant. Walter Heerd, Bruno Tesch and Gerhard Peters were all collaborators of Fritz Haber working at the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute for Physical Chemistry and Electrochemistry at Berlin-Dahlem. Out of this group of Haber assistants, Walter Heerd was named the official inventor of Zyklon B in a Degesch patent application from 20 June 1922 (number DE 438818). Reichspatentamt awarded the patent on 27 December 1926.

* From 1946 to 1948, war crime trials were held by the British Armed Forces in the Curiohaus, an office building which is named after Johann Carl Daniel Curio. Located in Rotherbaum's Rothenbaumchaussee 15, it survived the bombing of Hamburg.

† The charge was that Tesch, "at Hamburg, Germany, between 1 January 1941 and 31 March 1945, in violation of the laws and usages of war, did supply poison gas used for the extermination of allied nationals interned in concentration camps, well knowing that the said gas was to be so used" in violation of Article 46 of the Hague Convention of 1907. One of the witnesses called by the prosecution was SS Rottenführer Perry Broad, who had worked in the political department in Auschwitz. Tesch and Weinbacher were condemned to death; Drosihn was acquitted. (The director of Degesch received five years in prison.)

Tesch and Weinbacher were executed by hanging on 16 May 1946 by Albert Pierpoint in Hamelin Prison.

For decades, U.S. health authorities used noxious, often toxic chemicals to delouse Mexicans seeking to cross the border into the United States.

From 1929 onwards the U.S. used Zyklon B to disinfect the freight trains and clothes of Mexican immigrants entering the U.S. Farm Securities Administration photographer Marion Post Wolcott recorded the use of cyanide gas and Zyklon B by the Public Health Service at the New Orleans Quarantine Station during the 1930s.

In early 1942, Zyklon B had emerged as the preferred extermination tool of the Nazi regime for both the Auschwitz-Birkenau and Majdanek extermination camps.

Holocaust deniers claim that Zyklon B gas was not used in gas chambers for the purpose of mass extermination.

Part Four Motivations

Two sides of the same coin.

Goebbels had a special coin minted to celebrate Zionism.

In 1933 and 1934 The SS Untersturmführer Leopold Itz von Mildenstein from the SS Office for Jewish Affairs, traveled to Palestine on fact finding missions and he was accompanied on these tours by a number of Zionist officials. Although his first tour was planned for five months, von Mildenstein stayed over 6 months. He became welcome guest at many Kibbutz Farms.

His PRO-Zionist report, later printed in the Reichspropaganda Ministry Official magazine 'ANGRIFF' with the title 'A Nazi travels to Palestine' (Ein Nazi fährt nach Palästina) was so filled with praise and compliments about the work being done by the German Jewish settlers in Palestine that Goebbels had a special coin minted in honour of the Co-operation. The coin had a Star of David on one side and a Swastika on the other side. In recognition of this coin, Palestine's largest fruit growing firm decorated its placard advertising signs for Jaffa Oranges, with a huge portrait of King David flanked by Swastika flags."

It's no secret that Zionism embraced political expediency to advance the cause of carving an Israel from the land of its native inhabitants. In his 1983 book, Zionism in the Age of the Dictators, [American Trotskyist] ♦ Lenni Brenner shows that 20th century Zionists observed shockingly few limits to their expediency - not surprisingly, the book received little coverage in the American media. Now, in 51 Documents: Zionist Collaboration with the Nazis, Brenner has compiled a wide variety of letters, statements, articles, and judgments, some of which appeared in his earlier book, by a broad array of activists and authors. That document - Zionist cooperation with the Nazis! on the face of it the notion seems absurd, however, Brenner presents the case made in many Zionists own words, that the Nazi agenda of expelling the Jews from Germany fit nicely with the Zionist plan for enticing those Jews to settle in Palestine and creating a new Jewish nation.

He reconquered his family's ancestral home city of Riyadh in 1902, starting three decades of conquests that made him the ruler of nearly all of central Arabia. He consolidated his control over the Najd in 1922, then conquered the Hejaz in 1925. He extended his dominions into the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia in 1932. The House of Saud refers to the royal family of Saudi Arabia. While the modern nation of Saudi Arabia was established in 1932, the House of Saud has been around for much longer. Prior to Ibn Saud, this family ruled the Nejd and often came into conflict with the Ottoman Empire and the Rashidis. The House of Saud is also linked with the vile sect of Wahhabism through the marriage of the son of Muhammad ibn Saud with the daughter of Muhammad ibn Abd al Wahhab in 1744 - a Sunni Muslim preacher and scholar from Nejd in central Arabia who attempted to bring about a revival of Islam in what he believed was its simplest and original form.

Ibn 'Abd al-Wahhab's pact with Muhammad ibn Saud helped to establish the Emirate of Diriyah, the first Saudi state, and began a dynastic alliance and power-sharing arrangement between their families which continues to the present day in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia. The Al ash-Sheikh, Saudi Arabia's leading religious family, are the descendants of Ibn 'Abd al-Wahhab, and have historically led the ulama in the Saudi state, dominating the state's clerical institutions

The 18th century founder of the Wahhabi sect, Muhammed ibn Abd Al Wahhab, had his origin from the Jewish community of Turkey. His grandfather was a Turkish Jew belonging to the Doenmeh community, as the "secret Jews" of Turkey were known who collaborated with secular dictator, Mustafa Kemal Atatürk (himself a Doenmeh) to secularize Turkey. The Doenmeh Jews are a very manipulative and dangerous community.

Mustafa Kemal Atatürk was founder of the Republic of Turkey and the consummator of the Armenian Genocide (also known as the Armenian Holocaust or Armenian Massacre) which refers to the mass relocation and related deaths of Armenians during the Young Turks government of the Ottoman Empire from 1915 to 1917.

‡ ♦ Ze'ev Jabotinsky, MBE (Hebrew: זאב ז'בוטינסקי; born Vladimir Yevgenyevich Zhabotinsky, 18 October 1880, Odessa – 4 August 1940, Hunter, New York), was a Russian Jewish Revisionist Zionist leader, author, poet, orator, soldier and founder of the Jewish Self-Defense Organization in Odessa. With ♦ Joseph Trumpeldor, he co-founded the Jewish Legion of the British army in World War One.

was the founder of Zionist Revisionism and one of the leaders at that time of the World Zionist Organization - he said, "No... no... no...! You can't just let the British take away Jordan from the so-called Jewish national home because what that'll do is convince the Arabs is that - Hey! we got them to give up... we got the British to give up Jordan to us - if we keep on fighting, we'll get them to give up the rest of Palestine. You gotta say NO! Okay. You gotta demand that the British revise their policy." So that's how they got the name "Zionist Revisionist." Okay. In other words, he understood, in 1922, a central fact about Zionism - which is... that... - and he wrote an article about its - uh - called The Iron Wall - We... - uh - and the Arabs...* - in which he said, "Look! let's tell it like... - and I'm paraphrasing - um - you know - but, let's tell it like it is...: We're a colonial movement!" Okay! Well... if you look at the history of colonialism - anywhere in the world - the natives always fight the colonials. Okay - and they keep fighting until it's impossible for them to win... - like the Indians in the United States, you know, fought for two centuries and - - finally reconciled themselves when it was impossible for them to win. So... we have to have an "iron wall" - what he meant was an "iron wall of bayonets" - okay - in order to build Zionism in Palestine. And we can't give up an inch.

★ David Yisraeli, a member of the Stern Gang,† wrote the following in late-1940, as part of a proposal to Hitler. It was delivered in 1941 to two German diplomats in Lebanon:

★ Ze'ev Jabotinsky

★ Joseph Trumpeldor

★ Joseph Trumpeldor (21 November 1880 – 1 March 1920, Hebrew: יַעֲזָר טְרַפְּלְדוֹר), was an early Zionist activist and war hero. He helped organize the Zion Mule Corps and bring Jewish immigrants to Israel. Trumpeldor died defending the settlement of Tel Hai in 1920 and subsequently became a Zionist national hero. According to a standard account, to him are attributed the last words, reminiscent of Horace: "It does not matter, it is good to die for our country."

* The Iron Wall - We and the Arabs by Vladimir Ze'ev Jabotinsky (4 November 1923) was originally published in Russian, the language in which Jabotinsky wrote for the Russian press. He wrote the essay after the British Colonial Secretary Winston Churchill prohibited Zionist settlement on the east bank of the Jordan River, and formed the Zionist Revisionist party after writing it.

Jabotinsky argued that the Palestinian Arabs would not agree to a Jewish majority in Palestine, and that "Zionist colonization must either stop, or else proceed regardless of the native population. Which means that it can proceed and develop only under the protection of a power that is independent of the native population – behind an iron wall, which the native population cannot breach." The only solution to achieve peace and a Jewish state in the Land of Israel, he argued, would be for Jews to first establish a strong Jewish state, which would eventually prompt the Arabs to "drop their extremist leaders, whose watchword is 'never!' and pass the leadership to the moderate groups, who will approach us with a proposal that we should both agree to mutual concessions."

A week following the publication of this essay, Jabotinsky followed with The Ethics of the Iron Wall, in which he argued that morality comes before everything else, and that Zionism is "moral and just," since it subscribes to "national self-determination" as a "sacred principle," which Arabs may also enjoy.

† Lehi (Hebrew: לֶחֶם חִרּוֹת יִשְׂרָאֵל – Lohamei Herut Israel – Lehi, "Fighters for the Freedom of Israel – Lehi"), often known pejoratively as the Stern Gang, was a Zionist paramilitary organization founded by Avraham ("Yair") Stern in Mandatory Palestine. Its avowed aim was to evict the British authorities from Palestine by resort to force, allowing unrestricted immigration of Jews and the formation of a "new totalitarian Hebrew republic." It was initially called the National Military Organization in Israel, upon being founded in August 1940, but was renamed Lehi one month later. It defined itself as a terrorist group.

Not only did the world Zionist movement cooperate with Hitler - as claimed by UK politician Ken Livingstone - but it also formally offered in writing to fight for the Nazis against the British to facilitate a German victory in the Middle East.

Among the leading Zionists who made this offer was ★ Yitzhak Shamir, later Israeli Prime Minister: (He had Britain's Lord Moyne and Sweden's Count Folke Bernadotte assassinated for seeking to have Arabs treated as equals of Jews, and was also involved in the Deir Yassin massacre and other acts of terrorism).

This amazing revelation is contained in the book The Six Million: Fact or Fiction, by holocaust researcher Peter Winter, who discusses Nazi-Zionist cooperation in detail. The Zionist offer to fight for the Nazis originated with the Jewish settlers in Palestine who found the British colonial administration unwilling to turn the region into an exclusively Jewish homeland.

"The British were, of course, well aware of what the potential consequences would be for the existing Arab Palestinian population, and also the aftereffects such a development would have on the rest of the Arab world," Winter says in his book.

"As a result, the Zionists in Palestine launched a terrorist war against the British and Palestinians, with the aim of driving both of these groups out."

★ Avraham "Yair" Stern

The leading Zionist terrorist organization was called Lehi, although it is better known as the "Stern Gang," after its leader ★ Avraham "Yair" Stern. The Stern Gang was responsible for a large number of terrorist attacks against the British in Palestine during the Second World War, with perhaps their most infamous deed being the November 1944 assassination of Lord Moyne, British Minister Resident in the Middle East.

However, it was in December 1940 that Lehi contacted Germany with a proposal to aid German conquest in the Middle East in return for recognition of a Jewish state open to unlimited Jews-only immigration. Late in 1940, Lehi representative ★ Naftali Lubenchik went to Beirut to meet German official Werner Otto von Hentig (who also was involved with the Haavara or Transfer Agreement, which had been transferring German Jews and their funds to Palestine since 1933).

On the assumption that the destruction of Britain was the Germans' top objective, the Zionists offered cooperation in the following terms: Lehi would support sabotage and espionage operations in the Middle East and in eastern Europe anywhere where they had cells. In return, Germany would recognize an independent Jewish state in Palestine, and all Jews leaving their homes in Europe, by their own will or because of government injunctions, could enter Palestine with no restriction of numbers. Stern also proposed to recruit some 40,000 Jews from occupied Europe to invade Palestine with German support to oust the British.

On 11 January 1941, Vice Admiral Ralf von der Marwitz, the German Naval attaché in Turkey, filed a report (the "Ankara document") conveying an offer by Lehi to "actively take part in the war on Germany's side" in return for German support for "the establishment of the historic Jewish state on a national and totalitarian basis, bound by a treaty with the German Reich." By then, however, Winter notes, "pressing demands of the war had eclipsed German government time, and nothing came of this particular offer."

It is however important to note that one of the leaders of Lehi was ★ Yitzhak Shamir, who later became prime minister of Israel - in other words, Lehi was not some small splinter group, but an important and large part of the Zionist movement.

The Stern gang, along with the other main Jewish terrorist organization, known as the Igrun, took part in many other attacks, such as the bombing of the King David Hotel in Jerusalem on 22 July 1946, in which 91 people were killed. Other atrocities committed by the Zionist terrorists included the

"The establishment of the historic Jewish State on a national and totalitarian basis, bound by a treaty with the German Reich, would be in the interest of a maintained and strengthened future German position of power in the Near East." [Page 301, 51 Documents: Zionist Collaboration with the Nazis].

In a startling revelation, the Zionist movement did not make any effort to convince Western countries to take on Jewish refugees escaping the horrors of the Holocaust.<sup>TM</sup> It even placed obstacles in the way of Christian groups or by non-Zionist Jews or a number of countries that saw fit to find a solution to this humanitarian problem, because it interfered with plans of establishing a Jewish State in Palestine. In fact, the Zionist movement did not send any assistance - financial or otherwise - for the victims of Nazism... and it did not allow any other side to provide aid.

The Zionist movement concealed the information that came from within the ghetto walls and concentration camps. If it had to publish anything, it did so by questioning that information and diminishing its importance.

torture-murders of British army sergeants Clifford Martin and Mervyn Paice (whose bodies were hung, booby-trapped, in a grove of trees); and the massacre of Deir Yassin on 9 April 1948, where hundreds of Arabs were murdered to make way for Jewish settlers.

In March 1947 an Irgun terrorist left a bomb at the Colonial Club, near St.-Martin's Lane in the heart of London, which blew out the club's windows and doors, injuring several servicemen. The following month a female Irgun terrorist left an enormous bomb, consisting of 24 sticks of explosives, at the Colonial Office in London. The bomb failed to detonate because its timer broke. The head of the Metropolitan Police Special Branch, Leonard Burt, estimated that if it had gone off it would have caused fatalities on a comparable scale to the King David Hotel bombing - but this time in the heart of Whitehall.

In June 1947, the Stern Gang launched a letter-bomb campaign in Britain, consisting of 21 bombs in total, which targeted every prominent member of the cabinet. The two waves of bombs were posted from an underground cell in Italy. Some of those in the first wave reached their targets, but they did not result in any casualties. In addition, the Stern Gang also tried to assassinate US President Harry Truman in 1947, along with other senior members of his administration. The Jewish terrorists used letter bombs in these attempts, many of which reached the White House. This fact was revealed by Truman's daughter in her book, Harry S. Truman (Morrow; 1973).

* Haganah (Hebrew: הַגָּנָה, lit. The Defence) was a Jewish paramilitary organization in the British Mandate of Palestine (1921–48), which became the core of the Israel Defense Forces (IDF).

In the week of 1 July 1946, TIME magazine's London bureau reported that "Britain is on the verge of an Anglo-Jewish war in Palestine." Angered by Britain's refusal to allow 100,000 Jews into Palestine, the Zionist underground Haganah army blew up several bridges into Syria and Trans-Jordan, warning the British that it was prepared to fight if necessary.

The underground military organization of the Yishuv in Eretz Yisrael from 1920-to-1948. The Arab riots in 1920 and 1921 strengthened the view that it was impossible to depend upon the British authorities and that the Yishuv needed to create an independent defense force completely free of foreign authority. In June 1920, the Haganah was founded.

During the first nine years of its existence, the Haganah was a loose organization of local defense groups in the large towns and in several of the settlements. The Arab riots in 1929 (q.v.) brought about a complete change in the Haganah's status.

During 1936-to-1939, the years of the Arab Revolt, were the years in which the Haganah matured and developed from a militia into a military body. Although the British administration did not officially recognize the organization, the British Security Forces cooperated with it by establishing civilian militia. In the summer of 1938 Special Night Squads (S.N.S.) were established, under the command of British military intelligence Captain Orde Wingate - a firm believer in the Bible.

During the years of the riots, the Haganah protected the establishment of over 50 new settlements in new area of the country. As a result of the British government Anti-Zionist policy, expressed in the White Paper of 1939, the Haganah supported illegal immigration and organized demonstrations against the British Anti-Zionist policy.

With the outbreak of World War II, the Haganah was faced with new problems. It headed a movement of volunteers, from which Jewish units were formed for service in the British army (see Jewish Brigade Group). It also cooperated with British intelligence units and sent its personnel out on various commando missions in the Middle East.

At the same time, the Haganah further strengthened its independent basis during the war. A systematic program of training was instituted for the youth of the country. In 1941, the Haganah's first mobilized regiment, the Palmach came into being. At the end of the war, when it became clear that the British government had no intention of altering its anti-Zionist policy, the Haganah began an open, organized struggle against British Mandatory rule in the framework of a unified Jewish Resistance Movement, consisting of Haganah, Irgun Zevai Le'umi - Etzel, and Lohamei Herut Yisrael - Lehi.

Haganah branches were established at Jewish D.P. [displaced person] camps in Europe and Haganah members accompanied the "illegal" immigrant boats. In the spring of 1947, ♦ David Ben-Gurion took it upon himself to direct the general policy of the Haganah, especially in preparation for impending Arab attack. On May 26 1948, the Provisional Government of Israel decided to transform the Haganah into the regular army of the State, to be called "Zeva Haganah Le-Yisrael" - The Israel Defense Forces.

† The Nazi agenda always included ridding Germany of its Jews, but it didn't always include mass murder. Prior to 1939, before the outbreak of World War Two, the plan was to get Germany's 500,000 Jews to leave voluntarily. This task fell primarily to Heinrich Himmler, the head of the Schutzstaffel (SS), Hitler's security guard. Initially opposed to the idea of mass murder, Himmler once described genocide as "un-Germanic and impossible."• In search of an alternative, Himmler and his colleagues brainstormed locations to send the Jews. But due to widespread anti-Semitism at the time, welcoming nations were in short supply.

In 1936, Himmler received counsel from Edler von Mildenstein, a well-educated member of Germany's covert intelligence service. A Nazi who rejected anti-Semitism, von Mildenstein had connections in the Zionist movement, which encouraged Jews worldwide to "return"• to Palestine - then a de facto British colony. Von Mildenstein believed Zionism offered a perfect solution to Germany's "Jewish Question."•

On the surface, the Zionists and Nazis couldn't have been more at odds. Zionism was an attempt to rescue Jews from a long history of European persecution, while the Nazi movement represented its most barbaric manifestation. Yet, they shared some surprising common ground. Extremists in both groups believed Jews were a separate race that shouldn't mix blood with non-Jews. In other words, they believed Jews would be better off living separately, without the temptation of intermarriage. Also, they both loathed the British. During World War One, Great Britain defeated Germany and took control of Palestine - and then blocked Jewish immigration there.

But the real trick wasn't overcoming British resistance, it was convincing German Jews to go to Palestine in the first place. Even in the face of unrelenting persecution, most Jews were hesitant to flee Germany for Palestine. So, the Nazi party teamed up with the Zionists to launch a coordinated propaganda campaign. Zionists from Palestine came to Germany to teach Hebrew and display the blue-and-white Zionist flag. And an editorial in the Schwarze Korps, the official newspaper of the SS, proudly proclaimed, "Before long, Palestine will again be able to accept its sons who have been lost for over 1000 years. Our good wishes and official goodwill go with them."•

By 1937, only about 24,000 German Jews had left for Palestine, prompting the Nazis to double their efforts. To help coordinate the Nazi-Zionist project, von Mildenstein recruited 30-year-old Adolf Eichmann, who'd been spinning his wheels in the SS.

Eichmann wasn't the sharpest tack in the Nazi drawer, but he was a hard worker who knew how to get people's attention. He reached out to the top leadership of the Hagana, the real power behind the Zionist movement. Founded by the first Zionist settlers in 1920, the Hagana smuggled Jews past British patrols and actively (sometimes violently) sought to protect Jewish interests.

In February 1937, Eichmann arranged a meeting in Berlin with ♦ Feivel Polkes, a high-level Hagana commander. In exchange for encouraging Jews to leave Germany, Polkes asked the Nazis to relocate Jews to Palestine. Eichmann agreed. During this period, the harsh truth is that both sides felt increased persecution of the Jews would benefit their causes. During a second meeting later that year in Cairo, Polkes confirmed that the Hagana leaders were pleased with Nazi policies because more Jews were coming to Palestine. By 1939, another 36,000 Jews had moved there from Germany.

The deciding date in the history of anti-Semitism is 26 September 1937. On that date, Adolf Eichmann boarded a train in Berlin en route to Palestine, in order to meet Haganah underground activist ♦ Feivel Polkes (1900-1982, born in Poland, emigrated to Palestine in 1920) and discuss with him the "mass immigration of German Jews to Palestine."

The meeting ultimately took place in Cairo because of decrees by the British Mandate. And still, this event apparently serves as the utmost testament to the common interest between the Nazis and Jews: to implement a type of ethnic cleansing that would fundamentally change the proportion of ethnic groups in the population. There you have it, the ultimate match-making of history, and the key to finding out the secret of the Jewish state: The dark alliance between the Jews and Nazism.

Identifying Zionism with anti-Semitism and Nazism is not unique to Slovenian psychoanalytic philosopher and Hegelian Marxist Slavoj Žižek in his 440 page book titled The Parallax View (2006) - a substantial theoretical work of cultural critical theory. The comparison was raised in Stalinist trials in Eastern Europe in the 1940s and 1950s, and in the 1968 events in Poland. In his book we can find the following declarations: Modern day Zionism, as manifested by the State of Israel's policy, is already anti-Semitic, that is, premised on anti-Semitic ideological fundamentals. More specifically: It is a fact that Zionism is one of the types of anti-Semitism. What we should be slamming the Zionists with is the genuine Jewish cosmopolitan spirit. Isn't the idea of establishing a nation-state by the Jewish akin to putting an end to Judaism? Therefore, it isn't surprising the Nazis supported this plan.

The Zionists were always more eager to extend their relationship than the Nazis. It was therefore the Haganah, the military arm of the Jewish Agency (de facto the Labor Zionist militia), that obtained permission to negotiate directly with the SS. A Haganah agent, ♦ Feivel Polkes arrived in Berlin on 26 February 1937 and was assigned Adolf Eichmann as his negotiating partner. Their conversations were recorded in a report by Eichmann's superior, Franz Albert Six, a Nazi official who rose to the rank of SS-Brigadeführer and appointed by Reinhard Heydrich to head department Amt VII, Written Records of the Reichssicherheitshauptamt (RSHA) found in files captured by the Americans after World War Two.

Reinhard Heydrich

♦ Feivel Polkes, who was active as a central figure in the Jewish intelligence service, Haganah, was known here while visiting Berlin between February 26th and 2 March 1937, as referred by DNB (Deutsches Nachrichtenbüro) - the official German News Service in 1933-38 - correspondent in Jerusalem/Palestine Dr. Franz Reichart, who had been working closely with Consul-General Wolff in 1934. In connection with the contact made with him at that time, it was found that Polkes is well acquainted with all important matters occurring in the Jewish world. A plan, in coordination with Gestapo (II/B 94), was formulated to enlist Polkes as a steady source of information for the Security Service.

He [Polkes] stated that he was ready to serve Germany and supply information as long as this does not oppose his political goal. Among other things, he was ready to stand by the interests of German foreign policy in the Middle East. He would try to find the German Reich the oil sources without affecting British spheres of influence, all on the condition that Germany would assist Jewish immigration to Palestine, and on condition that Germany also ease the monetary regulations for these Jewish emigrants. In connection with other queries, he let it be known that he knew the men and the background of the Gustloff murder...

The day after Eichmann and Hagen left [Palestine] on the boat for Alexandria, ♦ Feivel Polkes turned up at the Jerusalem Hotel looking for them. Polkes was a chain-smoking Polish Jew in his mid-thirties. He wore a crumpled, tropical-weight suit and a straw hat. He needed a shave, but not as badly as the chain-smoking Russian Jew accompanying him. He was in his mid-forties, with a couple of boulders for shoulders and a weathered sort of face like something carved on a flying buttress. His name was ♦ Eliyahu Golomb. Their jackets were buttoned, although it was, as usual, a baking-hot day. When a man keeps his jacket buttoned on a hot day, it usually means one thing.

♦ Eliyahu Golomb

♦ Berl Katznelson

♦ Eliyahu Golomb (Hebrew: אליעזר גולומב, 2 March 1893 – 11 June 1945) was the leader of the Jewish defense effort in Mandate Palestine and chief architect of the Haganah, the underground military organization for defense of the Yishuv between 1920 and 1948. He was instrumental in the development of Jewish self-defense forces. He claimed that the Jewish masses must be mobilized into fighting units capable of defending Zionist goals. He traveled extensively, purchasing arms for Haganah fighters. The organization and financing of "illegal" immigration in the late 1930's was in large part directed by Golomb.

Golomb saw the Haganah as an integral part of the Zionist Movement, and thus objected to the existence of more radical defense organizations, such as the Irgun Tzeva'i Le'umi. He strongly disagreed with those who supported indiscriminate attacks against Arabs. At the same time, he did advocate active confrontation with Arab aggressors. Along with ♦ Berl Katznelson (Hebrew: ברל קטנלבסקי, 25 January 1887 – 12 August 1944) - one of the intellectual founders of Labor Zionism, instrumental to the establishment of the modern state of Israel, and a central figure of the Second Aliyah: Immigration to Israel (1904-1914) - Golomb spent much time working with ♦ Vladimir Jabotinsky of the Revisionist party trying to unify defense efforts among Jews.

* Haavara was a company for the transfer of Jewish property from Nazi Germany to Palestine. The Trust and Transfer Office Haavara Ltd., was established in Tel Aviv, following an agreement with the German government in August 1933, to facilitate the emigration of Jews to Palestine by allowing the transfer of their capital in the form of German export goods. The Haavara Agreement is an instance where the question of Jewish rights, Zionist needs and individual rescue were in deep tension. Jewish organizations outside of Germany had declared a boycott against German goods and hoped to de-legitimatize the Nazi regime. The Zionists saw this agreement as a way of attracting Jews to Palestine and thus rescuing them from the Nazi universe even if that meant cooperation with Hitler.

The Haavara Agreement (Hebrew: הסכם העברה, heskem haavara, i.e. "transfer agreement") was an agreement between Nazi Germany and Zionist German Jews signed on 25 August 1933. The agreement was finalized after three months of talks by the Zionist Federation of Germany, the Anglo-Palestine Bank (under the directive of the Jewish Agency) and the economic authorities of Nazi Germany. It was a major factor in making possible the immigration of approximately 60,000 German Jews to Palestine in the years 1933–1939.]

The agreement was designed to enable Jews fleeing anti-Semitic persecution under the new Hitler regime to transfer some portion of their assets to their refuge in British Mandatory Palestine. It provided some relief for Jews fleeing by allowing them to recover some of the possessions and assets they were forced to surrender before departing. A portion of those possessions could be re-obtained by transferring them to Palestine as German export goods. The agreement was controversial at the time, and was criticized by many Jewish leaders both within the Zionist movement (such as the Revisionist Zionist leader ✧ Ze'ev Jabotinsky) and outside it. For German Jews, the Agreement offered a way to leave an increasingly hostile environment in Nazi Germany; for the Yishuv, the new Jewish community in Palestine, it offered access to both immigrants and some economic support; and for the Nazis it was seen as a way of breaking the Anti-Nazi boycott of 1933, which had mass support among European Jews and was thought by the German state as a potential threat to a fragile German economy.

* A kibbutz (Hebrew: קִבּוֹצִים / קִבּוֹץ, lit. "gathering, clustering"; plural kibbutzim / קִבּוֹצִים) is a collective "communal settlement" in Israel that was traditionally based on agriculture - a voluntary democratic community where people live and work together on a non-competitive basis. The first kibbutz, established in 1909, was Degania. The first kibbutzim (plural of kibbutz) were organized by idealistic young Zionists who came to Palestine in the beginning of the 20th Century.

† Leopold Itz, Edler von Mildenstein (30 November 1902 – November 1968) was an SS officer of the 1930s and 1940s who is remembered as a leader of the Nazi Party's support during the 1930s for the aims of Zionism. Von Mildenstein was a member of both the Nazi party and of Hitler's elite bodyguard, the SS.

Mildenstein had taken an early interest in Zionism, even going so far as to attend Zionist conferences to help deepen his understanding of the movement. He actively promoted Zionism as a way out of the official impasse on the Jewish question: as a way of making Germany Judenrein (free of Jews). Some Zionists, whose movement had grown tremendously in popularity among German Jews since Hitler came to power, co-operated. On 7 April 1933, the Juedische Rundschau, the bi-weekly paper of the Zionist movement, declared that of all Jewish groups only the Zionist Federation of Germany was capable of approaching the Nazis in good faith as "honest

So, in 1933, the Zionists invited von Mildenstein to Palestine - and he was there as their guest for about six months - and then he went back to Germany and wrote up his visit in - uh - Der Angriff, which was the SS - the leading SS propaganda journal... - and... they actually made a medal about the size of a silver dollar, with a swastika on one side and a Star of David on the other - yuh - okay - as a commemoration of von Mildenstein's visit to Palestine: [See the illustration of two sides of the same coin at the beginning of Part Four: Motivations - i.e. Goebbels had a special coin minted to celebrate Zionism].

partners." The Federation then commissioned Kurt Tuchler to make contact with possible Zionist sympathizers within the Nazi Party, with the aim of facilitating emigration to Palestine, and Tuchler approached Mildenstein, who was asked to write something positive about Jewish Palestine in the press. Mildenstein agreed, on condition that he be allowed to visit the country in person, with Tuchler as his guide. So, in the spring of 1933 a party of four set out from Berlin, consisting of Mildenstein, Tuchler, and their wives. They spent a month together in Palestine, and Mildenstein began to write a series of articles for Der Angriff, a Nazi Party newspaper in Berlin which Joseph Goebbels had founded in 1927 and still controlled. Mildenstein himself remained in Palestine for a total of six months before his return to Germany as an enthusiast for Zionism. He even began to study Hebrew. In August 1933 Hitler's government and German Zionists entered into the Haavara Agreement, which encouraged emigration by allowing Jews to transfer property from Germany to Palestine.

Mildenstein, Tuchler, and their wives

On his return to Berlin, Mildenstein's suggestion that the solution to the Jewish problem lay in mass migration to Palestine was accepted by his superiors within the SS. From August 1934 to June 1936 Mildenstein worked in the headquarters of the Sicherheitsdienst (SD), the security service of the SS, in Section II/112, in charge of the Jewish Desk, with the title of Judenreferent (Jewish Affairs Officer). This title meant that he was responsible for reporting on "Jewish Affairs" under the overall command of Reinhard Heydrich. During those years, Mildenstein favoured a policy of encouraging Germany's Jewish population to emigrate to Palestine, and in pursuit of this policy he developed positive contacts with Zionist organizations. SS officials were even instructed to encourage the activities of the Zionists within the Jewish community, who were to be favoured over the assimilationists, said to be the real danger to National Socialism. Even the anti-Jewish Nuremberg Laws of September 1935 had a special Zionist provision, allowing the Jews to fly their own flag.

Adolf Eichmann, later one of the most significant organizers of the Holocaust™, believed that his big break came in 1934, when he had a meeting with Mildenstein, a fellow-Austrian, in the Wilhelmstrasse and was invited to join Mildenstein's department. Eichmann later stated that Mildenstein rejected the vulgar anti-Semitism of Julius Streicher (12 February 1885 – 16 October 1946) - a prominent member of the Nazi party (NSDAP) prior to World War II and the founder and publisher of the anti-Semitic newspaper Der Stürmer, which became a central element of the Nazi propaganda machine. Soon after his arrival in the section Mildenstein gave Eichmann a book on Judaism by ✧ Adolf Boehm, a leading Jew from Vienna.

Between 9 September and 9 October 1934 the Nazi Party newspaper Der Angriff published a series of twelve pro-Zionist articles by Mildenstein under the title A Nazi Goes to Palestine. In honour of his visit, the newspaper issued a commemorative medallion, with the swastika on one side and the Star of David on the other

Now, Eichmann - as I say - he went to Palestine in 1937. He started as von Mildenstein's disciple - and von Mildenstein had Eichmann learn Hebrew...

Narration continues.

★ Lenni Brenner goes into much more specific detail for the duration of the interview. I recommend that people check it out for themselves... as we haven't much time left. But he brings attention to the fact that Zionists did in fact collaborate with the Nazis, leading up to and during the war. This fact, is perhaps, one of the most revealing in regards to the understandings of the priorities of the Zionists.

* Benjamin Harrison Freedman (1890 – May 1984) was an American businessman, Holocaust™ denier, and vocal anti-Zionist. Born in a Jewish family, he converted from Judaism to Roman Catholicism. Outside of political activism, Freedman was a partner in a dermatological institute and investor for small businesses.

He was a successful businessman of New York City who was at one time the principal owner of the Woodbury Soap Company. He broke with organized Jewry after the Judeo-Communist victory of 1945, and spent the remainder of his life and the great preponderance of his considerable fortune, at least 2.5 million dollars, exposing the Jewish tyranny which has enveloped the United States.

Mr. Freedman knew what he was talking about because he had been an insider at the highest levels of Jewish organizations and Jewish machinations to gain power over our nation. Mr. Freedman was personally acquainted with ★ Bernard Baruch (often referred to as the "elder statesman" because through three wars the presidents of our country called upon him for his advice), ★ Samuel Untermyer (one of the leading agitators in the war against Germany - see footnotes for Appendix Two to The Greatest Lie Ever Told - Benjamin H. Freedman's 1961 speech at the Willard Hotel - A Jewish Defector Warns America), Woodrow Wilson, Franklin Roosevelt, Joseph Kennedy, and John F. Kennedy, and many more movers and shakers of our times.

portion of his life dedicated to exposing the Jewish power structure at that time.

Mr. Freedman has a testimony - one that is especially important because he had been an insider - at some of the highest levels of Jewish organization and business. This testimony that we speak of was given to an audience in 1961† at the Willard Hotel in Washington, D.C.

History is perhaps the greatest lie ever told. We hope that this film - and this transcript - gave you another perspective, because there is sure a lot that is still unsaid in regards to history.

The reason for this hoax is simple. The world had just united against Nazi Germany on the principle that one nation does not have the right to march into another nation and steal it for their own. But the founders of Israel proposed to do just that, march into Palestine and take it for their own. They needed a propaganda device so powerful it would trick the world into allowing Israel to do to Palestine exactly what Nazi Germany had been prevented from doing to France, Poland, etc. And that propaganda remains one of the most fiercely protected secrets of modern times, enforced by laws in many nations.

And that in and of itself betrays the lie, for truth needs no law to support it. Truth is self-evident to all. Truth withstands re-examination. Truth survives questions. Throughout history, from Galileo to Zündel, only lies and liars have resorted to the courts to enforce adherence to dogma.

† This speech was given before a patriotic audience in 1961 at the Willard Hotel in Washington, D.C., on behalf of Conde McGinley's patriotic newspaper of that time, Common Sense. Though in some minor ways this wide-ranging and extemporaneous speech has become dated, Mr. Freedman's essential message to us - his warning to the West - is more urgent than ever before.

Michael Conde McGinley (13 October 1890 – 2 July 1963) was the editor of a semi-monthly paper called Common Sense who received US-wide attention for a brief period due to his campaign against the nomination of ★ Anna M. Rosenberg. This campaign led to an investigation by the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Although the first issues of Common Sense were anti-Communist, it later developed into a mostly anti-Semitic broadsheet. In one issue of 1948, a major part of the paper was taken up by support for Robert Best, who had been convicted of treason (broadcasting Nazi propaganda from Germany during World War II). In the July and August 1949 issues, W. Henry MacFarland Jr.'s name appears as associate editor. At the time Conde was planning to combine forces with MacFarland's Nationalist Action League, as well as with the Loyal American Group, headed by William J. O'Brien. O'Brien later joined the paper's staff.

The paper carried articles by Eustace Mullins starting September 1951. In 1953, he became a writer on staff. In addition, articles were written by Frederick C. F. Weiss, Kurt Mertig (founder of the National Renaissance Party), Elizabeth Dilling, Lyrl Clark Van Hyning, Gen. George Van Horn Moseley, Col. Eugene N. Sanctuary and Charles B. Hudson. Circulation, at its height, averaged 50,000 copies.

Nobel Laureate ♦ Elie Wiesel is a liar and a fraud

♦ Elie Wiesel has told us for over 50 years that he was tattooed at Auschwitz in 1944, and that his tattoo number is A7713. He has repeatedly said that he still has this original tattoo on his arm. On 25 March 2010, in Dayton, Ohio, Elie met with the press, high school and college students, and 2300 members of the local community. As reported in the Dayton Daily News , one student asked Wiesel if he still has his concentration camp number and if it serves as a reminder of those terrible experiences. "I don't need that to remember, I think about my past every day," he responded. "But I still have it on my left arm – A7713. At that time, we were numbers. No names, no identity."

Thus the question we ask: Where is the tattoo?

The New York Times Magazine, Sunday, 6 May 1945, p.42.

Arguably the most famous Holocaust™ photo of all has been doctored. A version of the above photograph appeared in The New York Times Magazine on page 42 of the Sunday, 6 May 1945 edition, without the naked gentleman by the post on the right of the photograph.

The man who has been doctored into this photo, does appear in other photos taken at Buchenwald.

Above are copies of Auschwitz and Buchenwald survivor ♦ Mel Mermelstein's book By Bread Alone: The Story of A-4685 first published in 1979. The copy on the left is a 1981 revised edition, and the other a 1991 reprint.

One of the world's richest and most famous "holocaust survivors," ♀ Elie Wiesel, was only 16 when he supposedly survived the concentration camps in 1945. In 1983, he told the world he was in this famous Buchenwald photo. The guy he claims was him was a much older man (unknown who it really was), certainly in his 20's.

In October 1983, the New York Times published this photograph as part of an article in its high circulation Sunday NYT Magazine with the caption: "On 11 April 1945, American troops liberated the concentration camp's survivors, including ♀ Elie Wiesel, who later identified himself as the man circled in the photo."

After the award was announced by the Nobel Committee, the New York Times published again on November 1st a severely cropped version of the Buchenwald photo (below) with the caption: "Elie Wiesel, the winner of the Nobel Peace Prize (at far right in the top bunk) in the Buchenwald concentration camp in April 1945, when the camp was liberated by American troops." The picture accompanied an article by ♀Martin Susskind titled, "A Voice from Bonn: History Cannot Be Shrugged Off."

With the help of the New York Times and the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum, ♀ Elie Wiesel and his backers did not shy away from criminal deceit by purposely misidentifying an unknown face in this famous photo as belonging to ♀ Elie Wiesel.

The above high-resolution photograph of Buchenwald survivors was first published in the New York Times on 6 May 1945 with the caption "Crowded Bunks in the Prison Camp at Buchenwald." It was taken inside Block #56 by Private H. Miller of the Civil Affairs Branch of the U.S. Army Signal Corps on 16 April 1945, five days after the Buchenwald camp was liberated by a division of the U.S. Third Army on 11 April 1945. None of the men in the picture were identified at that time.

The U.S. Army photographer said he was inside Block #56.

The U.S. Army photographer said he was inside Block #56. The "children's block" that housed the so-called "boys of Buchenwald" was #66. This was not a typo. Note that these men are not children or teenagers, except for the youngster on the lower left who has been correctly identified as 16 yr. old Myklos (Nikolaus) Grüner, and a couple others. These adults appear to be a mixture of sick individuals suffering from a wasting disease (Grüner learned after liberation he had TB), along with basically healthy men who were also in that block for some reason five days after they had been freed. As we have read from many Buchenwald inmates, they moved about at will from the day of liberation onward. In ♀ Elie Wiesel's book Night, he even says that some of the boys in his block went to the city of Weimar the very next day to steal potatoes and rape German girls.

The true facts of this photograph have never been told and perhaps are not known. (Grüner has written in Stolen Identity that he left a procession of youths being led to the camp entrance on the morning of April 11th, scurried into the nearest barracks and jumped into an empty bunk space. It turned out to be this one.) But because of the man standing there stark naked except for a piece of clothing held in his hands to cover himself, this photograph was likely staged. In any event, it was never represented as the "children's barracks." Still, ♀ Elie Wiesel inexplicably once told an interviewer for the German weekly Die Zeit that this picture was taken in the Children's Block and all these men were really teenagers even though they looked old. (Source: "1945 und Heute: Holocaust," Die Zeit, 21 April 1995.)

Whom do you believe - the New York Times or your own eyes?

♀ Elie Wiesel in 1944 at the age of 15      Not Wiesel at age 16 in 1945

On the left is ♀ Elie Wiesel in 1944 at the age of 15. You can see for yourself from these two high-quality photographs supplied to me by a helpful reader that the face on the right is not Wiesel.

The inmate on the left definitely has an aquiline nose and full, even sensual, lips. In this close-up, the receding hairline is visible on the recently shaved head. On the left, the real 15-year-old ♀ Elie Wiesel exhibits a normal youthful hairline, a differently shaped nose and thinner lips. He also has a higher forehead than the more roundish-headed inmate. The eyes of the man on the right are not as deep-set under the eyebrows. His somewhat surprised, curious expression is not typical of Wiesel, whose expression was generally reserved, and often hooded.

The role played by the tax-payer funded United States Holocaust Memorial Museum

♀ Elie Wiesel finagled his way to becoming Founding Chairman of the United States Holocaust™ Memorial Council in 1980 after being chosen in 1978 by President Jimmy Carter as chairman of the President's Commission on the Holocaust™. Why the United States needed to do anything at all about the "Holocaust™" is something only the 2.5% Jewish population in this country can answer. It is to satisfy them. Wiesel continued to chair the Council until 1986, when he reached his goal of becoming a Nobel Laureate. The USHMM was undoubtedly an important institutional heavyweight that leveraged him to the Nobel.

The USHMM naturally accepted that Wiesel was in the famous photograph as soon as he and the New York Times said he was. If you think the museum staff does real research, is searching for truth and/or is engaged in scholarship of any kind, you are badly mistaken. The museum represents official power only and is invested in keeping it in Jewish hands.

This photograph is the only document tying Elie Wiesel to the Holocaust

The only document that connects ✖ Elie Wiesel to the Auschwitz-Birkenau and Buchenwald experience he claims to have - in other words, his claim to be an authentic "Holocaust™ survivor" - is the famous Buchenwald liberation photograph. There are no records with his name and birth date for either camp. His books do not support his presence there very well. That's why the Wiesel promoters, who wanted to anchor their man's claim to be the unchallenged spokesman for the world's greatest victims - which winning a Nobel prize would surely do - decided that they could pawn that unknown face off as the face of Wiesel. This decision was made in 1983. It's certain that ✖ Elie Wiesel took part in making it, though the pretense is kept up by all that he was aloof from the entire process.

Benjamin H. Freedman's 1961 speech at the Willard Hotel

A Jewish Defector Warns America

A few months ago, a person challenged the authenticity of the transcript, because his version stated that Samuel Untermeyer had used the Columbia Broadcasting studios when he declared a worldwide boycott against Germany - in his words: "A Holy War." We could not debate the issue, having never heard the actual recording of Mr. Freedman's speech. Today, I discovered that we have a cassette tape of the speech, so I listened to the entire tape while reading the posted transcript. According to Mr. Freedman the radio station used by Untermeyer was, in fact, ABC.

There had also been some simple rearrangements of sentence structure in that transcript, and a line or two omitted in places. For the sake of authenticity, the corrections have been made. The transcript is now word for word from Mr. Freedman's speech.

The original transcriber had "tidied up" Mr. Freedman's responses during the "question-and-answer" period, omitting superfluous and repetitious words. For the most part, we've left the tidied up version as it was, since it didn't change the response, and actually helped to clarify Mr. Freedman's answers. If the names were changed, he could have been making that speech yesterday.

A Christian View of the Holocaust

Ladies and gentlemen, you are about to hear a very frightening speech. This speech is an explanation of the plans now being laid to throw the United States into a third world war. It was made a short time ago before a large group in the Congressional Room of the Willard Hotel in Washington, D.C. Both the speech and the question and answer period later so electrified the audience that a group of patriots has transferred it to two long-playing records which you may buy to play for friends, clubs, and your church group in your community. The speaker is Mr. Benjamin Freedman, noted authority on Zionism and all of its schemes. Mr. Freedman is a former Jew, and I mean a FORMER Jew. He has fought the Communist world conspiracy tooth and nail, and stands today as a leading American patriot. We now take you to the speaker's platform to present Benjamin Freedman.

[Freedman's speech]

What I intend to tell you tonight is something that you have never been able to learn from any other source, and what I tell you now concerns not only you, but your children and the survival of this country and Christianity. I'm not here just to dish up a few facts to send up your blood pressure, but I'm here to tell you things that will help you preserve what you consider the most sacred things in the world: the liberty, and the freedom, and the right to live as Christians, where you have a little dignity, and a little right to pursue the things that your conscience tells you are the right things, as Christians.

Now, first of all, I'd like to tell you that on 25 August 1960 - that was shortly before elections - Senator Kennedy, who is now the President of the United States, went to New York, and delivered an address to the Zionist Organization of America. In that address, to reduce it to its briefest form, he stated that he would use the armed forces of the United States to preserve the existence of the regime set up in Palestine by the Zionists who are now in occupation of that area.

In other words, Christian boys are going to be yanked out of their homes, away from their families, and sent abroad to fight in Palestine against the Christian and Moslem Arabs who merely want to return to their homes. And these Christian boys are going to be asked to shoot to kill these innocent [Arab Palestinians] people who only want to follow out fifteen resolutions passed by the United Nations in the last twelve years calling upon the Zionists to allow these people to return to their homes.

Now, when United States troops appear in the Middle East to fight with the Zionists as their allies to prevent the return of these people who were evicted from their homes in the 1948 armed insurrection by the Zionists who were transplanted there from Eastern Europe... when that happens, the United States will trigger World War Three.

You say, when will that take place? The answer is, as soon as the difficulty between France and Algeria has been settled, that will take place. As soon as France and Algeria have been settled, that will take place. As soon as France and Algeria have settled their difficulty, and the Arab world, or the Moslem world, has no more war on their hands with France, they are going to move these people back into their homes, and when they do that and President Kennedy sends your sons to fight over there to help the crooks hold on to what they stole from innocent men, women and children, we will trigger World War Three; and when that starts you can be sure we cannot emerge from that war a victor. We are going to lose that war because there is not one nation in the world that will let one of their sons fight with us for such a cause.

I know and speak to these ambassadors in Washington and the United Nations - and of the ninety-nine nations there, I've consulted with maybe seventy of them - and when we go to war in Palestine to help the thieves retain possession of what they have stolen from these innocent people we're not going to have a man there to fight with us as our ally.

And who will these people have supporting them, you ask. Well, four days after President Kennedy - or he was then Senator Kennedy - made that statement on 28 August 1960, the Arab nations called a meeting in Lebanon and there they decided to resurrect, or reactivate, the government of Palestine, which has been dormant more or less, since the 1948 armed insurrection by the Zionists.

Not only that... they ordered the creation of the Palestine Army, and they are now drilling maybe a half a million soldiers in that area of the world to lead these people back to their homeland. With them, they have as their allies all the nations of what is termed the Bandung Conference Group.* That includes the Soviet Union and every Soviet Union satellite. It includes Red China; it includes every independent country in Asia and Africa; or eighty percent of the world's total population. Eighty percent of the world's population. Four out of five human beings on the face of the earth will be our enemies at war with us. And not alone are they four out of five human beings now on the face of this earth, but they are the non-Christian population of the world and they are the non-Caucasians... the non-white nations of the world, and that's what we face.

And what is the reason? The reason is that here in the United States, the Zionists and their co-religionists have complete control of our government. For many reasons too many and too complex to go into here at this time - I'll be glad to answer questions, however, to support that statement - the Zionists and their co-religionists rule this United States as though they were the absolute monarchs of this country.

Now, you say, 'well, that's a very broad statement to make', but let me show what happened while you were - I don't want to wear that out - let me show what happened while WE were all asleep. I'm including myself with you. We were all asleep. What happened?

World War One broke out in the summer of 1914. Nineteen-hundred and fourteen was the year in which World War One broke out. There are few people here my age who remember that. Now that war was waged on one side by Great Britain, France, and Russia; and on the other side by Germany, Austria-Hungary, and Turkey. What happened?

Within two years Germany had won that war: not alone won it nominally, but won it actually. The German submarines, which were a surprise to the world, had swept all the convoys from the Atlantic Ocean, and Great Britain stood there without ammunition for her soldiers, stood there with one week's food supply facing her - and after that, starvation.

At that time, the French army had mutinied. They lost 600,000 of the flower of French youth in the defense of Verdun on the Somme.

The Russian army was defecting. They were picking up their toys and going home, they didn't want to play war anymore, they didn't like the Czar. And the Italian army had collapsed.

Now Germany - not a shot had been fired on the German soil. Not an enemy soldier had crossed the border into Germany. And yet, here was Germany offering England peace terms. They offered England a negotiated peace on what the lawyers call a status quo ante basis. That means: "Let's call the war off, and let everything be as it was before the war started."

Well, England, in the summer of 1916 was considering that. Seriously! They had no choice. It was either accepting this negotiated peace that Germany was magnanimously offering them, or going on with the war and being totally defeated.

While that was going on, the Zionists in Germany, who represented the Zionists from Eastern Europe, went to the British War Cabinet and - I am going to be brief because this is a long story, but I have all the documents to prove any statement that I make if anyone here is curious, or doesn't believe what I'm saying is at all possible - the Zionists in London went to the British war cabinet and they said: "Look here. You can yet win this war. You don't have to give up. You don't have to accept the negotiated peace offered to you now by Germany. You can win this war if the United States will come in as your ally."

The United States was not in the war at that time. We were fresh; we were young; we were rich; we were powerful. They [Zionists] told England: "We will guarantee to bring the United States into the war as your ally, to fight with you on your side, if you will promise us Palestine after you win the war."

In other words, they made this deal: "We will get the United States into this war as your ally. The price you must pay us is Palestine after you have won the war and defeated Germany, Austria-Hungary, and Turkey." \

New England had as much right to promise Palestine to anybody, as the United States would have to promise Japan to Ireland for any reason whatsoever. It's absolutely absurd that Great Britain - that never had any connection or any interest or any right in what is known as Palestine - should offer it as coin of the realm to pay the Zionists for bringing the United States into the war.

However, they made that promise, in October of 1916. October, nineteen hundred and sixteen. And shortly after that - I don't know how many here remember it - the United States, which was almost totally pro-German - totally pro-German - because the newspapers here were controlled by Jews, the bankers were Jews, all the media of mass communications in this country were controlled by Jews, and they were pro-German because their people, in the majority of cases came from Germany, and they wanted to see Germany lick the Czar.

The Jews didn't like the Czar, and they didn't want Russia to win this war. So the German bankers - the German-Jews - Kuhn Loeb and the other big banking firms in the United States refused to finance France or England to the extent of one dollar. They stood aside and they said: "As long as France and England are tied up with Russia, not one cent!" But they poured money into Germany, they fought with Germany against Russia, trying to lick the Czarist regime.

Now those same Jews, when they saw the possibility of getting Palestine, they went to England and they made this deal. At that time, everything changed, like the traffic light that changes from red to green. Where the newspapers had been all pro-German, where they'd been telling the people of the difficulties that Germany was having fighting Great Britain commercially and in other respects, all of a sudden the Germans were no good. They were villains. They were Huns. They were shooting Red Cross nurses. They were cutting off babies' hands. And they were no good.

Well, shortly after that, Mr. Wilson declared war on Germany.

The Zionists in London sent these cables to the United States, to Justice Brandeis: "Go to work on President Wilson. We're getting from England what we want. Now you go to work, and you go to work on President Wilson and get the United States into the war." And that did happen. That's how the United States got into the war. We had no more interest in it; we had no more right to be in it than we have to be on the moon tonight instead of in this room.

* The first large-scale Asian-African or Afro-Asian Conference - also known as the Bandung Conference (Indonesian: Konferensi Asia-Afrika) - was a meeting of Asian and African states, most of which were newly independent, which took place on 18–24 April 1955 in Bandung, Indonesia. The twenty-nine countries that participated at the Bandung Conference represented nearly one-quarter of the Earth's land surface and a total population of 1.5 billion people. The conference was organized by Indonesia, Burma, Pakistan, Ceylon (Sri Lanka), and India and was coordinated by Ruslan Abdulgani, secretary general of the Indonesian Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

The conference's stated aims were to promote Afro-Asian economic and cultural cooperation and to oppose colonialism or neocolonialism by any nation. The conference was an important step toward the Non-Aligned Movement.

Now the war - World War One - in which the United States participated had absolutely no reason to be our war. We went in there - we were railroaded into it - if I can be vulgar, we were suckered into - that war merely so that the Zionists of the world could obtain Palestine.

Now, that is something that the people in the United States have never been told. They never knew why we went into World War One. Now, what happened?

After we got into the war, the Zionists went to Great Britain and they said: "Well, we performed our part of the agreement. Let's have something in writing that shows that you are going to keep your bargain and give us Palestine after you win the war." Because they didn't know whether the war would last another year or another ten years. So they started to work out a receipt. The receipt took the form of a letter, and it was worded in very cryptic language so that the world at large wouldn't know what it was all about. And that was called the Balfour Declaration.

The Balfour Declaration was merely Great Britain's promise to pay the Zionists what they had agreed upon as a consideration for getting the United States into the war. So this great Balfour Declaration, that you hear so much about, is just as phony as a three dollar bill. And I don't think I could make it more emphatic than that.

Now, that is where all the trouble started. The United States went in the war. The United States crushed Germany. We went in there, and it's history. You know what happened. Now, when the war was ended, and the Germans went to Paris, to the Paris Peace Conference in 1919, there were 117 Jews there, as a delegation representing the Jews, headed by Bernard Baruch. I was there: I ought to know. Now what happened?

The Jews at that peace conference, when they were cutting up Germany and parceling out Europe to all these nations that claimed a right to a certain part of European territory, the Jews said, "How about Palestine for us?" And they produced, for the first time to the knowledge of the Germans, this Balfour Declaration. So the Germans, for the first time realized, "Oh, that was the game! That's why the United States came into the war." And the Germans for the first time realized that they were defeated, they suffered this terrific reparation that was slapped onto them, because the Zionists wanted Palestine and they were determined to get it at any cost.

Now, that brings us to another very interesting point. When the Germans realized this, they naturally resented it. Up to that time, the Jews had never been better off in any country in the world than they had been in Germany.

You had Mr. Rathenau* there, who was maybe 100 times as important in industry and finance as is Bernard Baruch in this country.

You had Mr. Ballin,† who owned the two big steamship lines, the North German Lloyd's and the Hamburg-American Lines. You had Mr. Bleichröder,‡ who was the banker for the Hohenzollern family. You had the Warburgs in Hamburg, who were the big merchant bankers - the biggest in the world. The Jews were doing very well in Germany. No question about that. Now, the Germans felt: "Well, that was quite a sellout."

It was a sellout that I can best compare - suppose the United States was at war today with the Soviet Union. And we were winning. And we told the Soviet Union: "Well, let's quit. We offer you peace terms. Let's forget the whole thing." And all of a sudden Red China came into the war as an ally of the Soviet Union. And throwing them into the war brought about our defeat. A crushing defeat, with reparations the likes of which man's imagination cannot encompass.

† Albert Ballin (15 August 1857 – 9 November 1918) was a German shipping magnate, who was the general director of the Hamburg-Amerikanische Packetfahrt-Actien-Gesellschaft (HAPAG) or Hamburg-America Line, at times the world's largest shipping company. Being the inventor of the concept of the cruise ship, he is known as the father of modern cruise ship travel.

Albert Ballin

Ballin acted as mediator between the United Kingdom and the German Empire in the tense years prior to the outbreak of World War One. Terrified that he would lose his ships in the event of naval hostilities, Ballin attempted to broker a deal whereby the United Kingdom and Germany would continue to race one another in passenger liners but desist in their attempts to best one another's naval fleets. Consequently, the outbreak of war deeply disillusioned him. Many of the Hamburg-America Line's ships were lost or suffered considerable damage during the hostilities.

Completely distraught upon hearing the news of the abdication of his benefactor and protector, Kaiser Wilhelm II, Ballin committed suicide by taking an overdose of sleeping pills two days before the armistice ended World War One. Ballin's fears were soon to be realized; the company's flagships, the triumvirate SS Imperator, SS Vaterland and SS Bismarck were ceded as war prizes to Great Britain and the United States.

◇ Gerson von Bleichröder

Bleichröder was born in Berlin. He was the eldest son of Samuel Bleichröder, who founded the banking firm of S. Bleichröder in 1803 in Berlin. Gerson first joined the family business in 1839. In 1855 upon the death of his father, Gerson became the head of the banking firm. The bank maintained close contacts with the Rothschild family; the banking house of Bleichröder acted as a branch office in Berlin of the Rothschilds' bank.

Traditionally, the Rothschilds represented the banking interests of the Austrian-controlled German Confederation in Europe. In the conflict between the rapidly rising and expanding nation of Prussia and the "pro-Austrian" German Confederation, the Rothschild Bank was largely caught in an uncomfortable position in the middle of the conflict.

◇ Walther Rathenau

Rathenau initiated the Treaty of Rapallo, which removed major obstacles to trading with Soviet Russia. Although Russia was already aiding Germany's secret rearmament programme, right-wing nationalist groups branded Rathenau a revolutionary, when he was in fact a moderate liberal who openly condemned Soviet methods. They also resented his background as a successful Jewish businessman.

Two months after signing the treaty, he was assassinated in Berlin by the right-wing terrorist group Organization Consul. The public viewed Rathenau as a democratic martyr until the Nazis banned all commemorations of him.

Imagine, then, after that defeat, if we found out that it was the Chinese in this country, our Chinese citizens, who all the time we thought they were loyal citizens working with us, were selling us out to the Soviet Union and that it was through them that Red China was brought into the war against us. How would we feel, in the United States against Chinese? I don't think that one of them would dare show his face on any street. There wouldn't be lampposts enough, convenient, to take care of them. Imagine how we would feel.

Well, that's how the Germans felt towards these Jews. "We've been so nice to them"; and from 1905 on, when the first Communist revolution in Russia failed, and the Jews had to scramble out of Russia, they all went to Germany. And Germany gave them refuge. And they were treated very nicely. And here they sold Germany down the river for no reason at all other than they wanted Palestine as a so-called "Jewish commonwealth."

Now, Nahum Sokolow* - all the great leaders, the big names that you read about in connection with Zionism today - they, in 1919, 1920, '21, '22, and '23... they wrote in all their papers - and the press was filled with their statements - that "the feeling against the Jews in Germany is due to the fact that they realized that this great defeat was brought about by our intercession and bringing the United States into the war against them."

The Jews themselves admitted that. It wasn't that the Germans in 1919 discovered that a glass of Jewish blood tasted better than Coca-Cola or Muenschner Beer. There was no religious feeling. There was

✡ Nahum Sokolow

Sokolow was not a member of the Hovevei Zion movement even though his HaTzefira was Zionist in orientation. Indeed when ✡ Theodor Herzl's pamphlet Der Judenstaat (The Jewish State) was published (see notes following this appendix) - heralding the coming of age of Zionism - Sokolow dismissed the Eretz-Israel option as an illusion. However, Sokolow went through a metamorphosis and rallied to the Zionist organization in particular after ✡ David Wolffsohn (see notes following this appendix), Herzl's successor called on him to become the Secretary General of the World Zionist Organization. Sokolow held this position from 1907-1909 but differences over the political nature of Wolffsohn's Zionism led to a rift between the two men. In 1911, under a new administration, Sokolow became responsible for the political portfolio and tried to win support for the Zionist idea in particular in the United States and in Britain. Just before the outbreak of the First World War he had visited various Arab leaders but with the outbreak of hostilities he moved to England where he worked closely with Chaim Weizmann.

Sokolow became a key figure in the negotiations for the Balfour Declaration when he met with French officials and won a pro-Zionist statement from them in May 1917. He was received by Cardinal Gasparri, the Papal Secretary of State, who assured Sokolow that Zionism need not fear the Vatican. These missions elevated his status in the movement as evidenced by the fact that at the Paris Peace Conference in 1919 he headed the Zionist delegation. In 1921, Sokolow was elected Chairperson of the Zionist Executive during which time he traveled extensively, putting the case of the movement before various dignitaries including Mussolini. In 1931 following Weizmann's departure from the Presidency of the World Zionist Organization, Sokolow assumed his mantle although he continued the policies of his predecessor. When in 1935 Weizmann returned to the Presidency, Sokolow was elected honorary President and assumed responsibilities in the newly formed Cultural Department. He died in 1936. His remains were reinterred at Mt. Herzl, Jerusalem in 1956.

no sentiment against those people merely on account of their religious belief. It was all political. It was economic. It was anything but religious.

Nobody cared in Germany whether a Jew went home and pulled down the shades and said "Shema' Yisrael" or "Our Father." No one cared in Germany any more than they do in the United States. Now this feeling that developed later in Germany was due to one thing: that the Germans held the Jews responsible for their crushing defeat, for no reason at all, because World War One was started against Germany for no reason for which they [Germans] were responsible. They were guilty of nothing. Only of being successful. They built up a big navy. They built up world trade.

You must remember, Germany, at the time of Napoléon, at the time of the French Revolution, what was the German Reich consisted of 300 - three hundred! - small city-states, principalities, dukedoms, and so forth. Three hundred little separate political entities. And between that time, between the period of... between Napoléon and Bismarck, they were consolidated into one state. And within 50 years after that time they became one of the world's great powers. Their navy was rivaling Great Britain's, they were doing business all over the world, they could undersell anybody and make better products. And what happened? What happened as a result of that?

There was a conspiracy between England, France, and Russia that: "We must slap down Germany," because there isn't one historian in the world that can find a valid reason why those three countries decided to wipe Germany off the map politically. Now, what happened after that?

When Germany realized that the Jews were responsible for her defeat, they naturally resented it. But not a hair on the head of any Jew was harmed. Not a single hair. Professor Tansill,† of Georgetown † Charles C. Tansill (9 December 1890, Fredericksburg, Texas - 12 December 1964, Washington D.C.), one of the foremost American diplomatic historians of the 20th Century was an American historian and the author of fourteen history books. Professor Tansill taught American history and American diplomatic relations at the Catholic University of America (1915-16), American University (1919-37), Fordham University (1939-44), and Georgetown University (1944-57). He was an outspoken isolationist prior to World War Two, and he was accused of revisionism after the war. He was a eugenacist and a segregationist.

Controversies surrounded him after he spent 1935 in Germany with financial support from the Carl Schurz Foundation. His pro-German views, which he expressed in many lectures and public forums, ultimately got him dismissed from American University. He was later hired by Fordham and Georgetown.

Today, Tansill is primarily remembered for writings on the causes of both World Wars.

University, who had access to all the secret papers of the State Department, wrote in his book, and quoted from a State Department document written by ♦ Hugo Schoenfelt, a Jew who Cordell Hull sent to Europe in 1933 to investigate the so-called camps of political prisoners. And he wrote back that he found them in very fine condition.

They were in excellent shape; everybody treated well. And they were filled with Communists. Well, a lot of them were Jews, because the Jews happened to be maybe 98% of the Communists in Europe at that time. And there were some priests there, and ministers, and labor leaders, Masons, and others who had international affiliations.

Now, the Jews sort of tried to keep the lid on this fact. They didn't want the world to really understand that they had sold out Germany, and that the Germans resented that.

So they did take appropriate action against them [against the Jews]. They... shall I say, discriminated against them wherever they could? They shunned them. The same as we would the Chinese, or the Negroes, or the Catholics, or anyone in this country who had sold us out to an enemy and brought about our defeat.

Now, after a while, the Jews of the world didn't know what to do, so they called a meeting in Amsterdam. Jews from every country in the world attended in July 1933. And they said to Germany: "You fire Hitler! And you put every Jew back into his former position, whether he was a Communist, no matter what he was. You can't treat us that way! And we, the Jews of the world, are calling upon you, and serving this ultimatum upon you." Well, the Germans told them... you can imagine. So what did they [the Jews] do?

and Secretary of State Robert Lansing, his massive, carefully documented America Goes to War (1938) won wide acclaim. Tansill condemned the incompetence of House and Lansing and their failure to recognize and act upon American interests. Developing more sharply what had been only an implicit theme of other World War One revisionists, Tansill stressed how the ineptitude and pro-Entente (hence un-American) loyalties of these policymakers had led to the nation's tragic involvement in a European war. Unlike most other World War One revisionists, Tansill did not attribute this failure to the limits to American power and influence. The book's thesis was well received in Germany - the German ambassador Hans Dieckhoff sent copies of America Goes to War to the Amerika Institut in Berlin, which in turn distributed it to National Socialist leaders including Hermann Göring.

Tansill argued that since 1900, America's foreign policy had mainly sought to preserve the British Empire. He blamed America's involvement in the war partly on Henry Stimson's belligerence toward Japan since 1932. But mostly Tansill faulted Roosevelt, accusing him of pressuring Neville Chamberlain to fight Hitler; of increasingly involving America in Britain's war effort; of trying to provoke Hitler into attacking American warships in the Atlantic; and, by escalating economic and diplomatic pressure, of maneuvering the Japanese into attacking Pearl Harbor.

Besides his revisionist circle of friends, Tansill maintained close associations with several figures of the far right. He was close to both George Sylvester Viereck and H. Keith Thompson. Tansill's associations, as well perhaps as the strength of his arguments have resulted in his condemnation by outspoken members of the anti-revisionist crowd. Deborah Lipstadt in her anti-revisionist screed, Denying the Holocaust wrote, "Tansill set out a number of arguments that would become essential elements of Holocaust denial." While Tansill did not comment on the Holocaust in his writing, he is subject to the ad hominem attack and damning label of "denier" because he dared to question the accepted version of responsibility for the Second World War.

Charles Callan Tansill was a great historian who sought to discover the truth of the World's greatest conflicts. When his discoveries varied from the official story, he refused to keep quiet. Despite the impact on his career and his reputation, Tansill remained an outspoken voice for revisionist history.

Untermyer also advocated the Zionist movement and was President of the Keren Hayesod, the agency through which the movement was then and still is conducted in America.

† ♦ Rosa Luxemburg (also Rozalia Luxenburg; Polish: Róża Luksemburg; 5 March 1871, Zamość, in Russian-controlled Congress Poland - 15 January 1919) was a Marxist theorist, philosopher, economist, anti-war activist, and revolutionary socialist of Polish-Jewish descent who became a naturalized German citizen. She was, successively, a member of the Social Democracy of the Kingdom of Poland and Lithuania (SDKPiL), the Social Democratic Party of Germany (SPD), the Independent Social Democratic Party (USPD), and the Communist Party of Germany (KPD).

♦ Rosa Luxemburg

Karl Liebknecht

She became involved in underground activities while still in high school. Like many of her radical contemporaries from the Russian Empire who were faced with prison, she emigrated to Zürich in 1889. There she studied law and political economy, receiving a doctorate in 1898. In Zürich she became involved in the international socialist movement and met Georgy Valentinovich Plekhanov, Pavel Axelrod, and other leading representatives of the Russian social democratic movement, with whom, however, she soon began to disagree. Together with a fellow student, Leo Jogiches, who was to become a lifelong friend and sometime lover, she challenged both the Russians and the established Polish Socialist Party because of their support of Polish independence. Consequently, she and her colleagues founded the rival Polish Social Democratic Party, which was to become the nucleus of the future Polish Communist Party. The national issue became one of Luxemburg's main themes. To her, nationalism and national independence were regressive concessions to the class enemy, the bourgeoisie. She consistently underrated nationalist aspirations and stressed socialist internationalism. This became one of her major points of disagreement with Vladimir Lenin and his theory of national self-determination.

In 1898, after marrying Gustav Lübeck to obtain German citizenship: [The hapless Gustav Lübeck seems to have had little say in the matter and after a quick official ceremony, the happy couple probably never saw each other again. This 'marriage of convenience' was designed solely to allow Rosa to leave Zürich University for Berlin, the centre of the German Empire and headquarters of the German Social Democratic Party (SPD).] She settled in Berlin to work with the largest and most powerful constituent party of the Second International, the Social Democratic Party of Germany. Almost at once, she jumped into the revisionist controversy that divided the party. In 1898 the German revisionist Eduard Bernstein argued that Marxist theory was essentially outdated and that socialism in highly industrialized nations could best be achieved through a gradualist approach, using trade-union activity and parliamentary politics. This Luxemburg denied categorically in Sozialreform oder Revolution? (1889; Reform or Revolution), in which she defended Marxist orthodoxy and the necessity of revolution, arguing that parliament was nothing more than a bourgeois sham. Karl Kautsky, the leading theoretician of the Second International, agreed with her, and revisionism consequently became a socialist heresy both in Germany and abroad, though it continued to make headway, especially in the labour movement.

The Russian Revolution of 1905 proved to be the central experience in Luxemburg's life. Until then she had believed that Germany was the country in which world revolution was most likely to originate. She now believed it would catch fire in Russia. She went to Warsaw, participated in the struggle, and was imprisoned. From these experiences emerged her theory of revolutionary mass action, which she propounded in Massenstreik, Partei und Gewerkschaften (1906; The Mass Strike, the Political Party, and the Trade Unions). Luxemburg advocated the mass strike as the single most important tool of the proletariat, Western as well as Russian, in attaining a socialist victory. The mass strike, the spontaneous result of "objective conditions," would radicalize the workers and drive the revolution forward. In contrast to Lenin, she deemphasized the need for a tight party structure, believing that organization would emerge naturally from the struggle. For this she was repeatedly chastised by orthodox communist parties.

Released from her Warsaw prison, she taught at the Social Democratic Party school in Berlin (1907–14), where she wrote Die Akkumulation des Kapitals (1913; The Accumulation of Capital). In this analysis, she described imperialism as the result of a dynamic capitalism's expansion into underdeveloped areas of the world. It was during this time also that she began to agitate for mass actions and broke completely with the established Social Democratic party leadership of August Bebel and Kautsky, who disagreed with her incessant drive toward proletarian radicalization.

The Social Democratic Party backed the German government at the outbreak of World War One, but Luxemburg immediately went into opposition. In an alliance with Karl Liebknecht and other like-minded radicals, she formed the Spartakusbund, or Spartacus League, which was dedicated to ending the war through revolution and the establishment of a proletarian government. The organization's theoretical basis was Luxemburg's pamphlet Die Krise der Sozialdemokratie (1916; The Crisis in the German Social Democracy), written in prison under the pseudonym Junius. In this work she agreed with Lenin in advocating the overthrow of the existing regime and the formation of a new International strong enough to prevent a renewed outbreak of mass slaughter. The actual influence of the Spartacus group during Released from prison by the German revolution (November 1918), Luxemburg and Liebknecht immediately began agitation to force the new order to the left. They exercised considerable influence on the public and were a contributing factor in a number of armed clashes in Berlin. As a result, Luxemburg was vilified as "Bloody Rosa" in the bourgeois press. Like the Bolsheviks, Luxemburg and Liebknecht demanded political power for the workers' and soldiers' soviets but were frustrated by the conservative Socialist establishment and the army. In late December 1918, they became founders of the Communist Party of Germany (KPD), but Luxemburg attempted to limit Bolshevik influence in this new organization. In fact, her Die russische Revolution (1922; The Russian Revolution) chastised Lenin's party on its agrarian and national self-determination stands and its dictatorial and terrorist methods. Luxemburg always remained a believer in democracy as opposed to Lenin's democratic centralism. She was never able, however, to exercise a decisive influence on the new party. Because of their role in fomenting a communist uprising known as the Spartacus Revolt, she and Liebknecht were arrested and murdered in Berlin on 15 January 1919, by members of the Free Corps (Freikorps), a loose assemblage of conservative paramilitary groups.

Luxemburg was freed from prison in Breslau on 8 November 1918. One day later, Karl Liebknecht, who had also been freed from prison, proclaimed the "Free Socialist Republic" (Freie Sozialistische Republik) in Berlin. He and Luxemburg reorganized the Spartacus League and founded the Red Flag (Die Rote Fahne) newspaper, demanding amnesty for all political prisoners and the abolition of capital punishment in the essay Against Capital Punishment. On 14 December 1918, they published the new programme of the Spartacus League.

From 29-to-31 December 1918, they took part in a joint congress of the League, independent socialists and the International Communists of Germany (IKD), that led to the foundation on 1 January 1919 of the Communist Party of Germany (KPD) under the leadership of Liebknecht and Luxemburg. She supported the new KPD's participation in the Weimar took over the government for three days. In fact, when the Kaiser ended the war, he fled to Holland because he thought the Communists were going to take over Germany as they did Russia, and that he was going to meet the same fate that the Czar did in Russia. So he left and went to Holland for safety and for security.

Now, at that time, when the Communist threat in Germany was quashed, it was quiet, the Jews were working, still trying to get back into their former - their status - and the Germans fought them in every way they could, without hurting a hair on anyone's head. The same as one group, the Prohibitionists, fought the people who were interested in liquor, and they didn't fight one another with pistols, they did it every way they could.

Well, that's the way they were fighting the Jews in Germany. And, at that time, mind you, there were 80 to 90 million Germans and there were only 460,000 Jews... less than one-half-of-one-percent of Germany were Jews. And yet, they controlled all of the press, they controlled most of the economy, because they had come in and with cheap money - you know the way the Mark was devalued - they bought up practically everything.

National Assembly that founded the Weimar Republic, but was out-voted and the KPD boycotted the elections.

In January 1919, a second revolutionary wave swept Berlin. On New Year's Day Luxemburg declared:

Today we can seriously set about destroying capitalism once and for all. Nay, more; not merely are we today in a position to perform this task, nor merely is its performance a duty toward the proletariat, but our solution offers the only means of saving human society from destruction.

Like Liebknecht, Luxemburg refused to reject this violent attempt to seize power. The Red Flag encouraged the rebels to occupy the editorial offices of the liberal press.

In response to the uprising, the Social Democratic leader Friedrich Ebert ordered the Freikorps to destroy the left-wing revolution. Luxemburg and Liebknecht were captured in Berlin on 15 January 1919 by the Rifle Division of the Cavalry Guards of the Freikorps (Garde-Kavallerie-Schützendivision). Its commander Captain Waldemar Pabst, with Lieutenant Horst von Pflugk-Harttung, questioned them under torture and then gave the order to execute them. Luxemburg was knocked down with a rifle butt by the soldier Otto Runge, then shot in the head, either by Lieutenant Kurt Vogel or by Lieutenant Hermann Souchon. Her body was flung into Berlin's Landwehr Canal. In the Tiergarten Liebknecht was shot and his body, without a name, brought to a morgue.

The execution of Luxemburg and Liebknecht inspired a new wave of violence in Berlin and across Germany. Thousands of members of the KPD as well as other revolutionaries and civilians were killed. Finally, the People's Navy Division (Volksmarinedivision) and workers' and soldiers' councils, which had moved to the political left, disbanded. Luxemburg was held in high regard by Lenin and Leon Trotsky, who recognized at the Third International her revolutionary credentials.

The last part of the German Revolution saw many instances of armed violence and strikes throughout Germany. Significant strikes occurred in Berlin, the Bremen Soviet Republic, Saxony, Saxe-Gotha, Hamburg, the Rhineland, and the Ruhr region. Last to strike was the Bavarian Soviet Republic, which was suppressed on 2 May 1919.

More than four months after the execution of Luxemburg and Liebknecht, on 1 June 1919, Luxemburg's corpse was found and identified after an autopsy at the Charité hospital in Berlin. Otto Runge was sentenced to two years imprisonment (for "attempted manslaughter") and Lieutenant Vogel to four months (for failing to report a corpse). However, Vogel escaped after a brief custody. Pabst and Souchon went unpunished. The Nazis later compensated Runge for having been jailed (he died in Berlin in Soviet custody after the end of World War Two), and they merged the Garde-Kavallerie-Schützendivision into the SA. In an interview with German news magazine Der Spiegel in 1962 and again in his memoirs, Pabst maintained that two leaders of the SPD, Defence Minister Gustav Noske and Chancellor Friedrich Ebert, had approved of his actions. His account has been neither confirmed nor denied, since the case has not been examined by parliament or the courts.

Luxemburg and Liebknecht were buried at the Friedrichsfelde Central Cemetery in Berlin, where socialists and communists commemorate them yearly on the second Sunday of January.

Well, in 1933 when Germany refused to surrender, mind you, to the World Conference of Jews in Amsterdam, they broke up and Mr. Untermyer came back to the United States - who was the head of the American delegation and the president of the whole conference - and he went from the steamer to ABC and made a radio broadcast throughout the United States in which he said:

"The Jews of the world now declare a Holy War against Germany. We are now engaged in a sacred conflict against the Germans. And we are going to starve them into surrender. We are going to use a world-wide boycott against them, that will destroy them because they are dependent upon their export business."

And it is a fact that two thirds of Germany's food supply had to be imported, and it could only be imported with the proceeds of what they exported. Their labor. So if Germany could not export, two thirds of Germany's population would have to starve. There just was not enough food for more than one third of the population.

Now in this declaration, which I have here, it was printed on page - a whole page - in the New York Times on 7 August 1933, ✧ Mr. Samuel Untermyer boldly stated that: "this economic boycott is our means of self-defense. President Roosevelt has advocated its use in the National Recovery Administration (NRA)" - which some of you may remember, where everybody was to be boycotted unless they followed the rules laid down by the New Deal, which of course was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court at that time.

Nevertheless, the Jews of the world declared a boycott against Germany, and it was so effective that you couldn't find one thing in any store anywhere in the world with the words "made in Germany" on it.

In fact, an executive of the Woolworth Company told me that they had to dump millions of dollars worth of crockery and dishes into the river; that their stores were boycotted. If anyone came in and found a dish marked "made in Germany," they were picketed with signs: "Hitler," "murderer," and so forth, and like - something like these sit-ins that are taking place in the South.

R. H. Macy, which is controlled by a family called ✧ Strauss who also happen to be Jews... a woman found stockings there which came from Chemnitz, marked "made in Germany." Well, they were cotton stockings. They may have been there 20 years, because since I've been observing women's legs in the last twenty years, I haven't seen a pair with cotton stockings on them. So Macy! I saw Macy boycotted, with hundreds of people walking around with signs saying "MURDERS" and "HITLERITES," and so forth.

Now up to that time, not one hair on the head of any Jew had been hurt in Germany. There was no suffering, there was no starvation, there was no murder, there was nothing.

Now, that... naturally, the Germans said, "Why, who are these people to declare a boycott against us and throw all our people out of work, and our industries come to a standstill? Who are they to do that to us?" They naturally resented it. Certainly they painted swastikas on stores owned by Jews.

Why should a German go in and give their money to a storekeeper who was part of a boycott who was going to starve Germany into surrender into the Jews of the world, who were going to dictate who their premier or chancellor was to be? Well, it was ridiculous.

That continued for some time, and it wasn't until 1938, when a young Jew from Poland walked into the German embassy in Paris and shot one of the officials [a German official] that the Germans really started to get rough with the Jews in Germany. And you found them then breaking windows and having street fights and so forth.

Now, for anyone to say that - I don't like to use the word "anti-Semitism" because it's meaningless, but it means something to you still, so I'll have to use it - the only reason that there was any feeling in Germany against Jews was that they were responsible: number one, for World War One; number two, for this world-wide boycott, and number three - did I say for World War One, they were responsible? For the boycott - and also for World War Two, because after this thing got out of hand, it was absolutely necessary for the Jews and Germany to lock horns in a war to see which one was going to survive.

In the meanwhile, I had lived in Germany, and I knew that the Germans had decided [that] Europe is going to be Christian or Communist: there is no in between. It's going to be Christian or it's going to be Communist. And the Germans decided: "We're going to keep it Christian if possible." And they started to re-arm.

And there intention was - by that time the United States had recognized the Soviet Union, which they did in November, 1933 - the Soviet Union was becoming very powerful, and Germany realized: "Well, our turn is going to come soon, unless we are strong." The same as we in this country are saying today, "Our turn is going to come soon, unless we are strong."

And our government is spending 83-or-84 billion dollars of your money for defense, they say. Defense against whom? Defense against 40,000 little Jews in Moscow that took over Russia, and then, in their devious ways, took over control of many other governments of the world.

Now, for this country to now be on the verge of a Third World War, from which we cannot emerge a victor, is something that staggers my imagination. I know that nuclear bombs are measured in terms of megatons. A megaton is a term used to describe one million tons of TNT. One million tons of TNT is a megaton. Now, our nuclear bombs have a capacity of 10 megatons, or 10 million tons of TNT. That was when they were first developed five or six years ago. Now, the nuclear bombs that are being developed have a capacity of 200 megatons, and God knows how many megatons the nuclear bombs of the Soviet Union have.

So, what do we face now? If we trigger a world war that may develop into a nuclear war, humanity is finished. And why will it take place? It will take place because Act III... the curtain goes up on Act III. Act I was World War I. Act II was World War II. Act III is going to be World War III.

The Jews of the world, the Zionists and their co-religionists everywhere, are determined that they are going to again use the United States to help them permanently retain Palestine as their foothold for their world government. Now, that is just as true as I am standing here, because not alone have I read it, but many here have read it, and it's known all over the world.

Now, what are we going to do? The life you save may be your son's. Your boys may be on their way to that war tonight; and you you don't know it any more than you knew that in 1916 in London the Zionists made a deal with the British War Cabinet to send your sons to war in Europe. Did you know it at that time? Not a person in the United States knew it. You weren't permitted to know it.

Who knew it? President Wilson knew it. Colonel House knew it. Other's knew it. Did I know it? I had a pretty good idea of what was going on: I was liaison to ✧ Henry Morgenthau, Sr.,* in the 1912

* ✧ Henry Morgenthau, Sr. (26 April 1856, Mannheim, Grand Duchy of Baden - 25 November 1946, New York City, and was buried in Hawthorne, New York) was an Ashkenazi Jew and an American lawyer, businessman and United States ambassador, most famous as the American ambassador to the Ottoman Empire during the First World War. As ambassador to the Ottoman Empire, Morgenthau has come to be identified as the most prominent American to speak about the Armenian Genocide.

In 1915, ✧ Henry Morgenthau Sr., U.S. ambassador to the Ottoman Empire, witnessed the first targeted arrests and killings of hundreds of leading Armenians in Istanbul. He gathered reports of forced deportations of Armenians from their homes in eastern Turkey, which few survived. His State Department cables and candid discussions with Turkish officials became a 1918 book, Ambassador Morgenthau's Story, which remains the leading source of information about what happened.

Morgenthau had become U.S. ambassador in 1913 and served until 1916, when the U.S. was still neutral in World War I. He established close communications with leading Turkish officials. During the deportations, he collected daily reports from Western missionaries and consular officers across Turkey about the fate of Christian Armenians.

The marches of Armenians from their homes "represented a new method of massacre," Morgenthau reported - a "campaign of race extermination": "When the Turkish authorities gave the orders for these deportations, they were merely giving the death warrant to a whole race; they understood this well, and, in their conversations with me, they made no particular attempt to conceal the fact."

campaign when President Wilson was elected, and there was talk around the office there.

I was "confidential man" to ♦ Henry Morgenthau, Sr., who was chairman of the Finance Committee, and I was liaison between him and Rollo Wells, the treasurer. So I sat in these meetings with President Wilson at the head of the table, and all the others, and I heard them

The only modern communication tool Morgenthau had was a telephone, one of the few in Istanbul. He used it to try to persuade the Turkish authorities to stop the atrocities. They were "annoyed" by his pestering.

Interior Minister Talaat Pasha asked him: "Why are you so interested in the Armenians anyway? You are a Jew; these people are Christians. Why can't you let us do with these Christians as we please?"

Morgenthau replied: "I am not here as a Jew, but as American ambassador. My country contains something like 97 million Christians and something less than three million Jews. So, at least in my ambassadorial capacity, I am 97% Christian. But after all, that is not the point. I do not appeal to you in the name of any race or religion, but merely as a human being."

He added: "Our people will never forget these massacres. They will always resent the wholesale destruction of Christians in Turkey."

Morgenthau recruited American missionaries and philanthropists in 1915 to form the American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief, which solicited donations from across the U.S. The group distributed vivid posters with the tagline "Give or We Perish." After leaving his post, Morgenthau often spoke on behalf of the relief effort. Americans contributed $100 million, equivalent to almost $2.5 billion today.

Mustafa Kemal Atatürk, the secularist who founded modern Turkey after World War One and the empire's collapse, criticized his predecessors, "who should have been made to account for the lives of millions of Christian subjects who were ruthlessly driven en masse from their homes and massacred."

♦ Henry Morgenthau, Sr.      ♦ Henry Morgenthau Jr.

Morgenthau Sr. was the father of the politician ♦ Henry Morgenthau Jr. (11 May 1891 - 6 February 1967) was the U.S. Secretary of the Treasury during the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt. Henry Morgenthau Jr. (1891–1967) served as secretary of the treasury in the Roosevelt and Truman administrations from 1 January 1934, until 22 July 1945. He was the only Jew in Roosevelt's cabinet.

He played a major role in designing and financing the New Deal, preparing the U.S. economy for war, and financing the war effort through the sale of war bonds. After 1937, while still in charge of the Treasury, he played the central role in financing U.S. participation in World War Two. He also played an increasingly major role in shaping foreign policy, especially with respect to Lend Lease, support for China, helping Jewish refugees, and proposing (in the "Morgenthau Plan") to prevent Germany from again being a military threat by wrecking its industry and mines.

The Morgenthau Plan advocated harsh measures to ensure Germany could not go to war again. According to the plan, Germany was to be partitioned into two states, its industry internationalized or annexed by neighboring countries, and its heavy industry dismantled. Although Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill signed a modified version of the plan in September 1944 at the Second Québec Conference, the victorious Allies never fully implemented it. U.S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull and U.S. Secretary of War Henry Stimson firmly opposed the policy as did British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden. Moreover, in the first postwar years, the Truman administration's concern about the developing "Cold War" and the need to strengthen the western zones of occupied Germany reinforced opposition to implementation of the Morgenthau Plan.

Due to personal and policy differences with President Harry S. Truman, Morgenthau was forced to resign from the Treasury in July 1945. He spent much of the rest of his life working for Jewish philanthropies, including the United Jewish Appeal, and became a strong supporter of the state of Israel.

drum into President Wilson's brain the graduated income tax and what has become the Federal Reserve,* and also indoctrinate him with the Zionist movement.

♦ Justice Brandeis† and President Wilson were just as close as the two fingers on this hand, and President Woodrow Wilson was just as incompetent when it came to determining what was going on as a newborn baby. And that's how they got us into World War I, while we all slept.

Now, at this moment... at this moment they may be planning this World War III, in which we don't stand a chance even if they don't use nuclear bombs. How can the United States - about five percent of the world - go out and fight 80-to90% of the world on their home ground? How can we do it... send our boys over there to be slaughtered? For what? So the Jews can have Palestine as their 'commonwealth'?

* The United States has had three coups if you count the first one as being Jekyll Island in November of 1910. Those first coup plotters met at Jekyll Island and secretly wrote the law that became the Federal Reserve Act of 1913. All of the bankers who met in secret were Rothschild agents. This included Paul Warburg of the Rothschild dominated Kuhn Loeb bank. Nelson Aldrich who was a Senator married into the Rockefeller family. The Rockefellers were created by the Rothschilds as were J P Morgan, the Harrimans and the Bush family. Senator Aldrich was head of the National Monetary Commission created by President Theodore Roosevelt. Roosevelt had become President after the Jews had successfully assassinated President McKinley. They previously had assassinated President Lincoln. John Wilkes Booth was Jewish. But I prefer not to count these earlier assassinations as coups. The remaining members of the Jekyll Island Six were Treasury Department employees who did what they were told to do.

The first day of those meetings actually occurred in a private railway car on the evening of 22 November 1910. When the Jews took over America's banking and monetary system in 1913, they took over the country. Not all coups involve tanks in the streets. It was no coincidence that President Kennedy was assassinated on 22 November 1963 which was the 53rd anniversary of Israel's earlier coup. President Kennedy had dared to attempt to take America back from the Jews.

All three of America's coups involved Israel. I have defined an Israeli as anyone of Jewish descent who is loyal to Israel. There was no state of Israel in 1910 but there was an ongoing criminal enterprise which could be called Judaism Incorporated. Any educated person whose thoughts have not been contaminated by the Jews should view Israel as the enemy of all mankind.

† ♦ Louis Dembitz Brandeis (13 November 1856, Louisville, Kentucky - 5 October 1941) was an American lawyer and associate justice on the Supreme Court of the United States from 1916 to 1939.

♦ Louis Dembitz Brandeis

In 1916, President Woodrow Wilson nominated Brandeis to become a member of the Supreme Court. His nomination was bitterly contested, partly because, as Justice William O. Douglas wrote, "Brandeis was a militant crusader for social justice whoever his opponent might be. He was dangerous not only because of his brilliance, his arithmetic, his courage. He was dangerous because he was incorruptible... [and] the fears of the Establishment were greater because Brandeis was the first Jew to be named to the Court." On 1 June 1916 he was confirmed by the Senate by a vote of 47 to 22, to become one of the most famous and influential figures ever to serve on the high court. His opinions were, according to legal scholars, some of the "greatest defenses" of freedom of speech and the right to privacy ever written by a member of the Supreme Court.

The remains of both Justice Brandeis and his wife are interred beneath the portico of the Law School of the University of Louisville, in Louisville, Kentucky

They've fooled you so much that you don't know whether you're coming or going.

Now any judge, when he charges a jury, says, "Gentlemen, any witness that you find has told a single lie, you can disregard all his testimony." That is correct. I don't know from what state you come, but in New York state that is the way a judge addresses a jury. If that witness said one lie, disregard his testimony.

Now, what are the facts about the Jews?

The Jews - I call them Jews to you, because they are known as Jews. I don't call them Jews. I refer to them as so-called Jews, because I know what they are. If Jesus was a Jew, there isn't a Jew in the world today, and if those people are Jews, certainly our Lord and Savior was not one of them, and I can prove that.

Now what happened? The eastern European Jews, who form 92% of the world's population of those people who call themselves Jews, were originally Khazars.

They were a warlike tribe that lived deep in the heart of Asia. And they were so warlike that even the Asiatics drove them out of Asia into eastern Europe - and to reduce this so you don't get too confused about the history of Eastern Europe - they set up this big Khazar kingdom: 800,000 square miles. Only, there was no Russia, there were no other countries, and the Khazar kingdom was the biggest country in all Europe - so big and so powerful that when the other monarchs wanted to go to war, the Khazars would lend them 40,000 soldiers. That's how big and powerful they were.

Now, they were phallic worshippers, which is filthy. I don't want to go into the details of that now. It was their religion the way it was the religion of many other Pagans or Barbarians elsewhere in the world.

Now, the [Khazar] king became so disgusted with the degeneracy of his kingdom that he decided to adopt a so-called monotheistic faith - either Christianity, Islam - the Moslem faith - or what is known today as Judaism - really Talmudism. So, like spinning a top and calling out "eeny, meeny, miney, moe," he picked out so-called Judaism. And that became the state religion.

He sent down to the Talmudic schools of Pumbedita and Sura and brought up thousands of these rabbis with their teachings, and opened up synagogues and schools in his kingdom of 800,000 people - 800,000 thousand square miles - and maybe ten to twenty million people; and they became what we call Jews. There wasn't one of them that had an ancestor that ever put a toe in the Holy Land, not only in Old Testament history, but back to the beginning of time. Not one of them! And yet they come to the Christians and they ask us to support their armed insurrection in Palestine by saying: "Well, you want to certainly help repatriate God's chosen people to their Promised Land, their ancestral homeland. t's your Christian duty. We gave you one of our boys as your Lord and Savior. You now go to church on Sunday, and kneel and you worship a Jew, and we're Jews."

Well, they were pagan Khazars who were converted just the same as the Irish [were converted]. And it's just as ridiculous to call them "people of the Holy Land," as it would be... there are 54 million Chinese Moslems. Fifty four million! And, Mohammed only died in 620 A.D., so in that time, 54 million Chinese have accepted Islam as their religious belief.

Now imagine, in China, 2000 miles away from Arabia, where the city of Mecca is located, where Mohammed was born... imagine if the 54 million Chinese called themselves "Arabs." Imagine! Why, you'd say they're lunatics. Anyone who believes that those 54 million Chinese are Arabs must be crazy. All they did was adopt as a religious faith; a belief that had its origin in Mecca, in Arabia.

The same as the Irish. When the Irish became Christians, nobody dumped them in the ocean and imported from the Holy Land a new crop of inhabitants that were Christians. They weren't different people. They were the same people, but they had accepted Christianity as a religious faith.

Now, these Pagans, these Asiatics, these Turko-Finns... they were a Mongoloid race who were forced out of Asia into eastern Europe. They likewise, because their king took the faith - Talmudic faith - they had no choice. Just the same as in Spain: If the king was Catholic, everybody had to be a Catholic. If not, you had to get out of Spain. So everybody - they lived on the land just like the trees and the bushes; a human being belonged to the land under their feudal system - so they [Khazars] all became what we call today, Jews!

Now imagine how silly it was for the Christians... for the great Christian countries of the world to say, "We're going to use our power, our prestige to repatriate God's chosen people to their ancestral homeland, their Promised Land."

Now, could there be a bigger lie than that? Could there be a bigger lie than that?

And because they control the newspapers, the magazines, the radio, the television, the book publishing business, they have the ministers in the pulpit, they have the politicians on the soap boxes talking the same language... so naturally you'd believe black is white if you heard it often enough. You wouldn't call black black anymore - you'd start to call black white. And nobody could blame you.

Now, that is one of the great lies... that is the foundation of all the misery that has befallen the world. Because after two wars fought in Europe - World War I and World War II - if it wasn't possible for them to live in peace and harmony with the people in Europe, like their brethren are living in the United States, what were the two wars fought for? Did they have to - like you flush the toilet - because they couldn't get along, did they have to say, "Well, we're going back to our homeland and you Christians can help us"?

I can't understand yet how the Christians in Europe could have been that dumb because every theologian, every history teacher, knew the things that I'm telling you. But, they naturally bribed them, shut them up with money, stuffed their mouths with money, and now... I don't care whether you know all this or not. It doesn't make any difference to me whether you know all these facts or not, but it does make a difference to me. I've got, in my family, boys that will have to be in the next war, and I don't want them to go and fight and die... like they died in Korea. Like they died in Japan. Like they've died all over the world. For what?

To help crooks hold on to what they stole from innocent people who had been in peaceful possession of that land, those farms, those homes for hundreds and maybe thousands of years? Is that why the United States must go to war? Because the Democratic Party wants New York State - the electoral vote? Illinois, the electoral vote? And Pennsylvania, the electoral vote?... which are controlled by the Zionists and their co-religionists?... the balance of power?

In New York City there are 400,000 members of the liberal party, all Zionists and their co-religionists. And New York State went for Kennedy* by 400,000 votes. Now, I don't blame Mr. Kennedy. I'm * John Fitzgerald "Jack" Kennedy (29 May 1917, Brookline, Massachusetts - assassinated at 12:30 pm Central Standard Time on Friday, 22 November 1963, Dallas, Texas), commonly referred to by his initials JFK, was an American politician who served as the 35th President of the United States from January 1961 until his assassination in November 1963. The Cuban Missile Crisis, the Bay of Pigs Invasion, the Nuclear Test Ban Treaty, the establishment of the Peace Corps, developments in the Space Race, the building of the Berlin Wall, the Trade Expansion Act to lower tariffs, and the Civil Rights Movement all took place during his presidency. A member of the Democratic Party, his New Frontier domestic program was largely enacted as a memorial to him after his death. Kennedy also established the Presidential Medal of Freedom in 1963.

John Fitzgerald "Jack" Kennedy

On 1 August 1945, 28-year-old John F. Kennedy traveled through Germany and visited the Eagle's Nest, Hitler's mountain retreat in the German Alps. In his diary Kennedy wrote: "After visiting these places, you can easily understand how that within a few years Hitler will emerge from the hatred that surrounds him now as one of the most significant figures who ever lived. He had boundless ambition for his country which rendered him a menace to the peace of the world, but he had a mystery about him in the way that he lived and in the manner of his death that will live and grow after him. He had in him the stuff of which legends are made."

The power, wealth, and glamour of the Kennedy family has contributed to their iconic status in American history. In fact, they are often referred to as "America's Royal Family." The Kennedy Dynasty was largely created by Joe Kennedy, who strategically created his family's image towards the public. He was fiercely ambitious, and motivated by competition and winning. Throughout his life, Joe Kennedy was a committed Catholic and spent his life battling Jews. In the 1996 book, The Sins of the Father: Joseph P. Kennedy and the Dynasty He Founded, award-winning journalist Robert Kessler wrote: "When Joe later went to Hollywood, he told his friends he expected to wipe out the Jewish "pants pressers" who ruled Hollywood." He added that "Joe Kennedy's feelings towards Jews was the only way he could be a success was that every day when he got up, he would focus on one deal involving a Jew and he would win the deal. That was his whole driving spirit."

Speaking of his stay in Hollywood, Joe Kennedy allegedly said: "I couldn't leave. If I left for two days, the Jews would rob me blind." Kessler also claimed Joe "would refer to Jews by a code word - Canadian geese; apparently because of a perception that Jews have long noses. John T. Galvin, who worked for Jack's campaign, confirmed this account. These facts are all documented by Kessler, who is a highly-respected journalist and won awards from the American Political Science Association, United Press International, and the Associated Press.

In the 1997 book, The Dark Side of Camelot, award-winning journalist Seymour Hersch claimed that Joe told his friends: "Individual Jews are alright... but as a race they stink. They spoil everything they touch. Look what they did to the movies." He added: Kennedy and his "entourage" generally referred to Jews as "kikes or sheenies." Hersch also claimed that in a meeting with a German ambassador, "Kennedy mentioned that very strong anti-Semitic feelings existed in the United States and that a large portion of the population had an understanding of the German attitude towards the Jews." These facts are all documented by Hersch, a Pulitzer Prize-winning investigative journalist.

In 1938, Joe Kennedy became the United States Ambassador to the United Kingdom in London. During World War Two, Joe clashed with Winston Churchill and supported Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's policy "appeasement." Joe also argues strongly against the United States giving military and economic aid to Britain. In fact, Joe attempted to arrange a meeting with Adolf Hitler without the approval of the Department of State. He claimed his goal was "to bring about a better understanding between the United States and Germany."

When the Roosevelt Administration read Joe's quotes on democracy being "finished," and his belief that the Battle of Britain was not about "fighting for democracy," FDR pressured him to resign. Joe Kennedy submitted his resignation in November of 1940. The next year, the United States entered the war. In 1945, the Axis Powers were defeated.

In 1956, Joe Kennedy met with DeWest Hooker in Palm Beach, Florida for a game of golf. According to Hooker, "Joe admitted that when he was ambassador to England that he had been pro-Hitler. However, in Kennedy's words: "We lost the war." By "we" he didn't mean the United States. When Kennedy said "we," he meant the non-Jews. Joe Kennedy believed that it was the Jews who had won World War Two." Hooker claimed that Kennedy added: "I've done everything I can to fight the Jewish powers in this country. I tried to stop World War Two, but I failed. I've made all the money I need and now I'm passing on everything I've learned to my sons.

Kennedy explained: "I don't go with the "loser," I've joined the "winners." I'm going to work with the Jews. I'm teaching my boys the whole score and they're going to work with the Jews." Kennedy concluded: "I'm going to make Jack the first Irish Catholic President of the United States and if it means working with the Jews, so be it." Later in the meeting, Joe Kennedy assured Hooker that a long-term aim of the Kennedy dynasty would be the destruction of what Joe referred to as "the Rothschild-dominated Federal Reserve." [Michael Collins Piper, Final Judgment; The Wolfe Press-Washington D.C., 1995.]

On 8 November 1960, John F. Kennedy defeated Richard Nixon, 49.7% to 49.5%. He was sworn in as the 35th President at noon on 20 January 1961, becoming the first Catholic President in the United States. According to fond of Mr. Kennedy. I think he's a great man. I think he can really pull us out of this trouble if we get the facts to him. And I believe he knows a great deal more than his appointments indicate he knows. He's playing with the enemy. Like when you go fishing, you've got to play with the fish. Let 'em out and pull 'em in. Let 'em out and pull 'em in. But knowing Mr. Kennedy's father, and how well informed he is on this whole subject, and how close Kennedy is to his father, I don't think Mr. Kennedy is totally in the dark.

But I do think that it is the duty of every mother, every loyal Christian, every person that regards the defense of this country as a sacred right, that they communicate - not with their congressman, not with their senator, but with President Kennedy. And tell him, "I do not think you should send my boy, or our boys, wearing the uniform of the United States of America, and under the flag that you see here, our red, white and blue, to fight there to help keep in the hands of these that which they have stolen." I think everyone should not alone write once, but keep writing and get your friends to write.

Now, I could go on endlessly, and tell you these things to support what I have just asked you to do. But I don't think it's necessary to do that. You're above the average group in intelligence and I don't think it's necessary to impress this any more.

But... I want to tell you one more thing. You talk about... "Oh, the Jews. Why the Jews? Christianity. Why, we got Christianity from the Jews and the Jews gave us Jesus, and the Jews gave us our religion". But do you know that on the day of atonement that you think is so sacred to them, that on that day... and I was one of them! This is not hearsay. I'm not here to be a rabble-rouser. I'm here to give you facts.

When, on the Day of Atonement, you walk into a synagogue, the very first prayer that you recite, you stand - and it's the only prayer for which you stand - and you repeat three times a short prayer: The Kol Nidre.* In that prayer, you enter into an agreement with God Almighty that any oath, vow, or pledge that you may make during the next twelve months - any oath, vow or pledge that you may take during the next twelve months shall be null and void.

Gallup Polls, Kennedy's average approval rating throughout his presidency was 70.1%. Since then, no other president has had a higher average rating.

However, President Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas, Texas, at 12:30 pm on 22 November 1963. Lee Harvey Oswald was accused of the shooting, but claimed he'd been set up. Two days later, Oswald was shot by Jack Ruby (a Jewish mobster, born as Jacob Rubenstein).

In his 1994 autobiography, My Life as a Radical Lawyer (p. 158), Jewish attorney William Kunstler remembers a conversation he had with Ruby after the shooting: "When Jack told me he had killed Oswald "for the Jews," I believed him. ON each of the three occasions we talked, he said: "Bill, I did this so they wouldn't implicate the Jews." Kunstler added: "During our last visit, he handed me a note in which he reiterated his desire to protect American Jews from a pogrom that could occur because of anger over the assassination."

*The Kol Nidre is the holiest Jewish prayer and is recited several times on Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement. It means "all vows" and is a flat statement that no promise of any kind will be kept for the coming year. It is also sung by the cantor in synagogue, accompanied on the violin and goes like this:

"All vows, obligations, oaths or anathemas, pledges of all names, which we have vowed, sworn, devoted, or bound ourselves to, from this day of atonement, until the next day of atonement (whose arrival we hope for in happiness) we repent, beforehand, of them all, they shall all be deemed absolved, forgiven, annulled, void and made of no effect; they shall not be binding, nor have any power; the vows shall not be reckoned as vows, the obligations shall not be obligatory, nor the oaths considered as oaths."

Remember the motto of Israel's elite organization, the Mossad: "By way of deception thou shalt make war."

Cf., Muslim scholars teach that Muslims should generally be truthful to each other, unless the purpose of lying is to "smooth over differences." There are several forms of lying to non-believers that are permitted under certain circumstances, the best known being taqiyya. These circumstances are typically those that advance the cause of Islam - in some cases by gaining the trust of non-believers in order to draw out their vulnerability and defeat them.

The oath shall not be an oath; the vow shall not be a vow; the pledge shall not be a pledge. They shall have no force and effect, and so forth and so on.

And further than that, the Talmud teaches: "Don't forget - whenever you take an oath, vow, and pledge - remember the Kol Nidre prayer that you recited on the Day of Atonement, and that exempts you from fulfilling that".

How much can you depend on their loyalty? You can depend upon their loyalty as much as the Germans depended upon it in 1916.

And we're going to suffer the same fate as Germany suffered, and for the same reason. You can't depend upon something as insecure as the leadership that is not obliged to respect an oath, vow or pledge. Now I could go on and recite many other things to you, but I would have a little respect for your time, and you want to really, uh, get through with all of this. Tomorrow's going to be a long day.

Now I want to say one thing. You ask me... well, you think to yourself: "well how did this fellow get mixed up in this the way he got mixed up in it." Well, I opened my mouth in 1945, and I took big pages in newspapers and tried to tell the American people what I'm telling you. And one newspaper after another refused the advertisement. And when I couldn't find a newspaper to take them - I paid cash, not credit - what happened? My lawyer told me, "There's an editor over in Jersey with a paper who will take your announcement." So, I was brought together with Mr. Conde McGinley, and that's how I met him.

So somebody told me the lawyer who introduced me, who was the son of the Dean of the Methodist Bishop, he said: "Well, I think he's a little anti-Semitic. I don't know whether I can get him over here. So he brought him over to my apartment and we hit it off wonderfully, and have since then.

Now, I say this, and I say it without any qualifications. I say it without any reservations. And I say it without any hesitation... if it wasn't for the work that Mr. Conley McGinley did with Common Sense - he's been sending out from 1,800,000 to 2,000,000 every year - if it wasn't for the work he's been doing sending those out for fifteen years now, we would already be a communist country. Nobody has done what he did to light fires. Many of the other active persons in this fight learned all about it for the first time through Common Sense.

Now, I have been very active in helping him all I could. I'm not as flush as I was. I cannot go on spending the money... I'm not going to take up a collection. Don't worry. I see five people getting up to leave.

(laughter)

I haven't got the money that I used to spend. I used to print a quarter of a million of them out of my own pocket and send them out. Mr. McGinley, when I first met him, had maybe 5000 printed and circulated them locally. So I said, "With what you know and what I know, we can really do a good job." So I started printing in outside shops of big newspaper companies, a quarter of a million, and paid for them. Well, there's always a bottom to the barrel. I suppose we've all reached that at times.

I'm not so poor that I can't live without working and that's what worries the Anti-Defamation League. I can just get by without going and asking for a job or getting on the bread line. But Mr. McGinley is working. He's sick and he's going at this stronger than ever. And all I want to say is that they want to close up Common Sense more than any other single thing in the whole world, as a death-blow to the fight Christians are making to survive.

So I just want to tell you this. All they do is circulate rumors: "Mr. Benjamin H. Freedman is the wealthy backer of Common Sense." The reason they do that is to discourage the people in the United States: don't send any money to Common Sense. They don't need it. They've got the wealthy Mr. Freedman as a backer. That all has strategy. They don't want to advertise me so that people that have real estate or securities to sell will come and call on me. They just want people to lay off Common Sense. And all I'm telling you is, I do try to help him, but I haven't been able to. And I will be very honest. One thing I won't do is lie. In the last year I've had so much sickness in my family that I could not give him one dollar.

How he's managed to survive, I don't know. God alone knows. And he must be in God's care because how he's pulled through his sickness and with his financial troubles, I don't know. But that press is working... and every two weeks about a hundred or a hundred-fifty-thousand of Common Sense go out with a new message. And if that information could be multiplied... if people that now get it could buy ten or twenty-five, or fifty, give them around. Plow that field. Sow those seeds, you don't know which will take root, but for God's sake, this is our last chance.

[Freedman then discusses the importance of people forgoing unnecessary purchases to buy more stuff, play golf, etc., and use the money to keep Common Sense going. He explains that the paper is going in debt; could be closed down and he (Freedman) no longer has the funds, having spent some $2,400,000 in his attempt to bring the information to the American public and elected officials. He then asks for questions from the audience.)

★ Theodor Herzl (Hebrew: תַּאֲדֹר הֵרֶצְל Hebrew: Te'odor Hertsel, Hungarian: Herzl Tivadar; 2 May 1860 - 3 July 1904), born Benjamin Ze'ev Herzl (Hebrew: בִּנְיָמִין זַעֲבָן הֵרֶצְל Binyamin Ze'ev Hertsel), also known in Hebrew as נָזְרָעֵל Chozeb HaMedinah (lit. "Visionary of the State") was an Austro-Hungarian journalist, playwright, political activist, and writer. He was one of the fathers of modern political Zionism. Herzl formed the World Zionist Organization and promoted Jewish migration to Palestine in an effort to form a Jewish state (Israel).

While Herzl is often mistakenly identified as the first major Zionist activist, scholars such as ♦ Yehuda Bibas, ♦ Zvi Hirsch Kalischer and ♦ Judah Alkalai were promoting Zionist ideas before him.

In Der Judenstaat (The Jewish State), Herzl proposed a modern solution to the Jewish question. He believed that attempts at assimilation of Jews into European society were in vain, as the majority in each country decided who was a native and who an alien. The persistence of anti-Semitism determined that the Jew would always be an outsider and only the creation of a Jewish state, a matter of interest to both Jews and non-Jews, would put an end to the Jewish problem.

Der Judenstaat (The Jewish State) proposed that diplomacy would be the primary way of attaining the Jewish State. Herzl called for the organized transfer of Jewish communities to the new state. Of the location of the state, Herzl said, "We shall take what is given us, and what is selected by public opinion."

Der Judenstaat (The Jewish State) established Herzl as the leader of Zionism, and the "father of the Zionist Idea." Zionism also provoked considerable opposition, in particular from the assimilationist Jews of Central and Western Europe. The book became required reading for all Zionists and was taken as the basic platform of political Zionism ★ David Wolffsohn (Yiddish: דוד ווֹלְפְּסָהָן Hebrew: דוד וולפסון; 9 October 1856, Darbénai (Polish: Dobriany), Kovno Governorate - 15 September 1914) was a Lithuanian-Jewish businessman, prominent early Zionist and second president of the Zionist Organization (ZO).

Wolffsohn was born in Darbenai, Lithuania in 1856 where he received a traditional Jewish education. He moved in 1872 to Memel and then again to Lyck in East Prussia, finally making his home in Cologne in 1888. It was here that he became a successful businessman.

Wolffsohn had been active in Jewish affairs throughout his travels but it was in Cologne that he first became involved in Zionist activities. In 1893, together with Max Bodenheimer he established the Cologne Association for the Development of Agriculture in the Land of Israel, which was one of the Hovevei Zion groups of the time. In 1896, immediately after he heard of Herzl's impending publication of Der Judenstaat, Wolffsohn traveled to Vienna, to meet with the future leader of the Zionist movement. Wolffsohn soon became Herzl's associate and was a member of the Inner Actions Committee until 1904. He went with Herzl on his tour to Constantinople and Eretz Israel where they met with Kaiser Wilhelm II. Wolffsohn became one of the central figures in the establishment of the Jewish Colonial Trust and later became its first president. But in this capacity he experienced a number of differences with Herzl who despite his lack of financial experience interfered in the running of the bank.

Despite these difficulties, Wolffsohn remained loyal to Herzl even during the Uganda plan controversy - when the early Zionists were offered, and nearly accepted, Uganda as the Jewish homeland - and rather than to oppose the leader of the Zionist Organization, Wolffsohn maintained his silence. After Herzl's death, Wolffsohn assumed the position of President of the World Zionist Organization continuing the political and diplomatic priorities of his predecessor. The practical Zionists and the Democratic faction opposed his reelection in 1911 although he continued his work with the Jewish Colonial Trust. He died on 15 September 1914, in Hamburg, Germany.

Max Isidor (Isaak) Bodenheimer (Hebrew: מקס בודנהיימר; 12 March 1865, Stuttgart - 19 July 1940, Jerusalem) was a lawyer and one of the main figures in German Zionism. An associate of Theodor Herzl, he was the first president of the Zionist Federation of Germany and one of the founders of the Jewish National Fund. After his flight in 1933 from Nazi Germany, and a short sojourn in Holland, he settled in Palestine in 1935.

From 1884 to 1889 he studied law at the universities of Tübingen, Strassburg, Berlin and Freiburg. In 1890, he settled in Köln (Cologne) where he established a law practice. Despite an assimilationist upbringing, Bodenheimer became interested in the Jewish question. He concluded that the Jews are a nation and that the only solution for the Jewish problem was emigration to Palestine. His concern in particular was for Russian Jews, who were then suffering severe persecution, rather than for German Jews. Bodenheimer joined the local Hibbat Tzion group.

Bodenheimer also came across anti-Semitism during his legal studies at university. He wrote his first essay in 1890 in response to the pogroms that took place in Russia: The Jews of Russia – where to? Syria and the Land of Israel as a refuge for the Jews of Russia. He anti-Semitism in Germany and the Jews' harsh situation in Russia made him reach the conclusion that the Jews should settle in their own country, in the Land of Israel.

The First Zionist Congress was held in 1897; Bodenheimer was naturally one of the participants. He was elected to be a member of the Inner Actions Committee. In 1898 he visited Palestine as a member of the delegation which accompanied Herzl to meet the German Emperor, Wilhelm II. The German Emperor had good relations with the Turkish Sultan, and Herzl hoped he would give his support to Jewish settlement in Palestine. The delegation visited Jerusalem, Jaffa and some of the Jewish colonies in Palestine. However, the participants were disappointed when the German Emperor refused their request and referred them to the Sultan himself.

Bodenheimer continued his vigorous Zionist activity. He took part in the Zionist Congresses, helped to write the constitution of the Zionist movement and the Jewish National Fund (JNF), and was the chairman of the Board of Directors of the JNF in Germany. When the First World War broke out, he moved the JNF offices from Cologne to The Hague. He established a committee which aimed to improve the conditions of the Jewish population in areas occupied by the German and Austrian armies.

Like other veterans from the Herzl period, Bodenheimer's status declined after the First World War, and he was not re-elected as a member of the Board of Directors of the JNF. Bodenheimer became disillusioned with the conciliatory policies of Chaim Weizmann in the wake of the Arab riots in 1929; he decided to join the Revisionist party led by Ze'ev

Jabotinsky. Bodenheimer attended the 17th Zionist Congress as a representative of the Revisionist party. During the Congress, a sharp controversy arose between the majority and the Revisionist party concerning the "ultimate goal" of Zionism, and the Revisionists left the Congress. This was the last Zionist Congress in which Bodenheimer participated.

In 1935, Bodenheimer immigrated to Palestine and settled in Jerusalem, where he began writing his memoirs. He died in 1940, and did not get to see the establishment of the State of Israel.

Chaim Azriel Weizmann (Hebrew: חיים עזריאל ויצמן Hayyim Azr'el Vaytsman; 27 November 1874, Motol, Russia - 9 November 1952) D.Sc, Sc.D, LL.D was a Zionist leader and Israeli statesman who served as President of the Zionist Organization and later as the first President of Israel. He was elected on 16 February 1949, and served until his death in 1952. Weizmann convinced the United States government to recognize the newly formed state of Israel.

Weizmann was also a biochemist who developed the acetone–butanol–ethanol fermentation process, which produces acetone through bacterial fermentation. His acetone production method was of great importance for the British war industry during World War One.

Weizmann's scientific assistance to the Allied forces in World War One brought him into close contact with British leaders, enabling him to play a key role in the issuing of the Balfour Declaration on 2 November 1917 in which Britain committed itself to the establishment of a Jewish home in Palestine.

In 1918, Weizmann was appointed head of the Zionist Commission sent to Palestine by the British government to advise on the future development of the country. There, he laid the foundation stone of the Hebrew University. That same year Weizmann met in Aqaba with Emir Feisal son of Sharif Hussein of Mecca, the leader of the Arab movement, to discuss prospects of reaching an understanding on the establishment of independent Arab and Jewish states. Shortly after, Weizmann led the Zionist delegation to the Peace Conference at Versailles, and in 1920 became the president of the World Zionist Organization (WZO). He headed the Jewish Agency which was established in 1929.

In the 1930's, Weizmann laid the foundations of the Daniel Sieff Research Institute in Rehovot, later to become the Weizmann Institute, a driving force behind Israel's scientific research. In 1937, he made his home in Rehovot.

Weizmann again served as President of the WZO from 1935-1946. During the years that led up to World War Two, he invested much effort in establishing the Jewish Brigade. He also tried, unsuccessfully, to prevent the issuing in 1939 of the White Paper, which in effect halted Jewish immigration to Palestine. After the end of World War II, Weizmann was instrumental in the adoption of the Partition Plan by the United Nations on 29 November 1947, and in the recognition of Israel by the United States. With the declaration of the State of Israel, Weizmann was chosen to serve as the first President of Israel. This role he filled until his death in 1952.

The Jewish Brigade

The Jewish Brigade was formed in September 1944 and fought in Italy under the British Eighth Army. Many of its members went on to join the Hagana and other terrorist formations.

The Jewish Infantry Brigade Group, more commonly known as the Jewish Brigade Group or Jewish Brigade, was the only nongovernmental military unit to serve in World War II in the British Army - and, in fact - in all the Allied forces - as an independent, national Jewish military formation, the Jewish Brigade Group comprised mainly of Jews from Eretz Yisrael and had its own emblem. It was a military formation of the British Army composed of Jews from the Yishuv in Mandatory Palestine commanded by British-Jewish officers that served in Europe during World War Two. The brigade was formed in late 1944, and its personnel fought the Germans in Italy. After the war, some of them assisted Holocaust survivors to emigrate illegally to Mandatory Palestine as part of Aliyah Bet (the code name given to illegal immigration by Jews to Mandatory Palestine in violation of British White Paper of 1939 restrictions, in the years 1934 to 1948.).

The establishment of the Brigade was the final outcome of prolonged efforts by the Yishuv and the Zionist Movement to achieve recognized participation and representation of the Jewish people in the war against Nazi Germany.

British White Paper of 1939

The White Paper of 1939 was a policy paper issued by the British government under Neville Chamberlain in response to the 1936–39 Arab Revolt, and approved by the House of Commons on 23 May 1939.

Although never formally approved, it acted as the governing policy for Mandatory Palestine between 1939 and 1945.

The policy, first drafted in March 1939, was prepared by the British government unilaterally as a result of the failure of the Arab-Zionist London Conference. The paper called for the establishment of a Jewish national home in an independent Palestinian state within 10 years, rejecting the idea of the creation of a Jewish state and the idea of partitioning Palestine. It also limited Jewish immigration to 75,000 for five years, and ruled that further immigration was to be determined by the Arab majority (section II). Restrictions were put on the rights of Jews to buy land from Arabs (section III). Further, it promised that only with Palestinian support would Britain allow a Jewish state. This greatly upset Zionists because of the increasing persecution of Jews in Europe at the onset of World War Two, particularly in Germany.

The policy was accepted by Amin al-Husseini of the Arab Higher Committee. Zionist groups in Palestine immediately rejected the White Paper. There was a campaign of attacks on government property and Arab civilians, which lasted for several months. On May 18th a Jewish general strike was called. Although it acted as the de facto policy of the government until 1945, its key provisions were ultimately never to be implemented, initially because of Churchill's opposition following the change in government, and later because of preoccupation with World War Two.

Appendix Three to The Greatest Lie Ever Told

What is Behind the Hanging of the Eleven Jews in Prague?

Francis P. Yockey

Published in December 1952

The Slánský trial (officially Proces s protistátním spikleneckým centrem Rudolfa Slánského meaning "Trial of anti-state conspiracy centered around Rudolf Slánský") was a show trial against elements of the Communist Party of Czechoslovakia (KSČ) who were thought to have adopted the line of the maverick Yugoslav leader Josip Broz Tito. On 20 November 1952, Rudolf Slánský, General Secretary of the KSČ, and 13 other leading party members, 11 of them Jews, were accused of participating in a Trotskyite-Tito-Zionist conspiracy and convicted: 11 including Slánský were hanged in Prague on December 3rd, and three were sentenced to life imprisonment. The state prosecutor at the trial in Prague was Josef Urválek.

The trial was the result of a split within the Communist leadership on the degree to which the state should emulate the Soviet Union, and was part of a Joseph Stalin-inspired purge of "disloyal" elements in the national Communist parties in Central Europe, as well as a purge of Jews from the leadership of Communist parties. Klement Gottwald, president of Czechoslovakia and leader of the Communist Party, feared being purged, and decided to sacrifice Slánský, a longtime collaborator and personal friend who was the second-in-command of the party. The others were picked to convey a clear threat to different groups in the state bureaucracy. A couple of them (Šváb, Reicin) were brutal sadists conveniently added for a more realistic show.

The trial was orchestrated (and the subsequent terror staged in Czechoslovakia) on the order of Moscow leadership by Soviet advisors, who ironically were invited by Rudolf Slánský and Klement Gottwald, with the help of the Czechoslovak State Security personnel following the László Rajk trial in Budapest in September 1949.

Those put on trial confessed to all crimes (under duress or after torture) and were sentenced to punishment. Slánský attempted suicide while in prison. The people of Czechoslovakia signed petitions asking for death for the alleged traitors.

After the deaths of both Stalin and Gottwald in March 1953, the harshness of the persecutions slowly decreased, and the victims of the trial quietly received amnesty one by one, including those who had survived the Prague Trial. Later, the official historiography of the Communist Party was rather quiet on the trial, vaguely putting blame on errors that happened as a result of a "cult of personality." Many other political trials followed on, sending many innocent victims to jail and hard labour in Jáchymov uranium mines and labour camps.

On Friday, November 27th, there burst upon the world an event which though small in itself, will have gigantic repercussions in the happenings to come. It will have these repercussions because it will force a political reorientation in the minds of the European elite.

That event was the conclusion of the treason trial of the Jews in Prague, and their condemnation to death. During the years 1945 and 1946 the coalition Jewry-Washington-Moscow functioned quite perfectly and frictionlessly. When the Israel "State" was established as the result of armed Jewish aggression, the entire world, dominated by Moscow and Washington, sang hymns of praise and congratulation. Washington recognized the new "State" de facto within a few hours of its proclaimed existence. Moscow outbid Washington in pro-Jewishness by giving de jure recognition. Both Washington and Moscow vied with one another in seeking to please the Israeli operetta-state and aided it by all means moral and material. Russian diplomats boasted that at last, in Haifa, they had a warm-water port.

And now, after a few short years, Israel is recalling its "ambassadors" from Russian vassal-states, and intensifying its anti-Russian policy from its American citadel. Volatile Jews in Israel and America cry out that Stalin is following in the footsteps of Hitler. The entire American press boils with fury at anti-Semitism in Russia. Anti-Semitism, warns the New York Times, is the one thing America will not tolerate in the world.

Why this bouleversement?

It began early in 1947 with the Russian refusal to surrender a part of its sovereignty to the so-called "United Nations" for purposes of "control" of the atomic weapon industry. Jewish statesmen, being materialistic in their metaphysics, believe strongly in the "absolute" military power of atomic weapons, and considered it thus indispensable for the success of their policy that they control these weapons unconditionally. This control they already possessed in America through the Atomic Energy Commission, specially created and constituted so that it is beyond the reach of Congress, and responsible only to the President, who is, by the practical rules of American inner-politics, an appointee of the Culture-State-Nation-People-Race of the Jew. They sought the same degree of control of atomic weapons in Russia, and used the device of the "United Nations" to submit an ultimatum to the Russian leadership on this question.

This was in the latter part of 1946, when the tide of atom-worship was at its height, and the minds of nearly all of the poor crop of statesmen who today conduct the political affairs of the world were fantastically dominated by a mere explosive bomb. A similar mania reigned for a short time after the invention of dynamite, after the invention of the machine-gun. The Russian regime also believed in atoms with the same religious faith, and thus regarded the abdication of its "atomic" sovereignty as equivalent to the abdication of its entire sovereignty. Thus the Jewish-American ultimatum in late-1946 was rejected, and in early-1947 the preparation for the Third World War began.

This Russian refusal stymied the plans of the Jewish leadership, which aimed at a surrender of both Russian and American sovereignty to the "United Nations," an instrumentality dominated by the Jewish Culture-State-Nation-People-Race. Even supine, politically-unconscious America could hardly be expected to give up its sovereignty when the only other world-power unconditionally refused, and the entire policy had to be scrapped.

The next policy of the Jewish leadership was to persuade the Stalin regime by the encirclement and pressure of the "Cold War" that it was hopeless to resist. The same tactic was used against the regime of Adolf Hitler from 1933 until 1936, when war was decided upon at the earliest feasible moment.

Because of the Russian rejection of the atomic weapon ultimatum, Russia now found its policy opposed everywhere, in Austria, in Germany, in Korea, in Finland. Those same American publicists who had become so deft at explaining Russia's need for "security" as Russia seized one landscape after another, suddenly turned against Russia the accusation of "aggressor." The faithful Russian servants in the West, like Truman, Acheson, Churchill, Attlee, Gaulle and the rest became suddenly - almost - anti-Russian. Naturally they did not use the same sort of language against Russia, the peace-loving democratic people of yesterday, that they had used against Germany, and - naturally again - they did not yet use the language of "Unconditional Surrender" when it came to a military test, in Korea. Although they had eagerly sought Russian aid against Germany, they did not now seek German aid against Russia. That would be going too far, and it is one of the political weaknesses of the Jew that he is the victim of idées fixes. The leading obsession of the Jew is his unreasoning hatred of Germany, which, at this present stage of Europe's cultural evolution means: unreasoning hatred of Europe.

For several years there have been grumblings and undertones in the American press against "anti-Semitism" in Russia. These dark mutterings began after the Russian rejection in late-1946 of the Jewish-American ultimatum on the atomic weapon question. It was then that the Stalin regime began its inner-policy of dropping its numerous Jews from the highest positions, then working on down to the lower positions. Elastically, the Stalin regime tried all approaches to the Jewish leadership: it offered aid to Israel; it withdrew the offer and shut off emigration to Israel; it tried every policy, but still the Jewish-American encirclement policy continued. Wooing the Arabs did not change the mood of the Jewish-American leadership, nor did spurning the Arabs. The press campaign against Russia continued in America and all its European vassal-states. "Russia is anti-Semitic" - thus thundered the American press, and, as political initiates know, this is the worst epithet in the American arsenal of political invective. As Eisenhower said, when accused by Truman of being an anti-Semite: "How low can you get?"

The treason trials in Bohemia are neither the beginning nor the end of a historical process, they are merely an unmistakable turning point. Henceforth, all must reorient their policy in view of the undeniable reshaping of the world-situation. The ostrich-policy is suicide. The talk of "defense against Bolshevism" belongs now to yesterday, as does the nonsense of talking of "the defense of Europe" at a period when every inch of European soil is dominated by the deadly enemies of Europe, those who seek its political-cultural-historical extinction at all costs.

That same barbaric despotism called the Russian empire and presided over by the fat peasant Stalin - Djugashvili,* who rules by his cunning a Khanate greater than all those gathered together by the mighty Genghis is today the only obstacle to the domination of the entire earth by the instrumentality called "United Nations." This vast Russian empire was created by the Jewish-American hatred of Europe-Germany. During the Second World War, in order to prevent Stalin and his pan-Slav nationalist-religious entourage from concluding peace with Europe-Germany, the Jewish-American leadership gave Russian military equipment in unheard-of masses, and political promises, gifts and advantages with unheard-of largesse. With the 14,795 airplanes;

375,883 trucks; and 7,056 tanks given it by America, Russia occupied all Eastern Europe for itself, and advanced into Magdeburg, Weimar and Vienna. It was only later that this conduct of

† George Catlett Marshall, Jr. (31 December 1880, Uniontown, Pennsylvania – 16 October 1959, Washington, D.C.) was an American statesman and soldier. He was Chief of Staff of the United States Army under presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman, and served as Secretary of State and Secretary of Defense under Truman. He was hailed as the "organizer of victory" by Winston Churchill for his leadership of the Allied victory in World War Two.

George Catlett Marshall, Jr.

‡ Chiang Kai-shek (31 October 1887 - 5 April 1975), also romanized as Jiang Jieshi and known as Jiang Zhongzheng, was a Chinese political and military leader who served as the leader of the Republic of China between 1928 and 1975. Chiang was an influential member of the Kuomintang (KMT), the Chinese Nationalist Party, and was a close ally of Sun Yat-sen. He became the Commandant of the Kuomintang's Whampoa Military Academy and took Sun's place as leader of the KMT following the Canton Coup in early 1926. Having neutralized the party's left wing, Chiang then led Sun's long-postponed Northern Expedition, conquering or reaching accommodations with China's many warlords.

Chiang Kai-shek

Sun Yat-sen

Zhang Xueliang

He served as chairman of the National Military Council of the Nationalist Government of the Republic of China (ROC) from 1928 to 1948. Chiang Kai-shek was socially conservative, promoting traditional Chinese culture in the New Life Movement and rejecting both western democracy and Sun's nationalist democratic socialism in favour of an authoritarian government. Unable to maintain Sun's good relations with the Communists, he purged them in a massacre at Shanghai and repression of uprisings at Guangzhou and elsewhere.

At the onset of the Second Sino-Japanese War, which later became the Chinese theater of World War II, Zhang Xueliang kidnapped Chiang and obliged him to establish a Second United Front with the Communists. After the defeat of the Japanese, the American-sponsored Marshall Mission, an attempt to negotiate a coalition government, failed in 1946. The Chinese Civil War resumed, with the CCP defeating the Nationalists and declaring the People's Republic of China in 1949. Chiang's government and army retreated to Taiwan, where Chiang imposed martial law and persecuted people critical of his rule in a period known as the "White Terror." After evacuating to Taiwan, Chiang's government continued to declare its intention to retake mainland China. Chiang ruled Taiwan securely as President of the Republic of China and General of the Kuomintang until his death in 1975.

Marshall's seemed reprehensible; at the time, he was regarded as a distinguished diplomat, like Churchill and Roosevelt at Teheran, and was decorated for his service to Russia.

Gradually the picture changed, there was more talk of "anti-Semitism" in Russia, and American public opinion, in prompt and unconditional obedience to the American press, switched over from being anti-German and pro-Russian to being anti-German and anti-Russian.

The epoch marked by the trials in Prague is not absolute; Russian papers still explain that the Jews condemned to death for sacrificing the interests of Bohemia to the interests of Jewry were "enemies of the Jewish people." The American Jewish Committee takes the same line, so that people elsewhere in the world, in places like America and its English appanage,* will not develop the idea that it would even be possible for a Jew holding public office in a host-country to behave like a Jew, and not like a loyal member of the host-country. The American Jewish Committee, however, gives no explanation whatever, not even in mere words, of what possible reason Russia would have for charging loyal Russian subjects with sacrificing Russian interests to Israel interests. They give us no clue. Apparently they would have the world believe that the canny peasant regime of Stalin is embarking on entirely unmotivated adventures in the same realm of world-politics which destroyed the political power of National Socialist Europe; the power of the Jewish Culture-State-Nation-People-Race.

The question of "guilt" or "innocence" in these, or any other political trials, like the stinking horror of Nürnberg, is historically meaningless. The Jewish victims in Prague, like the Rosenbergs in America, merely did not understand how late it was in the development of the "Cold War." The fashion of yesterday, of being pro-Russian in word and act, has changed. The Rosenbergs were not au courant. The Jewish officials in Prague also were living in yesterday and felt far more secure than they were. In 1952 they behaved as though they were in 1945.

Anyone who knows the simple meaning of the world "politics" knows that these trials were not spontaneous outbreaks of "race prejudice" on the part of politically wide-awake Stalin and his power-hungry entourage. These men want power and they will not attack on a front where, in the event of victory, no power could possibly be gained. For 35 years, Stalin has been pro-Jewish in his inner- and outer-policy, and if he now changes, it is for well-considered reasons of state-necessity.

The same Jewish press which says Stalin is "anti-Semitic" says that his Jewish victims are "enemies of the Jews." If they really believed this of his victims, the trials show that Stalin is pro-Jewish, not that he is anti-Jewish. However, nothing is easier than to catch the Jewish leaders in contradictions during these times when they are frantically realizing that perhaps their atomic ultimatum, their "United Nations" front against Russia, their "Cold War" encirclement of Russia and their Korean war were gigantic blunders.

Up to now their objective within Russia has been to replace the Stalin regime, which the Jews consider as a traitor to the fundamental principle of Bolshevism, by a new Trotsky. Just as they constantly hoped for an internal revolution in Germany, so they have hoped for a revolution against Stalin, a revolution to return to Trotskyism and the fundamental principle of international Bolshevism, a revolution to wipe out religious, pan-Slav Russian nationalist-imperialism, a revolution which would embrace the "United Nations" and bring about a Jewish millennium, the reunion of ♦ Baruch† and ♦ Kaganovich,‡ of ♦

Lippmann was also a notable author for the Council on Foreign Relations, until he had an affair with the editor Hamilton Fish Armstrong's wife, which led to a falling out between the two men. Lippmann also played a notable role in Woodrow Wilson's post World War One board of inquiry, as its research director. His views regarding the role of journalism in a democracy were contrasted with the contemporaneous writings of John Dewey in what has been retrospectively named the Lippmann-Dewey debate. Lippmann won two Pulitzer Prizes, one for his syndicated newspaper column "Today and Tomorrow" and one for his 1961 interview of Nikita Khruschev.

He has also been highly praised with titles ranging anywhere from "most influential" journalist of the 20th century, to Father of Modern Journalism.

In 1929, Buttenwieser married ♦ Helen Lehman daughter of ♦ Arthur Lehman, then senior partner at Lehman Brothers Holdings Inc. -[a global financial services firm: [Before declaring bankruptcy in 2008, Lehman was the fourth-largest investment bank in the United States (behind Goldman Sachs, Morgan Stanley, and Merrill Lynch), doing business in investment banking, equity and fixed-income sales and trading (especially U.S. Treasury securities), research, investment management, private equity, and private banking. Lehman was operational for 158 years from its founding in 1850 until 2008.]

His wife was one of the first women admitted to the City Bar Association of New York and in 1979, became the first chairwoman of the Legal Aid Society.

‡‡ ♦ Kurt Eisner (14 May 1867, Berlin – 21 February 1919, Munich) was a Jewish journalist and theatre critic. As a socialist journalist and statesman, he organized the Socialist Revolution that overthrew the Wittelsbach monarchy in Bavaria in November 1918. He is used as an example of charismatic authority by Max Weber. He proclaimed the Free State of Bavaria. His followers, who included ♦ Rosa Luxemburg, were known as "Eisenachers."

Eisner joined the Independent Social Democratic Party of Germany in 1917, at the height of World War One, and was convicted of treason in 1918 for his role in inciting a strike of munitions workers. He spent nine months in Cell 70 of Stadelheim Prison in Munich's Giesing district - one of the largest prisons in Germany: founded in 1894, it was the site of many executions, particularly by guillotine during the Nazi period - but he was released during the General Amnesty in October of that year.

After his release from prison, Eisner organized the revolution that overthrew the monarchy in Bavaria (see German Revolution). He declared Bavaria to be a free state and republic on 8 November 1918, becoming the first republican premier of Bavaria.

Kurt Eisner - later Prime Minister of the Republic of Bavaria - was assassinated in Munich when German nationalist ♦ Anton Graf von Arco auf Valley shot Eisner in the back on 21 February 1919. Arco-Valley might have decided to kill Eisner to prove himself "worthy" after he had been rejected for membership of an ultra-nationalist group, the Thule Society, because he was partly of Jewish descent. The killing of Eisner made him a champion to many Bavarians. His action triggered bloody reprisals by communists and anarchists in Munich in which a number of people were killed, including Prince Gustav of Thurn and Taxis. Fighting broke out and the short-lived Bavarian Socialist Republic was established. Arco-Valley inspired the young Joseph Goebbels, who was in Munich at the time.

"Eisner's death," as Hitler saw it and would later write, "only hastened developments and led finally to the Soviet dictatorship, or to put it more correctly, to a passing rule of Jews, as had been the original aim of the instigators of the whole revolution" Arco-Valley was tried in January 1920.

The State Prosecutor said of him, "If the whole German youth were imbued with such a glowing enthusiasm we could face the future with confidence." He served his sentence at Stadelheim prison in cell 70, and in 1924 he was evicted from his cell to make way for Adolf Hitler. † ♦ Anna Marie Rosenberg (née Lederer) (19 June 1902, Budapest, Hungary - 9 May 1983), later Anna Rosenberg Hoffman, was a public official and businesswoman.

Anna Lederer immigrated with her family to the U.S. in 1912. In 1919 she married ♦ Julius Rosenberg, a Jewish American member of the upper class (not to be confused with nuclear spy Julius Rosenberg). During World War Two, she served in numerous government positions including regional director of the War Manpower Commission from 1942-to-945. She ran a consulting business, with customers that included large businesses and public figures. She was awarded the Medal of Freedom in 1945, and was a recipient of the Medal for Merit in 1947, along with two other women, Mary Shotwell Ingraham and Elmira Bears Wickenden. In late 1950, she was nominated for assistant Secretary of Defense. Joseph McCarthy and his staff launched an all-out campaign to oppose her nomination, but she was recommended by the Senate Armed Services Committee. In spite of all opposition, in November 1950 she was named assistant Secretary of Defense, a post she held until January 1953.

In 1962 the Rosenbergs divorced and she married Paul G. Hoffman, the first administrator of the Marshall Plan and a top United Nations official. Anna Rosenberg Hoffman died in 1983, at the age of 81.

** The Marshall Plan (officially the European Recovery Program, ERP) was an American initiative to aid Western Europe, in which the United States gave over $12 billion (approximately $120 billion in current dollar value as of June 2016) in economic support to help rebuild Western European economies after the end of World War Two. The plan was in operation for four years beginning 8 April 1948. The goals of the United States were to rebuild war-devastated regions, remove trade barriers, modernize industry, make Europe prosperous again, and prevent the spread of communism. The Marshall Plan required a lessening of interstate barriers, a dropping of many regulations, and encouraged an increase in productivity, labour union membership, as well as the adoption of modern business procedures.

†† The Schuman Declaration is the statement laid forward by the French foreign minister Robert Schuman on 9 May 1950. Inspired and for the most part drafted by Jean Monnet, this was a proposal to place Franco-German production of coal and steel under one common High Authority. This organization would be open to participation to other European countries. This cooperation was to be designed in such a way as to create common interests between European countries which would lead to gradual political integration, a condition for the pacification of relations between them: "Europe will not be made all at once, or according to a single plan. It will be built through concrete achievements which first create a de facto solidarity. The coming together of the nations of Europe requires the elimination of the age-old opposition of France and Germany."

Jean Monnet

Jean Omer Marie Gabriel Monnet (9 November 1888 - 16 March 1979) was a French political economist and diplomat. An influential supporter of European unity, he is considered as one of the founding fathers of the European Union. Jean Monnet has been called "The Father of Europe" by those who see his innovative and pioneering efforts in the 1950s as the key to establishing the European Coal and Steel Community, the predecessor of today's European Union. Never elected to public office, Monnet worked behind the scenes of American and European governments as a well-connected pragmatic internationalist. He was named patron of the 1980–1981 academic year at the College of Europe, in honour of his accomplishments.

‡‡ There are a range of European institutions in Strasbourg (France), the oldest of which dates back to 1815. In all, there are more than twenty different institutions based in the Alsatian city. Due to this concentration Strasbourg is a claimant to the title of "capital of Europe."

The city of Strasbourg (France) is the official seat of the European Parliament. The institution is legally bound to meet there twelve sessions a year lasting about four days each. Other work takes place in Brussels and Luxembourg City (see Location of European Union institutions for more information). Also all votes of the European Parliament must take place in Strasbourg. "Additional" sessions and committees take place in Brussels. Although de facto a majority of the Parliament's work is now geared to its Brussels site, it is legally bound to keep Strasbourg as its official home.

The Parliament's buildings are located in the Quartier Européen (European Quarter) of the city, which it shares with other European organizations which are separate from the European Union's. Previously the Parliament used to share the same assembly room as the Council of Europe. Today, the principal building is the Louise Weiss building, inaugurated in 1999.

The American hegemony is doomed because all Europe realizes with a start - what Imperium, The Proclamation of London and the Frontfighter have preached for years - that the power on whose behalf Europe is asked to fight, "Bolshevism" is none other than the Jewish State-Nation-People-Race, that entity which itself is the historical creator and leader of political Bolshevism.

It is obvious that events which were strong enough to force Stalin to reorient his entire world-policy and to become openly anti-Jewish will have the same effect on the elite of Europe. For the American hegemony to endure, it is necessary that the European elite be quite passive - it is of course quite impossible that the European elite would ever actively cooperate with primitive human material like McCloy,‡‡ Truman,§§ Acheson<sup>***</sup> or Eisenhower* - and the Prague trials have gone

‡‡ John Jay McCloy (31 March 1895 - 11 March 1989), was an American lawyer and banker who served as Assistant Secretary of War during World War Two. After the war he served as president of the World Bank, U.S. High Commissioner for Germany, chairman of Chase Manhattan Bank, and chairman of the Council on Foreign Relations. He later became a prominent United States presidential adviser, served on the Warren Commission, and was a member of the foreign policy establishment group of elders called "The Wise Men".

The President's Commission on the Assassination of President Kennedy, known unofficially as the Warren Commission, was established by President Lyndon B. Johnson on 29 November 1963 to investigate the assassination of United States President John F. Kennedy that had taken place on 22 November 1963

§§ Harry S. Truman (8 May 1884 - 26 December 1972) was an American politician who served as the 33rd President of the United States (1945–53), coming to office on the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt in the last months of World War Two. He is known for launching the Marshall Plan to rebuild the economy of Western Europe, for leading the Cold War against Soviet communism through the Truman doctrine and NATO, and for engaging in a stalemate in the Korean War. In domestic affairs, he was a moderate Democrat whose liberal proposals were a continuation of Franklin Roosevelt's New Deal, but the Conservative-dominated Congress blocked most of them. He used presidential authority to mandate equal treatment for blacks in the military and put civil rights on the national political agenda.

<sup>***</sup> Dean Gooderham Acheson (11 April 1893 - 12 October 1971) was an American statesman and lawyer. As United States Secretary of State in the administration of President Harry S. Truman from 1949-to-1953, he played a central role in defining American foreign policy during the Cold War. Acheson helped design the Marshall Plan and was a key player in the development of the Truman Doctrine - an American foreign policy created to counter Soviet geopolitical spread during the Cold War - and creation of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

Acheson's most famous decision was convincing President Truman to intervene in the Korean War in June 1950. He also persuaded Truman to dispatch aid and advisors to French forces in Indochina, though in 1968 he finally counseled President Lyndon B. Johnson to negotiate for peace with North Vietnam. During the Cuban Missile Crisis, President John F. Kennedy called upon Acheson for advice, bringing him into the executive committee (ExComm), a strategic advisory group.

In the late 1940s Acheson came under heavy attack over Truman's policy toward China, and for Acheson's defense of State Department employees (such as Alger Hiss) accused during the anti-gay Lavender and anti-Communist Red Scare investigations by Senator Joseph McCarthy and others.

* Sir Winston Leonard Spencer-Churchill, KG, OM, CH, TD, PC, DL, FRS, RA (30 November 1874 – 24 January 1965) was a British statesman who was the Prime Minister of the United Kingdom from 1940-to-1945 and again from 1951-to-1955. Churchill was also an officer in the British Army, a non-academic historian, a writer (as Winston S. Churchill), and an artist. He won the Nobel Prize in Literature in 1953 for his overall, lifetime body of work. In 1963, he was the first of only eight people to be made an honorary citizen of the United States.

† Charles André Joseph Marie de Gaulle (22 November 1890 – 9 November 1970) was a French general and statesman. He was the leader of Free France (1940–44) and the head of the Provisional Government of the French Republic (1944–46). In 1958, he founded the Fifth Republic and was elected as the 18th President of France, a position he held until his resignation in 1969. He was the dominant figure of France during the Cold War era and his memory continues to influence French politics.

‡ Paul Henri Charles Spaak (25 January 1899 - 31 July 1972) was an influential Belgian politician and statesman also considered as one of the founding fathers of the European Union.

§ Alcide Amedeo Francesco De Gasperi (3 April 1881 - 19 August 1954) was an Italian statesman and politician who founded the Christian Democracy party. From 1945-to-1953 he was the prime minister of eight successive coalition governments. His eight-year term in office remains a landmark of political longevity for a leader in modern Italian politics. De Gasperi is the fourth longest-serving Prime Minister since the Italian Unification.

A conservative Catholic, he was one of the founding fathers of the European Union, along with fellow Italian Altiero Spinelli, the French Robert Schuman, and the West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

** Konrad Hermann Joseph Adenauer (5 January 1876 - 19 April 1967) was a German statesman who served as the first post-war Chancellor of Germany (West Germany) from 1949-to-1963. He led his country from the ruins of World War Two to a productive and prosperous nation that forged close relations with France, the United Kingdom and the United States. During his years in power West Germany achieved democracy, stability, international respect and economic prosperity ("Wirtschaftswunder," German for "economic miracle"). He was the first leader of the Christian Democratic Union (CDU), a Christian Democratic party that under his leadership became, and has since usually been the most influential party in the country.

Adenauer, dubbed "Der Alte" ("the old man"), was the oldest leader in a democracy in history as he was still Chancellor at age 87

†† Jean-Baptiste Nicolas Robert Schuman (29 June 1886 - 4 September 1963) was a Luxembourg-born French statesman. Schuman was a Christian Democrat (MRP) and an independent political thinker and activist. Twice Prime Minister of France, a reformist Minister of Finance and a Foreign Minister, he was instrumental in building post-war European and trans-Atlantic institutions and is regarded as one of the founders of the European Union, the Council of Europe and NATO. The 1964–1965 academic year at the College of Europe was named in his honour.

off with an explosive roar to waken this elite to active resistance against the death plans being hatched for the European organism in Washington by the Jewish-American leadership.

John Jay McCloy Harry S. Truman Dean Acheson Dwight Eisenhower

America cannot undo the Prague trials any more than Russia can. From these trials there is now no going back. They are a war-declaration by Russia on the Jewish-American leadership no matter whether or not the Russian press still wraps its explanations in wooly words disclaiming "anti-Semitism." What matters in politics above all, is not what one says, but what one does. The fact is: the Russian leadership is killing Jews for treason to Russia, for service to the Jewish entity. Nothing can gainsay, or reverse this fact. The European elite will perforce note this fact and be governed accordingly. Russia has publicly before the world named its power-enemy, and has thus removed all controversy on the question of who is the real power-beneficiary of the American hegemony of Europe.

In the dark days of 1945, many Europeans embraced the American occupation as the lesser of two evils. During the past seven years the comparative destructiveness of Russian barbarism and American-Jewish Bolshevism has appeared in its true proportions, the proportions set forth in Imperium, Volume II: a Russian occupation would be far less dangerous to Europe because of the abysmal cultural gulf between Russian and the West. This gulf would render impossible the erection of a vassal-state system, because there are no religious pan-Slavs in Europe, and the Russian barbarian leadership trusts no one else. The notion - fostered by wild American propaganda - that Russia

Alger Hiss (11 November 1904 - 15 November 1996) was an American government official who was accused of being a Soviet spy in 1948 and convicted of perjury in connection with this charge in 1950. Before he was tried and convicted, he was involved in the establishment of the United Nations both as a U.S. State Department official and as a U.N. official. In later life he worked as a lecturer and author.

On 3 August 1948, Whittaker Chambers, a former U.S. Communist Party member, testified under subpoena before the House Un-American Activities Committee (HUAC) that Hiss had secretly been a Communist, though not a spy, while in federal service. Called before HUAC, Hiss categorically denied the charge. When Chambers repeated his claim on nationwide radio, Hiss filed a defamation lawsuit against him.

During the pretrial discovery process, Chambers produced new evidence indicating that he and Hiss had been involved in espionage, which both men had previously denied under oath to HUAC. A federal grand jury indicted Hiss on two counts of perjury; Chambers admitted to the same offense but, as a cooperating government witness, was never charged. Although Hiss's indictment stemmed from the alleged espionage, he could not be tried for that crime because the statute of limitations had expired. After a mistrial due to a hung jury, Hiss was tried a second time. In January 1950, he was found guilty on both counts of perjury and received two concurrent five-year sentences, of which he eventually served three and a half years. Hiss maintained his innocence until his death.

Arguments about the case and the validity of the verdict took center stage in broader debates about the Cold War, McCarthyism, and the extent of Soviet espionage in the United States. Since Hiss's conviction, statements by involved parties and newly exposed evidence have added to the dispute.

*Dwight David "Ike" Eisenhower (14 October 1890 - 28 March 1969) was an American politician and general who served as the 34th President of the United States from 1953 until 1961. He was a five-star general in the United States Army during World War Two and served as Supreme Commander of the Allied Expeditionary Forces in Europe. He was responsible for planning and supervising the invasion of North Africa in Operation Torch in 1942-43 and the successful invasion of France and Germany in 1944-45 from the Western Front. In 1951 he became the first Supreme Commander of NATO.

could kill off the 250,000,000 people of Europe need not be taken seriously. It is a vile insult to European spiritual resources and masculinity, as well as being a historical nightmare and originated no doubt in the brain of some American writer of science-fantasy stories.

For political purposes, and increasingly for total cultural purposes, America is dominated absolutely by the Culture-State-Nation-People-Race of the Jew. America in Europe appeals to all the forces of Culture-Retardation and reaction, the forces of laziness and degeneracy, of inferiority and bad instincts. From the spiritual sewers of Europe, America can siphon up an endless number of churchills to do its dirty work of dividing, despoiling and destroying Europe in a suicidal war.

Henceforth, the European elite can emerge more and more into affairs, and will force the Jewish-American leadership to render back, step by step, the custody of European Destiny to Europe, its best forces, its natural, organic leadership. If the Jewish-American leaders refuse, the new leaders of Europe will threaten them with the Russian bogey. By thus playing off Russia against the Jewish-American leadership, Europe can bring about its Liberation, possibly even before the Third World War.

A second inevitable development from the turning-point of the Prague trials is the intensification of the American diplomatic offensive against Russia, the "Cold War." The press campaign will intensify in America and in Europe; Russia will become morally blacker and blacker; the American armament will be accelerated; all potential soviet agents will be liquidated by the "United Nations." Russia will naturally retaliate: today Pravda says "Zionism is a tool of American imperialism." Tomorrow it will say: "American imperialism is the tool of Zionism."

A third inevitable development: the collapse of the American-Jewish position in the Near East and throughout Islam. Since Russia will be unable to retreat from its anti-Jewish policy and the Jewish State-Nation-People-Race from its anti-Russian policy, since for each one there is no other power-opponent in the world, Russia will perforce ally itself with Islam, and Islam will perforce ally itself with Russia. Dark clouds of tragedy are gathering over the operetta-State of Israel, with its 1,000,000 population surrounded by a sea of 300,000,000 Mohametans in whose face it has just spat, emboldened by the brawn of its big American lackey. The lackey is still big, still stupid, still willing - but he is 5000 miles away, and the concern will grow graver in Israel, and in secret places there, evacuation plans are being re-examined...

A fourth inevitable development is the weakening of the American position in Japan, and within a few years it is quite possible we will see the final expulsion of the American occupation troops from Japan. Even today these troops are ordered to wear mufti on the Japanese streets, and it is unavoidable that the coming intensification of Russian policy against the Jewish American regime of Washington will automatically heighten the nationalist activity of the politically-conscious Japanese elite.

Many other developments must follow, developments which no head in the Kremlin is now contemplating. Some are regular, and foreseeable, others are Imponderables and cannot even be imagined: one thing is sure - whoever declares war on the Jew will soon be engaged in a fight of world-wide dimensions and increasing viciousness, for the power of the Jewish State-Nation- People-Race is widespread, and the leadership of this State-Nation-People-Race conducts its policy with its emotions rather than intellectually, subject as it is to obsessions and idées fixes.

To us in Europe, the trials are welcome; they clear the air. The opponents have now defined themselves. America recedes now to its proper position, that of the armourer and the technician, the world's assembly line, the supplier of biological units called G.I.s to whoever is situated to pull the appropriate strings - in the First World War, it was England, in the Second it was Jewry. As far as Europe is concerned, the Jewish leaders may as well pull down the Stars and Stripes and run up the Star of David.

It was fatuous enough to ask Europe to fight for America, it was silly enough to ask it to "defend itself against Bolshevism" - under the leadership of ⚡ Frankfurter,* ⚡ Lehmann,† and ⚡ Morgenthau* - but * ⚡ Felix Frankfurter (15 November 1882 - 22 February 1965) was a jurist, who served as an Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court. Frankfurter was born in Vienna and immigrated to New York at the age of 12. He graduated from Harvard Law School and was active politically, helping to found the American Civil Liberties Union. He was a friend and adviser of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who appointed him to the Supreme Court in 1939. Frankfurter served on the Supreme Court for 23 years, and was a noted advocate of judicial restraint in the judgments of the Court.

† ⚡ Herbert Henry Lehman (28 March 1878 - 5 December 1963) was a Democratic Party politician from New York. He served from 1933 until 1942 as the 45th Governor of New York and represented New York State in the U.S. Senate from 1949 until 1957.

Lehman became active in politics in 1920 and became chairman of the finance committee of the Democratic Party in 1928 as a reward for having been a strong supporter of Alfred E. Smith. He was elected lieutenant governor of New York in 1928 and 1930 and resigned from Lehman Brothers upon taking office. He then served four terms as Governor of New York, elected in 1932 to replace Franklin D. Roosevelt (who had been elected to the presidency), and re-elected in 1934, 1936 and 1938. Unlike Smith, Lehman was a supporter of Roosevelt's New Deal and implemented a similar program in New York.

On 3 December 1942, he resigned the governorship less than a month before the end of his term, to accept an appointment as director of foreign relief and rehabilitation operations for the U.S. Department of State. He served as director-general of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration from 1943 to 1946.

Lehman was the Democratic nominee for U.S. Senator from New York in 1946 and also ran on the Liberal and American Labor tickets but was defeated by the Republican candidate, Irving Ives. In 1949, he ran again, this time in a special election to serve the remainder of Robert F. Wagner's term. Lehman defeated John Foster Dulles, who had been appointed to temporarily fill the vacancy after Wagner's resignation, and he took his seat on 3 January 1950.

In the campaign, he ran on the Democratic and Liberal tickets, with the American Labor Party urging their members not to vote for any candidate. In 1950, Lehman was re-elected to a full term, running on Democratic and Liberal lines and opposed by the American Labor Party.

Lehman was one of two U.S. senators who were opposed to nominating Mississippi Senator James O. Eastland to be chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee. (The other was Wayne Morse of Oregon.) He was also an early and vocal opponent of Senator Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.). Lehman was one of the most liberal senators and was therefore not considered part of the Senate's "club" of insiders. He retired from the Senate after his full term and was not a candidate for re-nomination or re-election in 1956.

Alfred Emanuel "Al" Smith (30 December 1873 - 4 October 1944) was an American statesman who was elected Governor of New York four times and was the Democratic U.S. presidential candidate in 1928. He was the foremost urban leader of the efficiency-oriented Progressive Movement and was noted for achieving a wide range of reforms as governor in the 1920s. He was also linked to the notorious Tammany Hall machine that controlled New York City's politics; was a strong opponent of Prohibition, which he did not think could be enforced, and was the first Catholic nominee for President. His candidacy mobilized Catholic votes - especially of women, who had only recently received federal suffrage. It also brought out the anti-Catholic vote, which was strongest among white conservative Democrats in the South.

As a committed "wet" (anti-Prohibition) candidate, Smith attracted not only drinkers but also voters angered by the corruption and lawlessness that developed alongside prohibition. Many Protestants feared his candidacy, including German Lutherans and Southern Baptists, believing that the Catholic Church and the Pope would dictate his policies. Most importantly, this was a time of national prosperity under a Republican Presidency. Smith lost in a landslide to Republican Herbert Hoover, who gained electoral support from six southern states. Four years later Smith sought the 1932 nomination but was defeated by Franklin D. Roosevelt, his former ally and successor as New York Governor. Smith entered business in New York City and became an increasingly vocal opponent of Roosevelt's New Deal.

Irving McNeil Ives (24 January 1896 - 24 February 1962) was an American politician. A member of the Republican Party, he served as a United States Senator from New York from 1947-to-1959. He was previously a member of the New York State Assembly for sixteen years, serving as Minority Leader (1935), Speaker (1936), and Majority Leader (1937-1946). A liberal Republican, he was known as a specialist in labor and civil rights legislation

Robert Ferdinand Wagner I (8 June 1877 - 4 May 1953) was an American politician. He was a Democratic U.S. Senator from New York from 1927-to-1949. Working closely in the state legislature with fellow New York City Democrat Al Smith, Wagner embraced reform in the 1910s and 1920s, especially to the benefit of their core constituency, the working class. They built a coalition for these reforms that embraced unions, social workers, some businessmen, and numerous middle-class activists and civic reform organizations across the state. As Senator, Wagner was a leader of the New Deal Coalition putting special emphasis on supporting the labor movement. He sponsored three major laws: the National Labor Relations Act of 1935, the Social Security Act of 1935, and the Public Housing Act of 1937. His son, Robert F. Wagner, Jr. was mayor of New York from 1954 through 1965.

John Foster Dulles (25 February 1888 - 24 May 1959) served as U.S. Secretary of State under Republican President Dwight D. Eisenhower from 1953-to-1959. He was a significant figure in the early Cold War era, advocating an aggressive stance against Communism throughout the world. He negotiated numerous treaties and alliances that reflected this point of view. He advocated support of the French in their war against the Viet Minh in Indochina but rejected the Geneva Accords that France and the Communists agreed to, and instead supported South Vietnam after the Geneva Conference in 1954.

James Oliver Eastland (28 November 1904 - 19 February 1986) was an American politician from Mississippi who served in the United States Senate as a Democrat in 1941; and again from 1943 until his resignation on 27 December 1978. From 1947-to-1978, he served alongside John C. Stennis, also a Democrat. At the time, Eastland and Stennis were the longest-serving Senate duo in American history, though their record was subsequently surpassed by Strom Thurmond and Ernest Hollings of South Carolina, who served together for thirty-six years. Eastland was also the most senior member of the Senate at the time of his retirement in 1978. He compiled a conservative record in support of the Conservative coalition. A wealthy plantation owner, Eastland was best known nationally as a symbol of Southern support of racial segregation in most of his years in the Senate.

Wayne Lyman Morse (20 October 1900 - 22 July 1974) was an American politician and attorney of Oregon, known for his proclivity for opposing his parties' leadership, and specifically for his opposition to the Vietnam War on constitutional grounds.

During World War Two, he was elected to the U.S. Senate as a Republican; he became an Independent after Dwight D. Eisenhower's election to the presidency in 1952. While an independent, he set a record for performing the second longest one-person filibuster in the history of the now it is too absurd to ask Europe to fight to wipe out "anti-Semitism" in Russia. Is there one European - just one - who would respond to this war-aim? But today, openly, without any possible disguise, this is the raison d'être of the coalition against Russia, for Russia has named its chief enemy, its sole enemy, and the sly peasant leadership of pan-Slavs in the Kremlin is not given to frivolity in its foreign policy.

The trials have made easier the task of the European Liberation Front. This Front was the first organ to warn Europe of the extinction in slavery promised for it by an alliance, supposedly with America, but actually with the Culture-State-Nation-People-Race of the Jew.

We repeat our message to Europe: no European must ever fight except for sovereign Europe; no European must ever fight one enemy of Europe on behalf of another enemy.

Senate. Morse joined the Democratic Party in 1955, and was reelected twice while a member of that party.

Morse made a brief run for the Democratic Party's presidential nomination in 1960. In 1964, only Morse and Ernest Gruening (D-AK) in the U.S. Senate, opposed the controversial Gulf of Tonkin Resolution. It authorized the president to take military action in Vietnam without a declaration of war. He continued to speak out against the war in the ensuing years, and lost his 1968 bid for reelection to Bob Packwood, who criticized his strong opposition to the war. Morse made two more bids for reelection to the Senate before his death in 1974.

* ❖ Henry Morgenthau Jr. (11 May 1891 - 6 February 1967) was the U.S. Secretary of the Treasury during the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt. He played a major role in designing and financing the New Deal.

One of Roosevelt's first great feats as President was the gigantic gold swindle which he and Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau put through, the Gold Trading Act of 1934, which officially committed our government to support Jewish bankers in their manipulation of the price of gold. After a stiff fight with the Supreme Court, Roosevelt jammed through this bit of treachery, because, as Morgenthau said, "If the Supreme Court had decided against us, we had legislation ready to push through Congress which would have given us the same result." This Morgenthau is the son of the Henry Morgenthau who paid Woodrow Wilson's way into the White House in 1912 so that Wilson could send him as U.S. Ambassador to Turkey, where World Zionists were completing the details of the Communist Revolution in Russia.

Morgenthau was also the author of the infamous Morgenthau Plan to wipe out the German people in 1944, which was broadcast to the German armies and caused the lives of thousands of American boys to be sacrificed because the Germans were warned what would happen after they surrendered. This Plan, so determined in its ruthlessness that it aroused the horror of the civilized world, is typical of Jewish Communist efforts to slaughter whole peoples.

The principal authors of the creation and the peddling of the "rumor of Auschwitz" have been, successively, two Slovaks, ❖ Alfréd Wetzler (or Weczler) and ❖ Rudolf Vrba (or Rosenberg or Rosenthal); then a Hungarian, ❖ Rabbi Michael Dov Ber Weissmandel (or Weissmandl); then, in Switzerland, representatives of the World Jewish Congress like Gerhard Riegner, who were in touch with London and Washington; and finally Americans like ❖ Harry Dexter White, ❖ Henry Morgenthau Jr. and ❖ Rabbi Stephen Samuel Wise. Thus was born the famous World Refugee Board Report on Auschwitz and Birkenau, published in Washington in November 1944. Copies of this report were included in the files of the judges advocate general in charge of prosecuting the Germans involved in the Auschwitz camp. It constituted the official version of the story of the alleged gassing of the Jews in that camp. Most probably it was used as a reference work by the inquirers-interrogators-torturers of "the Commandant of Auschwitz."

Europe has one aim: to actualize its Destiny. This means, to reconquer its sovereignty, to reassert its mission, to establish its Imperium, to give to the world an era of order and European peace. In the actualization of this mighty, irresistible Destiny, all extraneous events are mere material to be utilized. Inwardly, therefore, the words of the London Proclamation are as true today as they were in 1948, as they will be in 1960; "No, Europe is no more interested in this projected war than in a struggle between two negro tribes in the Sudan."

NOTE

❖ Ana Pauker (born Hannah Rabinsohn; 13 December 1893, Codăești, Vaslui County (the region of Moldavia) – 3 June 1960) was a Romanian communist leader and served as the country's foreign minister, (the world's first female foreign minister), in the late 1940s and early 1950s. She was the unofficial leader of the Romanian Communist Party right after World War Two.

Ana Pauker went to France where she became an instructor for the Comintern and was also involved in the communist movement elsewhere in the Balkans. She returned to Romania and was arrested in 1935, was put on trial together with other leading communists such as Alexandru Moghioroș and Alexandru Drăghici, and was sentenced to ten years in prison. In May 1941, the Romanian government sent her into exile to the Soviet Union in exchange for Ion Codreanu, a former member of Sfatul Țării (the parliament of Bessarabia that voted for union with Romania on 27 March 1918), who was detained by the Soviets after the occupation of Bessarabia in 1940. In the meantime, her husband had fallen victim to the Soviet Great Purge in 1938. Rumors abounded that she herself had denounced him as a Trotskyist traitor; Comintern archival documents reveal, however, that she repeatedly refused to do so.

In Moscow, she became the leader of the Romanian Communist Party exiles who would later become known as the "Muscovite faction." She returned to Romania in 1944 when the Red Army entered the country, becoming a member of the post-war government, which came to be dominated by the communists. In November 1947, the non-communist foreign minister Gheorghe Tătărescu was ousted and replaced by Pauker, making her the first woman in the modern world to hold such a post.

But it was her position in the Communist Party leadership that was paramount. As a member of the four-person Secretariat of the Central Committee and formally second in the leadership, Pauker was widely believed to be the actual leader of the Romanian communists in all but name during the immediate post-war period. In 1948 Time magazine featured her portrait on its cover and described her as "the most powerful woman alive." Infamous as the "Iron Lady" of Romanian Communist politics, she was universally seen as unreservedly Stalinist and as Moscow's primary agent in Romania.

Unquestionably, Ana Pauker played a pivotal role in the brutal imposition of communism on Romania. At the same time, she emerged as a force for moderation within the Romanian communist leadership during the early postwar period. Pauker was certainly complicit in the extensive purges and arrests in 1945 of tens of thousands of Romanians who were linked to the Ion Antonescu regime. But by August 1945 Pauker and interior minister Teohari Georgescu released all but two to three thousand of those arrested, and they offered amnesty to any member of the fascist Iron Guard who had not committed serious crimes and who would turn in his weapons. In late 1944 or early 1945, she pushed for creating a more broad-based coalition with the National Peasants' Party and the National Liberal Party, but was overruled by Joseph Stalin; hence, the Communist-led government created in March 1945 comprised a more restrictive coalition with a faction of the National Liberals led by Gheorghe Tătărescu.

During this same period, Pauker also pursued what she later described as "a type of Social Democratic policy" of mass recruitment of as many as 500,000 new Communist Party members without verification, including former members of the Iron Guard. This policy would later be the subject of an attack on Pauker during her purge, and it was quickly overturned. Many of those who entered the party during Pauker's mass recruitment campaign would be purged between 1948 and 1950, and mass arrests would return with a vengeance in 1947 (including members of the National Peasants' Party and the National Liberal Party, as well as the amnestied members of the Iron Guard). Although she acceded to Soviet orders to arrest the leaders of the non-communist opposition, Pauker reportedly opposed the arrests of prominent National Peasants' Party officials Corneliu Coposu and Ghiță Pop and appealed to the presiding judge of the trial of National Peasants' Party leader Iuliu Maniu for leniency in his sentencing.

Reviewing her record during the early postwar years, the historian Norman Naimark observed that Pauker's "policies in the period 1945-1948 are remarkably similar to those of the Polish leader Władysław Gomułka. She encouraged coalitions with the 'historical' parties, urged compromises with 'bourgeois' politicians, and sought to deflect the persecution of social democrats and liberals."

These contradictions would intensify as the regime became more Stalinist under Cold War pressures from 1947 on. Ana Pauker was a steely and tested Stalinist who was "fanatically loyal to Stalin and the Soviet Union," who once admitted that "if a Soviet official told me something, it was the gospel for me... If they had told me that the USSR needed it, I would have done it... If they had told me to throw myself into the fire, I would have done it." Nevertheless, Pauker paradoxically promoted a number of policies counter to those of the Kremlin during the Cominform period of "high Stalinism," when the Soviet Union imposed a single, hegemonic line on all its satellites. In 1948 she opposed the verification and purge of the large numbers who had entered the Communist Party during the mass recruitment campaign, even though the Cominform had ordered such a verification in every Bloc country. In 1949 she opposed the construction of the Danube-Black Sea Canal, even though, according to her own testimony, Stalin had personally proposed the project. In 1949-52 she opposed the purging of the Romanian veterans of the Spanish Civil War and French Resistance as part of Moscow's bloc-wide campaign against Josip Broz Tito or, at the very least, took no part in their repression, as they were not purged en masse in Romania until a few months after Pauker's downfall. And she was reported by colleagues and associates to have resisted Stalin's plans to have Justice Minister Lucrețiu Pătrășcanu put on trial, and was accused by the Securitate's chief Soviet adviser of having "sabotaged and postponed investigations" in the Pătrășcanu case. (This remains a subject of debate among historians, for there is a dearth of evidence in the Romanian archives on Pauker's position on Pătrășcanu because all transcripts of Politburo discussions on the Pătrășcanu inquiry were summarily destroyed on the orders of General Secretary Gheorghiu-Dej.)

In addition, Pauker supported, and helped facilitate, the emigration of roughly 100,000 Jews to Israel from the spring of 1950 to the spring of 1952, when all other Soviet satellites had shut their gates to Jewish emigration in line with Stalin's escalating "anti-Zionist" campaign. And she firmly opposed forced collectivization that was carried out on Moscow's orders in the summer of 1950 while she was in a Kremlin hospital undergoing treatment for breast cancer. Angrily condemning such coercion as "absolutely opposed to the line of our party and absolutely opposed to any serious Communist thought," she allowed peasants forced into collective farms to return to private farming and effectively halted additional collectivization throughout 1951. This, as well as her support beginning in 1947 for higher prices for agricultural products in defiance of her Soviet "advisers," along with her favoring the integration of kulaks into the emerging socialist order, led Stalin to charge that Pauker had fatefully deviated into "peasantist, non-Marxist policies."

Pauker's "Moscow faction" (so called because many of its members, like Pauker, had spent years in exile in Moscow) was opposed by the "prison faction" (most of whom had spent the Fascist period in Romanian prisons, particularly Doftana Prison - a Romanian prison, sometimes referred to as "the Romanian Bastille"). Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej, the de facto leader of the prison faction, had supported intensified agricultural collectivization, pushed for Lucrețiu Pătrășcanu's trial and execution, and was a rigid Stalinist; however, he resented some strains of Soviet influence (which would become clear at the time of de-Stalinization when, as leader of Communist Romania, he was a determined opponent of Nikita Khrushchev).

Downfall and Scapegoating

Gheorghiu-Dej profited from the mounting anti-Semitism in Soviet policy and actively lobbied Joseph Stalin to take action against the Pauker faction. Gheorghiu-Dej traveled to Moscow in August 1951 to seek Stalin's approval for purging Pauker and her allies in the Secretariat (Vasile Luca and Teohari Georgescu). But archival evidence has led Vladimir Tismaneanu to conclude that "Ana Pauker's downfall did not occur merely, or even primarily, because of Gheorghiu-Dej's skillful maneuvering - as some Romanian novels published in the 1980s would have us believe - but foremost because of Stalin's decision to initiate a major political purge in Romania." Pauker, Luca, and Georgescu were purged in May 1952, consolidating Gheorghiu-Dej's own grip over country and Party.

The charges against Ana Pauker increasingly focused on her positions on Zionism and Israel. She was accused of supporting "the subversive and espionage activities of the Israeli Legation and of the Zionists in the country," of making secret commitments to Israeli diplomats, of displaying a "nationalist attitude on the emigration of Jews to Israel," and of divulging secrets to "the enemy" (the United States) through its principal agent, "international Zionism."

Pauker was arrested on 18 February 1953 and subjected to prolonged interrogations in preparation for a show trial, as had occurred with Rudolf Slánský and others in the Prague Trials. After Stalin's death in March 1953 she was freed from jail and put under house arrest instead - the result of the direct intervention of Vyacheslav Molotov, who reportedly acted on the insistence of his wife Polina Zhemchuzhina, a friend of Pauker's and herself freed from prison soon after Stalin's death.

Following the Twentieth Party Congress in Moscow there were fears that Khrushchev might force the Romanian Party to rehabilitate Pauker and possibly install her as Romania's new leader. Gheorghiu-Dej went on to scapegoat her, Vasile Luca, and Teohari Georgescu for their alleged Stalinist excesses in the late 1940s and early 1950s, despite the fact that they had urged moderation against Gheorghiu-Dej's insistence on dogmatism. The period when the three were in power was marked by political persecution and the murder of opponents (such as the infamous brainwashing experiments conducted at Pitești prison - see note following -in 1949-1952). Gheorghiu-Dej, who had as much to account for, used moments like these to ensure the survival of his policies in a post-Stalinist age.

Ana Pauker was recast by Romania's leaders in the official party history as having been a staunch ultra-orthodox Stalinist, even though she had opposed or had attempted to moderate a number of Stalinist policies while she was in a leadership position. As the historian Robert Levy concluded: "No other communist leader save Tito has been shown to have resisted the Soviet-imposed line as she did - whether on collectivization, the fight against the kulaks and the urban bourgeoisie, the prosecution of Lucrețiu Pătrășcanu, the purge of the Spanish Civil War and French Resistance veterans, the dimensions of the Five-Year Plan, the staging of a show trial of Romanian Zionists, or the facilitation of mass Jewish emigration."

In 1956, she was summoned for questioning by a high-level party commission, which insisted that she acknowledge her guilt. Again, she claimed she was innocent and demanded that she be reinstated as a party member, without success.

During her forcible retirement, Pauker was allowed to work as a translator from French and German for the Editura Politică publishing house.

In the spring of 1959, Pauker was diagnosed with a terminal recurrence of cancer. She died on 3 June 1960 of cardiac arrest, after the cancer had spread to her heart and lungs. Ana Pauker's legacy in Romania today is still tainted by the attempt of communist party propagandists in the 1950s and 1960s to scapegoat her as the leader responsible for the crimes of the early communist period. For instance, she is often referred to in Romania as "Stalin with a skirt" (Stalin cu fustă).

The Pitești prison (Romanian: Închisoarea Pitești) was a penal facility in Pitești, Romania, best remembered for the reeducation experiments (also known as Experimental Pitești - the "Pitești Experiment" or Fenomenul Pitești - the "Pitești Phenomenon") carried out between December 1949 and September 1951, during Communist party rule. The experiment, implemented by a group of prisoners under the guidance of the prison administration, was designed as an attempt at violently "reeducating" the mostly young political prisoners, primarily supporters of the ultra-nationalist Iron Guard, as well as former members of the National Peasants' and National Liberal parties or Zionist members of the Romanian Jewish community. The experiment's goal was for prisoners to discard past political and religious convictions, and, eventually, to alter their personalities to the point of absolute obedience. Estimates for the total number of people passed through the experiment range from up to 1000-to-5000. The "experiment" was stopped at the government's intervention and the overseers were put under trial; while twenty of the participating prisoners were sentenced to death, prison officials were handed down light sentences.

Letter to "Le Monde"

"The Problem of the Gas Chambers" [1]
or
"The Rumour of Auschwitz"

Robert Faurisson

No one questions the use of crematoria in certain German camps. The mere frequency of epidemics throughout Europe at war demanded the cremation, for example, of the bodies of typhus victims (see photographs).

It is the existence of "gas chambers", veritable slaughterhouses for humans, that is called into question. Since 1945, the questioning has been growing. The mass media are aware of this fact.

In 1945, the official historiography affirmed that the "gas chambers" had been used in the former (pre-1938) Reich as well as in Austria, in Alsace as well as in Poland. Fifteen years later, in 1960, it revised its judgment: "gas chambers" had operated, "first and foremost" (?), only in Poland. [2] This drastic revision of 1960 reduced to naught a thousand "testimonies", a thousand "proofs" of alleged gassings at Oranienburg, at Buchenwald, at Bergen-Belsen, at Dachau, at Ravensbrück, at Mauthausen. Appearing before British or French judicial bodies, the heads of Ravensbrück camp (Suhren, Schwarzhuber, Dr Treite) had admitted the existence of a "gas chamber" whose functioning they had even, in a vague manner, described. A comparable scenario had been acted out by Ziereis, of Mauthausen, or by Kramer, of Struthof. After the deaths of those condemned men it was discovered that those gassings had never taken place. Flimsiness of testimonies and confessions!

The "gas chambers" of Poland - as will surely be admitted in time - had no more reality about them. It is to the Polish and Soviet judicial bodies that we owe most of our information on them (see, for instance, the horrifying confession of R. Höss: Commandant of Auschwitz).

Today's visitor to Auschwitz or Majdanek discovers, in the way of "gas chambers," facilities in which any gassings would have spelt catastrophe for the gassers and their entourage. A collective execution by gas, supposing that it were practicable, could not at all be likened either to a suicidal or to an accidental gassing. In order to gas a single convict at a time, with his wrists and ankles shackled, the Americans employ a special gas [hydrogen cyanide] within a small space, from which, after its use, it is extracted and subsequently neutralized. So then, how could two thousand people (and even three thousand) be held in an enclosure of 210 square meters (!), at Auschwitz, for example, to have a common and powerful insecticide called Zyklon B poured onto them (!); finally, just after the victims' death, how could a team be sent, without gas masks, into that place saturated with hydrogen cyanide in order to remove the cyanide-infused corpses? Some too little-known documents [3] show, moreover:

- 1) That the structure in question, which the Germans are said to have blown up shortly before their departure, was nothing but a typical morgue (Leichenkeller), built underground (to protect it from the warmth of the air) and fitted with a single small door for entry and exit;

- 2) That the Zyklon B could not be evacuated by a rapid ventilation and that it needed at least twenty-one hours to evaporate.

Whereas thousands of documents on the Auschwitz crematoria (including invoices precise to the last Pfennig) are in our possession, neither a directive to build, nor a study, nor an order for building materials, nor a blueprint, nor a bill, nor any photograph is attested as regards the "gas chambers," which, we are told, adjoined those crematoria. At a hundred trials (Jerusalem, Frankfurt, etc.), no evidence has been produced.

"I was at Auschwitz. There were no 'gas chambers' there." Those who dare bear witness on behalf of the accused by pronouncing that sentence are hardly listened to. They are prosecuted. Still in 1978, anyone in Germany who speaks out in favour of Thies Christophersen, author of Die Auschwitz-Lüge (The Auschwitz Lie), risks a conviction for "offending the memory of the dead".

After the war, the International Red Cross (which had investigated "the rumour of Auschwitz") [4], the Vatican (which had been quite well informed about Poland), the Nazis, the collabos, all declared, along with many others: "The 'gas chambers'? We did not know." But how can anyone know of things that have not existed?

Nazism is dead and gone, together with its Führer. There remains today the truth. Let us dare to tell it publicly. The non-existence of the "gas chambers" is good news for humanity. Good news that it would be wrong to keep hidden any longer [5].

Appendix Four to The Greatest Lie Ever Told

Transcript of Samuel Untermeyer Speech / New York Times.

The following is a transcript of ✧ Samuel Untermeyer's speech made on WABC, declaring a "holy war" by the Jews against Germany, and appealing to the masses of non-Jewish humanity to boycott German-made imports and all merchants who have German-made items in their establishments. The entire speech was published in the New York times on the morning following the broadcast (7 August 1933) which was mentioned by Benjamin H. Freedman in his talk before a group of patriots: [See Appendix Two to The Greatest Lie Ever Told - Benjamin H. Freedman's 1961 speech at the Willard Hotel - A Jewish Defector Warns America].

A short excerpt from The World's Trouble Makers gives further insight to this speech:

When Hitler had been soundly established, ✧ Samuel Untermeyer, a New York Jewish lawyer, called for war on Germany. The call was made through radio station WABC on 8 July 1933. He had just returned from a world conference of Jews at The Hague. In the broadcast, he said he was calling for a "holy war," and described the Jews as "the aristocrats of the world."

This same gentleman was connected with the Foreign Policy Association of New York and the worldwide organization to move Jews out of Germany, not only into the United States, but to Palestine and other countries. These activities were tied in with the organization known as the "International Boycott on German Goods," of which Untermeyer was the head!

From that time the "Hate Germany" campaign was intensified and made worldwide, with a special Jewish-organized "National Conference of Jews and Christians" assisting! These are the hate-spreaders, but they never grow tired of praising themselves. That marked the beginning of the Jewish exodus from Germany.

We have all, on a world-wide scale, been sold the myth (lie) of the so-called Holocaust...: "Six million Jews killed." Note Untermeyer's mention of the "600,000 souls we must save." That is from the horse's mouth, in 1933, during the time the Jews were leaving Germany by the thousands.

The "Holocaust™" lie has created a great guilt complex in people all over the world who had nothing to do with the murder of even one Jew, never mind the fallacious figure of six million allegedly killed in foreign countries.

The fact that more than 20 million people were killed by Joseph Stalin in the Bolshevik-controlled USSR - mostly Christians - is never mentioned; nor are the tens of millions slaughtered by Mao-Tse-Tung in Communist China. I was told several years ago by an educated and intelligent person that, "That was different. It was their own people that they killed."

It's called brain-washing, folks. Thought control and mind control to the max. It's okay if a despot puppet-ruler kills "his own people." But... the Holocaust™ myth of six million Jews is a crime/sin with which we must all live forever more. And pay, and pay and pay. It is time for the lying to stop.

Why was Adolf Hitler so vilified? Because he had created a state money system, non-gold-backed, and had negotiated trade with other nations that didn't use the International Banker's monetary system. They were bartering! By-passing the usurers.

Hitler continued, despite the boycott, to further his barter-trading and if enough nations had had the opportunity to participate, it would have been the end of the strangle-hold, the unbridled power in the hands of a few creatures lustng after World Dominion. Money is the name of their deceitful and dangerous game. Hitler called it "bogus money."

There is much about Hitler we don't know, so this is not intended to be a Hitler- apologist commentary. I am sharing information gleaned from many and varied sources which I believe to be credible, including historian Nesta Webster.

Mrs. Webster, along with other writers, had also written that Hitler had kicked the International Bankers out of Germany. In his speech, Untermeyer claims that "wealthy Jews are financing Hitler." Untermeyer was intimately connected with the wealthy Jews. Since they are the masters of lies, perhaps the statement was made to confuse the issue. It remains for the time being an unanswered question for me.

A thought which has been recurring for weeks now as a result of a recent reading frenzy... a thought and a question: Given the Political Zionists have controlled the media for a couple of hundred years, why would we believe that everything we've heard/read about Adolf Hitler in the Zionist-controlled media was true?

Text of Untermeyer's Address

Following is the text of Samuel Untermeyer's address last night over Station WABC after his return from Europe:

My Friends:

What a joy and relief and sense of security to be once more on American soil! The nightmares of horrors through which I have passed in those two weeks in Europe, listening to the heartbreakng tales of refugee victims, beggar description.

I deeply appreciate your enthusiastic greeting on my arrival today, which I quite understand is addressed not to me personally but to the holy war in the cause of humanity in which we are embarked. Jews and non-Jews alike, for we are equally concerned that the work of centuries shall not be undone, and that civilization shall not be allowed to die.

It is a war that must be waged unremittingly until the black clouds of bigotry, race hatred and fanaticism that have descended upon what was once Germany, but is now medieval Hitlerland, have been dispersed. If we will but enlist to a man and persist in our purpose, the bright sun of civilization will again shine upon Germany, and the world will be a safer place in which to dwell.

As our ship sailed up the bay today past our proud Statue of Liberty, [a gift to the U.S. from the Grand Orient - Illuminati - Lodge of France] I breathed a prayer of gratitude and thanksgiving that this fair land of freedom has escaped the curse that has descended upon benighted Germany, which has thereby been converted from a nation of culture into a veritable hell of cruel and savage beasts.

The World's Concern

We owe it not only to our persecuted brethren but to the entire world to now strike in self-defense a blow that will free humanity from a repetition of this incredible outrage. This time the Jews are the victims, next time it may be the Catholics or the Protestants. If we once admit, as is brazenly insisted by the German Government, that such fiendish persecution of the people of one race or creed is an internal domestic affair and not a world concern, how are we to know whose turn will be next?

Now or never must all the nations of the earth make common cause against the monstrous claim that the slaughter, starvation and annihilation, by a country that has reverted to barbarism, of its own innocent and defenseless citizens without rhyme, reason or excuse is an internal affair against which the rest of the world must stand idly by and not lift a hand in defense.

I have seen and talked with many of these terror-stricken refugees who have had the good fortune to escape over the border, though forced to leave their property behind them, and I want to say to you that nothing that has seeped through to you over the rigid censorship and lying propaganda that are at work to conceal and misrepresent the situation of the Jews in Germany begins to tell a fraction of the frightful story of fiendish torture, cruelty and persecution that are being inflicted day by day upon these men, women and children, of the terrors of worse than death in which they are living.

When the tale is told, as it will be some day if the impotent League of Nations ever sufficiently awakens from its Rip Van Winkle slumbers to the realization of its power and duty to prosecute an investigation into the facts, the world will confront a picture so fearful in its barbarous cruelty that the hell of war and the alleged Belgian atrocities will pale into insignificance as compared to this devilishly, deliberately, cold-bloodedly planned and already partially executed campaign for the extermination of a proud, gentle, loyal, law-abiding people - a people who love and have shed their blood for their Fatherland, and to whom Germany owes in large part its prosperity and its great scientists, educators, lawyers, physicians, poets, musicians, diplomats and philosophers, who are the backbone of its past cultural life.

Back to Dark Ages

But why dwell longer upon this revolting picture of the ravages wrought by these ingrates and beasts of prey, animated by the loathsome motives of race hatred, bigotry and envy. For the Jews are the aristocrats of the world. From time immemorial they have been persecuted and have seen their persecutors come and go. They alone have survived. And so will history repeat itself, but that furnishes no reason why we should permit this reversion of a once great nation to the Dark Ages or fail to rescue these 600,000 human souls from the tortures of hell as we can with the aid of our Christian friends, if we have the will to act.

Protests and pleas from all corners of the earth, from the leaders of all creeds, having proven as vain and unavailing as was the idealistic dream of our martyred President of making the world safe for democracy and of protecting minorities, what then are to be the lines of our defensive campaign against these atrocities, on which we are already actively embarked? Are we right in our plan? If so, what steps shall now be prosecuted to attain success?

Our campaign is twofold - defensive and constructive. On the defensive side will be the economic boycott against all German goods, shipping and services. On the constructive side will be an appeal to the League of Nations to construe and enforce the labor union provisions of the Versailles Treaty and the written promises made by Germany, while the treaty was under negotiation, to protect its minorities, which have been flagrantly violated by its disfranchisement and persecution of the German Jews.

What Boycott Means

As in the boycott, strange to say a mere handful in number, but powerful in influence, of our thoughtless but doubtless well-intentioned Jews seem obsessed and frightened at the bare mention of the word "boycott." It signifies and conjures up to them images of force and illegality, such as have on occasions in the past characterized struggles between labor unions and their employers. As these timid souls are capitalists and employers, the word and all that it implies are hateful to their ears.

In point of fact, it signifies nothing of the kind. These gentlemen do not know what they are talking or thinking about. Instead of surrendering to their vague fears and half-baked ideas, our first duty is to educate them as to what is meant by a purely defensive economic boycott, and what we are doing and proposing.

Admittedly, the boycott is our only really effective weapon. These gentlemen who are taking counsel of their groundless fears to the exclusion of their reason have done nothing and have no program except to attempt to arouse world opinion, which is and has been from the outset on our side, as it was bound to be because of this brutal, senseless, unprovoked assault upon civilization.

It is not necessary to belittle or underrate that accomplishment, if their aimless, fruitless endeavors in that direction may be so dignified in recognition of their good intentions, barren of results as they have been.

It is sufficient that their efforts have proven unavailing and that the campaign of Schrecklichkeit* not only goes on unabated in the face of unanimous world opinion; but that it is increasing in intensity and that the masses of the German people, misled by government propaganda and suppression of free speech and of the press, are either voluntarily, or through fear of punishment at the hands of their despotic rulers, supporting their government in this hellish campaign.

What then have these amiable gentlemen accomplished and what do they hope or expect to accomplish in the way of stemming this conflagration of civilization by their "feather-duster" methods? You cannot put out a fire, and especially that kind of a fire, by just looking on until the mad flames, fanned by the wind of hate, have destroyed everything.

What we are proposing and have already gone far toward doing, is to prosecute a purely defensive economic boycott that will undermine the Hitler regime and bring the German people to their senses by destroying their export trade on which their very existence depends.

"Force Them to Learn"

They have flaunted and persisted in flaunting and defying world opinion.

We propose to and are organizing world opinion to express itself in the only way Germany can be made to understand. Hitler and his mob will not permit their people to know how they are regarded by the outside world. We shall force them to learn in the only way open to us.

Revolting as it is, it would be an interesting study in psychology to analyze the motives, other than fear and cowardice, that have prompted Jewish bankers to lend money to Germany as they are now doing. It is in part their money that is being used by the Hitler regime in its reckless, wicked campaign of propaganda to make the world anti-Semitic; with that money they have invaded Great Britain, the United States and other countries where they have established newspapers, subsidized agents and otherwise are spending untold millions in spreading their infamous creed.

The suggestion that they use that money toward paying the honest debts they have repudiated is answered only by contemptuous sneers and silence. Meantime the infamous campaign goes on unabated with ever increasing intensity to the everlasting disgrace of the Jewish bankers who are helping to finance it and of the weaklings who are doing nothing effective to check it.

The Hitler regime originated in fiendishly prosecuting their boycott to exterminate the Jews by placarding Jewish shops, warning Germans against dealing with them, by imprisoning Jewish shopkeepers and parading them through the streets by the hundreds under guard of Nazi troops for the sole crime of being Jews, by ejecting them from the learned professions in which many of them had attained eminence, by excluding their children from the schools, their men from the labor unions, closing against them every avenue of livelihood, locking them in vile concentration camps, starving and torturing them, murdering and beating them without cause and resorting to every other conceivable form of torture, inhuman beyond conception, until suicide has become their only means of escape, and all solely because they are or their remote ancestors were Jews, and all with the avowed object of exterminating them.

Appeal to Mankind

As against this, the foulest boycott in the annals of time, we are appealing to all mankind to enforce a counter-boycott. That appeal is meeting with the conviction that idealism and justice are still alive.

* "Schrecklichkeit" as usually translated as "frightfulness" but arguably an equivalent to "terror" as well.

There is nothing new in the use of the economic boycott as an instrument of justice. The covenant of the League of Nations expressly provides in these identical words for its use to bring recalcitrant nations to terms. President Roosevelt, whose wise statesmanship and vision are the wonder of the civilized world, is invoking it in furtherance of his noble conception for the readjustment of the relations between capital and labor under the terms of the sweeping Industrial Recovery Act, to the end that labor shall receive a more just share of the wealth it creates. He is about to enlist the consumers of the country in a national campaign in which they pledge themselves to boycott all manufacturers, jobbers and retailers who fail to subscribe to the codes and to buy only from those who have assented and who are thereby privileged to fly the blue eagle of NRA [National Recovery Act]. What more exalted precedent do our timid friends want?

With this explanation of our aims, I appeal to the American Jewish Committee, whose public spirit and good intentions I do not for a moment question, but the wisdom of whose judgment I challenge, no longer to hold aloof but to rid themselves of their timid and ill-considered prejudices and join in actively pressing this boycott as our only weapon except the appeal to the League, which I shall discuss at a later time.

I purposely refrain from including the American Jewish Congress in this appeal because I am satisfied that 95% of their members are already with us and that they are being misrepresented by two or three men now abroad. Of them I ask that, prior to the meeting to be held this month in Prague by their executive committee, they instruct these false leaders in no uncertain terms as to the stand they must take on this all-important subject and demand that they shall either openly represent their views or resign their offices. One of them, generally recognized as the kingpin of mischief makers, is junketing around the Continent engaged in his favorite pastime of spreading discord, asserting at one time and place that he favors and supports the boycott and at another that he is opposed or indifferent to it, all dependent on the audience he is addressing; but always directly or indirectly delivering a stab in the dark.

Progress So Far Made

There is not time now, but I hope and expect in the near future to be able to report to you the steps that have been taken and that are already under way, and the surprising and gratifying progress already made in many countries toward the success of the economic boycott in which we are engaged. Although considerable progress in that direction has already been made in Great Britain and in the United States, you will be surprised to learn that they are the least advanced and as yet the most inadequately organized of all the countries that were represented at the Amsterdam World Economic Conference, where the boycott was unanimously and enthusiastically approved by formal resolution by a rising vote.

With us in America the delay has been due in part to lack of funds and the vast territory to be covered, but it is hoped, and expected, that this condition will soon be corrected. The object-lesson we are determined to teach is so priceless to all humanity that we dare not fall.

Each of you, Jew and Gentile alike, who has not already enlisted in this sacred war should do so now and here. It is not sufficient that you buy no goods made in Germany. You must refuse to deal with any merchant or shopkeeper who sells any German-made goods or who patronizes German ships or shipping.

To our shame be it said that there are a few Jews among us, but fortunately only a few, so wanting in dignity and self-respect that they are willing to travel on German ships where they are despised and meet with the just contempt of the servants who wait upon them and of their fellow passengers. Their names should be heralded far and wide. They are traitors to their race.

In conclusion, permit me again to thank you for this heartening reception and to assure you that, with your support and that of our millions of non-Jewish friends, we will drive the last nail in the coffin of bigotry and fanaticism that has dared raise its ugly head to slander, belie and disgrace twentieth century civilization.

Various Notes related to Common Sense

Eustace Mullins

Eustace Mullins

Ezra Pound

John Kasper

George Stimpson

Eustace Clarence Mullins Jr. (9 March 1923 - 2 February 2010) was an anti-Semitic American writer, Holocaust denier, and disciple of the poet Ezra Pound, (who had been incarcerated on treason charges in St. Elizabeths Hospital - opened in 1855 as the first Federally operated psychiatric hospital in the U.S. Housing over 8000 patients at its peak in the 1950s). His best-known book is The Secrets of The Federal Reserve, in which he alleged that a group of shadowy organizations had conspired to write the Federal Reserve Act for its own nefarious purposes, and then induced Congress to enact it into law.

The Secrets of The Federal Reserve

In 1952, the book was finally published by two of Pound's other disciples, John Kasper (an American far-right activist and Ku Klux Klan member) and David Horton, under the title Mullins on the Federal Reserve. In it, Mullins postulated a conspiracy among Paul Warburg, Edward Mandell House, Woodrow Wilson, J.P. Morgan, Benjamin

Strong, Otto Kahn, the Rockefeller family, the Rothschild family, and other European and American bankers that led to the founding of the U.S. Federal Reserve System. He argued that the Federal Reserve Act of 1913 defies Article 1, Section 8, Paragraph 5 of the United States Constitution by creating a "central bank of issue" for the United States. Mullins went on to claim that World War One, the Agricultural Depression of 1920, the Great Depression of 1929 were brought about by international banking interests in order to profit from conflict and economic instability. Mullins also cited Thomas Jefferson's staunch opposition to the establishment of a central bank in the United States.

In an updated edition published in 1983 and retitled Secrets of the Federal Reserve, Mullins argued that Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and the House of Morgan were fronts for the Rothschilds. He asserted that financial interests connected to the J. Henry Schroder Company and the Dulles brothers financed Adolf Hitler (in contrast to Pound's declaration that Hitler was a sovereign who disdained international finance). He called the Rothschilds "world monopolists," and claimed that City of London bankers owned the Federal Reserve, since they owned much of the stock of its member banks. He attempted to trace stock ownership, as it changed hands via mergers and acquisitions, from the inception of the Federal Reserve in 1913 to the early 1980s.

In the last chapter of the book, he noted various Congressional investigations, and criticized the immense degree of power that these few banks who owned majority shares in the Federal Reserve possessed. He also criticized the Bilderberg Group, attacking it as an international consortium produced by the Rockefeller-Rothschild alliance. In an appendix to the book, he delved further into the City of London, and criticized the Tavistock Institute of Human Relations, which he claimed helps to conduct psychological warfare on the citizens of Britain and the United States.

A central theme of Mullins' book is that the Federal Reserve allows bankers to monetize debt, creating it out of nothing by book entry, and thus they have enormous leverage over everyone else. Near the end of the book, he said of the Federal Reserve:

The Federal Reserve System is not Federal; it has no reserves; and it is not a system, but rather, a criminal syndicate. It is the product of criminal syndicalist activity of an international consortium of dynastic families comprising what the author terms "The World Order." The Federal Reserve system is a central bank operating in the United States. Although the student will find no such definition of a central bank in the textbooks of any university, the author has defined a central bank as follows: It is the dominant financial power of the country which harbors it. It is entirely private-owned, although it seeks to give the appearance of a governmental institution. It has the right to print and issue money, the traditional prerogative of monarchs. It is set up to provide financing for wars. It functions as a money monopoly having total power over all the money and credit of the people.

Mullins dedicated Secrets of the Federal Reserve to George Stimpson and Ezra Pound.

"The World Order"

Like his mentor [Ezra Pound], Mullins sees the world's evil as a product of financial manipulation, in which Jews play a central role. But as an explanation of world, as opposed to modern, history, his conspiracist vision makes the Illuminati merely a link in a much longer change that extends back to the ancient Near East and forward to the nascent communist movement of the early Marx. Johann Adam Weishaupt (6 February 1748 – 18 November 1830), a German philosopher and founder of the Order of the Illuminati, a secret society, himself is portrayed as a mere figurehead... Mullins sees the Illuminati as really run by Jews.

Frederick Charles Ferdinand Weiss also Fred Weiss (31 July 1885 - 1 March 1968) was a major intellectual leader and financial backer for the New York-based National Renaissance Party and considered to be the secret head of the party.

Weiss was born in Pforzheim, Grand Duchy of Baden, German Empire in 1885. He was a graduate of the University of Heidelberg and the Sorbonne. He first visited the United States in 1910 later returning to Germany. He served as an artillery captain in the First World War. After the war he moved to New York City in 1930 and became prosperous as a consequence of real estate investments. During World War Two, Weiss was declared an "enemy alien" and was imprisoned in the American concentration camp at Ellis Island. After his release he was in contact with the newly formed Socialist Reich Party in Germany.

Weiss was influenced by the writings of Francis Parker Yockey pro-Russian stance in the 1950s and wrote a series of articles in support of Russia in NRP publications starting in 1955. He favored a German-Russian postwar alliance against the United States. Weiss ran a publishing group called Le Blanc Publications with political ally H. Keith Thompson. He helped to distribute Yockey's article What is Behind the Hanging of the Eleven Jews in Prague? [See Appendix Three to The Greatest Lie Ever Told.]

Kurt Mertig (5 September 1886 - September 1964) was a German-American executive with the Hamburg-American Line and involved in the import-export trade. He was the head of the Citizens Protective League, the German-American Republican League and founder of the National Renaissance Party.

In the early 1940s in Yorkville, New York Mertig gave speeches in support of Hitler's Germany. In 1942 Kurt Mertig was the key individual in coordinating the repatriation of German nationals back to National Socialist Germany. Many of these Germans were interned at Ellis Island.

The Swiss Consulate in New York acted as diplomatic liaison in returning these Germans.

Mertig took this responsibility from William Georg Gerhard Mitchell a secretary to German American Bund leader Fritz Kuhn. Mitchell was designated by the NSDAP to act on behalf of the German government in repatriating German nationals. On 4 June 1943 Mitchell along with his fiancée was himself repatriated to Germany via Lisbon, Portugal leaving Mertig to continue the project.

In 1943 Mertig was ordered to relocate inland 300 miles by the Army Exclusion Board. He fought this order in court successfully. In 1945 at the end of the war the order was withdrawn.

After the war he formed the National Renaissance Party in Yorkville, New York in 1949. The name was chosen from a quote in Hitler's Political Testament, that after Hitler's death "the seed of radiant renaissance of the National Socialist Movement" would spring up.

In October 1945 Mertig was arrested in New York City with Ernest F. Elmhurst (a defendant in the Great Sedition Trial) and Homer Maertz (a publisher of articles on Jewish ritual murder) on charges of unlawful assembly and selling "Jewish ritual murder" pamphlets. Mertig and Elmhurst were convicted and received a six month sentence in a work house. Maertz had an additional charge of disorderly conduct and was sentenced to one year in the city prison.

Fritz Kuhn

Fritz Julius Kuhn (15 May 1896 - 14 December 1951), was the leader of the German American Bund. Previously he headed the Bund's predecessor organization Friends of New Germany. Fritz Kuhn was labeled by the press as "The American Führer."

In 1939, seeking to delegitimize the Bund, the half-Italian/half-Jewish New York City mayor Fiorello La Guardia began a politicized investigation into Kuhn. It was originally claimed Kuhn embezzled $5,641.24 from the Bund. Later the charge was reduced to $674.83. The money was supposedly used to assist his mistress, Virginia Cogswell, a former Miss America, in paying her medical bills and to ship some furniture from California back east. District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey decided to press charges and won a conviction. Wendell Willkie, the Republican rival to FDR said of the trial, "in the case of Kuhn...legal processes were abused for political purposes."

On 6 December 1939, Kuhn was sentenced to two and half to five years, and the next day entered Sing-Sing prison. Though Kuhn was convicted of embezzlement by the government, followers of the Bund disagreed with this judgment and continued to hold him in high regard.

In March 1942, Kuhn's American citizenship was revoked. He was later released from Sing-Sing prison and held as an enemy alien at an internment camp in Crystal City, Texas. Later he was transferred to the internment camp at Ellis Island.

On 15 September 1945 he was deported from Ellis Island to Germany and finally freed by the Americans in Asperg, Germany on 25 April 1946. On 24 July 1947 he was re-arrested in Allied occupied Germany and sent to the Dachau concentration camp near Munich for "denazification."

German American Bund

The German American Bund (German: Amerikadeutscher Bund), also known as the German American Federation was a pro-National Socialist organization established in the United States 29

March 1936. Often derided in the press as America's Brownshirts, the organization was the successor of an earlier German American group, Friends of New Germany, which had a large number of non-American German nationals as its members. The Bund had strong ideological ties to the New Germany however there has never been any evidence National Socialist Germany ever financed the group. According to the Justice Department the Bund had its largest membership of 8500 in 1937-1938. Around this same time undercover reporters from the Chicago Daily Times who infiltrated the Bund for six months estimated their membership to be 20,000. One of the Chicago reporters John C. Metcalfe believed 90% of German Americans did not support the organization or its activities. The German American Bund slogan was "Free America!"

The Bund held their meetings mostly in German however being of German descent was not a requirement for membership. 40% of the membership was of non-German ancestry, most of these being Irish. All members of the Bund had to be American citizens and of the Aryan race. The one exception was the attempt to recruit American Indians into the Bund.

German American Bund membership was mostly middle class. Working class German American immigrants tended to favor Social Democrats.

National Renaissance Party

National Renaissance Party flag
(Red in colour with a blue lightning bolt)

Support for the party came from the pro-Hitler German-American community of Yorkville where street meetings were often held at the corner of 88th Street and York Avenue. The party was founded from older elements of the Christian Front, German-American Bund, Citizens Protective League and the Nationalist Action League.

James Madole replaced Kurt Mertig as leader of the NRP although Fred Weiss was considered to be the real influence upon the party. In 1953 the party had a uniformed "Elite Guard" - modern day stormtroopers - under the joint leadership of Matt Koehl (later Commander of the National Socialist White People's Party) and Hans Schmidt. In May 1963 a new self-defense formation was created called the Security Echelon (SE).

In the 1960s and 1970s the party became more occult-oriented developing ties with Anton LaVey and the Church of Satan. LaVey, a Jew born Howard Stanton Levey, would claim to be a card-carrying member of the party.

The National Renaissance Party lasted until 1980. Party membership at any one time had been estimated from 50 to a few hundred.

James Hartung Madole (7 July 1927 - 6 May 1979) was an occult fascist and titular leader of the National Renaissance Party (NRP). He became a believer in animism, a concept that spirit or soul exists in all things. In 1945 Madole formed the right-wing Animist Party with support from science fiction fans. He soon dissolved his little party and joined the Nationalist Action League.

In New York, Madole later met Kurt Mertig who has previous associations with the German-American Bund. In 1949 Mertig founded the National Renaissance Party in Yorkville, New York, the home base of the Bund. Madole became an early member of the NRP helping to merge Nationalist Action League into the party. Eventually James Madole would become the leader of the National Renaissance Party.

Madole would move the party to a "Third Way" or "Third Position" ideology - rejecting capitalism and communism - and believing the post-war Soviet Union to be an anti-Jewish nationalist force within the world. In addition, Madole would incorporate Theosophy into the party's ideology. In 1974 he published his ideas in a series of articles that would later be titled, The New Atlantis: A blueprint for an Aryan Garden of Eden in North America.

Matt Koehl

George Lincoln Rockwell

Matthias (Matt) Koehl Jr. (22 January 1935 - 10 October 2014) was the leader of New Order, a quasi-religious National Socialist organization. He succeeded George Lincoln Rockwell as Commander of the National Socialist White People's Party (NSWPP) after Rockwell's assassination in August 1967. Koehl renamed the NSWPP the New Order in 1983. Matt Koehl was also previously head of the World Union of National Socialists.

In the 1950s he joined James Madole's National Renaissance Party and was one of the leaders of their Elite Guard. He also joined the United White Party, and the National States Rights Party (1958, the NSRP's national organizer) before joining the American Nazi Party (ANP) in 1960. He became head of the Chicago branch of the ANP in 1961 and relocated to the national office in Virginia in 1963 as the National Secretary of the party with the rank of Major.

Koehl first met Rockwell thru the National States Rights Party. They both worked together on the political campaign of Admiral John Crommelin when he ran for governor of Alabama in 1958.

Like Miguel Serrano, he was heavily influenced by the writings of Savitri Devi and is an advocate of esoteric Hitlerism, believing Hitler to have been a god-like being sent to rescue humanity - and specifically the European peoples - from the Jews.

George Lincoln Rockwell (9 March 1918 - 25 August 1967) was a United States Navy Commander and founder of the American Nazi Party. Rockwell was a major figure in the post-war American National Socialist movement and his beliefs and writings have continued to be influential among people with a similar views, particularly in the United States.

In March 1959, Rockwell formed the World Union of Free Enterprise National Socialists, a name apparently chosen to imply opposition to state ownership of property. In December of that year, the name would be changed to the American Nazi Party (ANP). The formation of the party resulted in his discharge from the United States Navy and the forfeiting of his pension. Rockwell had to send his wife, Thora, and the four children to Iceland for their personal safety. The separation was supposed to have been temporary. In the months that passed, they grew distant. Rockwell went to Iceland and tried to reconcile with his family. However, he was unable to save his second marriage and they later divorced. Meanwhile, relations with his biological family would never be the same either. Both his brother and sister refused to ever speak with him. His father never forgave his son for dishonoring his name. Only his mother remained in contact.

In summer 1966, Rockwell led a counter-demonstration to Martin Luther King's attempt to bring an end to de facto segregation in the white Chicago suburb of Cicero, Illinois. He believed King was merely a tool for Jewish Communists to integrate America. Although he admired J. Edgar Hoover's stand against communist subversion and would have approved of Hoover's tactics against King, unbeknownst to him, Rockwell was also targeted by the FBI's counter intelligence program: COINTELPRO.

Rockwell led the American Nazi Party in assisting the Ku Klux Klan and similar groups during the Civil Rights Movement, by countering the Freedom Riders and the March on Washington. But he soon came to believe the Klan was stuck in the past and ineffective for helping him wage a modern race struggle. After hearing the slogan "Black Power" during a debate in 1966 with Black Panther Stokely Carmichael, Rockwell altered the phrase and started a call for "White Power." White Power would later become the name of the party's newspaper and the title of a book authored by Rockwell.

Rockwell's principal message was racial separation and attempted to form friendly associations with the Nation of Islam. He praised Elijah Muhammad as the "Black people's Hitler," and for doing the best job in promoting integrity and pride among his people. Rockwell also admired Malcolm X and saw him as the next true leader for Black America.

If separation was not achieved, Rockwell believed America faced long-term racial problems and predicted a great race war, where "the uniform would be skin color." Rockwell believed the conflict was approaching with whites eventually becoming America's new racial minority.

On 1 January 1967, Rockwell announced the party's next stage of development. He officially changed the name of the American Nazi Party to the National Socialist White People's Party (NSWPP). Its new slogan would be "White Power" replacing "Sieg Heil." The new strategy would be to capitalize on growing support in the wake of the Chicago rallies and to focus the organization's commitment to a universal white nationalism as opposed to Nordic or Anglo-Saxon provincialism. An internal party newsletter, the "National Socialist Bulletin," was started to convey and help direct these new efforts.

On June 9th-11th, the party held its national conference in Arlington aimed at reorganizing its leadership and "charting a new course of professionalism." The ANP party publication The Stormtrooper magazine was replaced by a newspaper titled White Power.

Rockwell also was the first to shed the Nordicist ideology of what an Aryan was and replaced it with Pan Europeanism, which accepted all white ethnicities such as Italians, Greeks, and Spaniards. German National Socialism had only accepted Northern and western Europeans as Aryan.

Rockwell was one of the first to challenge the claims of the Holocaust™. He maintained it was all propaganda from the war that became a psychological weapon of Zionism, designed to promote white guilt and coerce the Western world into contributing billions in foreign aid to Israel. He often declared that if not for the Holocaust™, the modern state of Israel would not exist and there would be no worldwide demand for eliminating racial segregation and apartheid.

On 28 June 1967, the first attempt was made on Rockwell's life. Returning from shopping, he drove into the party barracks' driveway on Wilson Boulevard and found it blocked by a felled tree and brush. Rockwell assumed that it was another prank by local teens. As a young trooper cleared the obstruction, two shots were fired at Rockwell from behind one of the swastika-embossed brick driveway pillars. One of the shots ricocheted off the car right next to his head. Leaping from the car, Rockwell pursued the would-be assassin. On June 30th, Rockwell petitioned the Arlington County Circuit Court for a gun permit; no action was ever taken on his request.

On 25 August 1967, Rockwell was killed by gunshots while leaving the Econowash laundromat at the Dominion Hills Shopping Center in the 6000 block of Wilson Boulevard in Arlington, Virginia. Two bullets crashed through his 1958 Chevrolet's windshield and it slowly rolled backwards to a stop. Rockwell staggered out of the front passenger side door of the car, pointed towards the shopping center roof, and then collapsed face up on the pavement.

The gunman ran along the shopping center roof and jumped to the ground in the rear. A shop owner and customer briefly gave chase, but were unable to get a clear look at the fleeing figure. Other customers called the Arlington County police and checked Rockwell for a pulse. He had none; the one bullet that struck him had ripped through several major arteries just above his heart. The internal bleeding was so heavy that Rockwell died in two minutes.

A half hour later at a corner bus stop about one-half mile from the shooting, John Patler - a former member of Rockwell's group - was arrested as the suspected assassin by a passing patrolman familiar with the Arlington National Socialists. Later that day, after hearing of his son's death, Rockwell's 78-year-old father commented laconically, "I am not surprised at all. I've expected it for quite some time."

As deputy commander of the NSWPP, Matt Koehl became the new commander on Rockwell's death. At the time of his death, the NSWPP had approximately 300 active members nationwide and perhaps 3000 financial supporters.

The Great Sedition Trial of 1944

The Great Sedition Trial of 1944 was a political show trial engineered by the American Jewish Committee, Anti-Defamation League (ADL), and B'nai B'rith with the purpose of imprisoning anti-communist patriots who opposed FDR and his schemes to bring the country into World War Two. The Smith Act of 1940 was used to prosecute the defendants. The case was designated as United States v. McWilliams where the defendants were charged with conspiracy to aid in establishment of a National Socialist form of government within the United States and attempting to demoralize the armed forces of the United States. A conviction carried a $10,000 fine and ten years imprisonment. The entire case was declared a mistrial after the presiding judge suddenly died. Months later another judge dismissed the charges against the defendants and called the case "a travesty on justice."

Smith Act of 1940

The Alien Registration Act or Smith Act of 1940 is a United States federal statute that makes it a criminal offense for anyone to "knowingly or willfully advocate, abet, advise or teach the duty, necessity, desirability or propriety of overthrowing the Government of the United States or of any State by force or violence, or for anyone to organize any association which teaches, advises or encourages such an overthrow, or for anyone to become a member of or to affiliate with any such association."

It also required all non-citizen adult residents to register with the government; within four months, 4,741,971 aliens had registered under the Act's provisions.

The Act is best known for its use against political organizations and figures. Prosecutions continued until a series of United States Supreme Court decisions in 1957 threw out numerous convictions under the Smith Act as unconstitutional. The statute remains on the books, however.

The Act was proposed by Congressman Howard W. Smith of Virginia, a Democrat and a leader of the "anti-labor" bloc of Congressmen. It was signed into law by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Savitri Devi

Savitri Devi Mukherji (30 September 1905 - 22 October 1982) was the pseudonym of the Greek-French writer Maximiani Portas (also spelled Maximine Portaz), a prominent proponent of animal rights, deep ecology and Nazism, who served the Axis cause during World War Two by spying on Allied forces in India. She wrote about animal rights movements and was a leading member of the Nazi underground during the 1960s.

Savitri Devi was also an animal-rights activist who authored the book The Impeachment of Man in 1959 and was a proponent of Hinduism and Nazism, synthesizing the two, proclaiming Adolf Hitler to have been sent by Providence, much like an avatar of the Hindu god Vishnu. She believed Hitler was a sacrifice for humanity which would lead to the end of the Kali Yuga induced by who she felt were the powers of evil, the Jews: (Kali Yuga is the last of the four stages the world goes through as part of the cycle of yugas described in the Sanskrit scriptures, within the present Mahayuga). Her writings have influenced neo-Nazism and Nazi occultism. Among Savitri Devi's ideas was the classifications of "men above time," "men in time" and "men against time." Rejecting Judeo-Christianity, she believed in a form of pantheistic monism; a single cosmos of nature composed of divine energy-matter.

She is credited with pioneering neo-Nazi interest in occultism, deep ecology and the New Age movement. She influenced the Chilean diplomat Miguel Serrano. In 1982, Franco Freda published a German translation of her work Gold in the Furnace, and the fourth volume of his annual review, Risguardo (1980–), was devoted to Savitri Devi as the "missionary of Aryan Paganism."

Savitri was an associate in the post-war years of Françoise Dior, Otto Skorzeny, Johannes von Leers, and Hans-Ulrich Rudel.

She was also one of the founding members of the World Union of National Socialists.

Françoise Dior    Otto Skorzeny    Johannes von Leers    Hans-Ulrich Rudel

Marie-Françoise Suzanne Dior, also known as Françoise de Caumont La Force, Françoise Dior-Jordan, and Françoise Dior-de Mirleau (7 April 1932 – 20 January 1993), was a French socialite and post-war Nazi underground financier. She was a close friend of Savitri Devi and niece of French fashion designer Christian Dior and Catherine Dior - Catherine was deported to the Ravensbrück women's concentration camp for her anti-Nazi intelligence work, and later publicly distanced herself from her niece.

Otto Skorzeny (12 June 1908 – 5 July 1975) was an Austrian SS-Obersturmbannführer (lieutenant colonel) in the German Waffen-SS during World War Two. After fighting on the Eastern Front, he accompanied the rescue mission that freed the deposed Italian dictator Benito Mussolini from captivity. Skorzeny was an SS-Hauptsturmführer (Captain) at the time of this mission.

Skorzeny was the leader of Operation Greif, in which German soldiers were to infiltrate through enemy lines, using their opponents' languages, uniforms, and customs. At the end of the war, Skorzeny was involved with the Werwolf guerrilla movement. Although charged with breaching the 1907 Hague Convention in relation to Operation Greif, the Dachau Military Tribunal acquitted Skorzeny after the war. Skorzeny fled from his holding prison in 1948, first to France, and then to Spain. He lived in Ireland before settling in Spain.

Omar Amin (born Johann von Leers; 25 January 1902 – 5 March 1965) was an Alte Kämpfer and an honorary Sturmabnführer in the Waffen SS in Nazi Germany, where he was also a professor known for his anti-Jewish polemics. He was one of the most important ideologues of the Third Reich, serving as a high-ranking propaganda ministry official. He later served in the Egyptian Information Department, as well as an advisor to Gamal Abdel Nasser. He published for Goebbels, in Peron's Argentina and for Nasser's Egypt. He converted to Islam, and changed his name to Omar Amin.

Hans-Ulrich Rudel (2 July 1916 – 18 December 1982) was a Luftwaffe military aviator during World War Two, a ground-attack pilot credited with the destruction of 519 tanks, as well as a number of ships. He also claimed 9 aerial victories, and the destruction of more than 800 vehicles of all types, over 150 artillery, anti-tank and anti-aircraft positions, 4 armored trains, and numerous bridges and supply lines. He flew 2530 ground-attack missions exclusively on the Eastern Front, usually flying the Junkers Ju 87 "Stuka" dive bomber, and 430 missions flying the Focke-Wulf Fw 190.

Elizabeth Dilling

Elizabeth Eloise Kirkpatrick Dilling (19 April 1894 - 26 May 1966) was an American writer and an anti-communist and anti-Semitic researcher and political activist. In 1934, she published The Red Network - A Who's Who and Handbook of Radicalism for Patriots, which catalogs over 1300 suspected communists and their sympathizers. Her books and lecture tours established her as the pre-eminent female right-wing activist of the 1930s, and one of the most outspoken critics of the New Deal.

Dilling was the best-known leader of the World War Two women's isolationist movement, a grass-roots campaign that pressured Congress to refrain from helping the Allies. She was among 28 anti-war campaigners charged with sedition in 1942; the charges were dropped in 1946. While academic studies have customarily ignored both the anti-war "Mothers' movement" and right-wing activist women in general, Dilling's writings secured her a lasting influence among right-wing groups.

The UN Charter and treaties are constructed to make way for the "man of sin," the Anti-Christ who will hold supreme power over life or death as he briefly heads this last Red satanic world empire.

Mothers' Movement

Mothers' Movement also known as the Mothers' Crusade began with the 5 February 1941 Mothers' March on Washington, a collation of anti-war women who wanted the United States to stay out of World War Two. After the march several of these women went back home and started their own national or regional Mothers organization. By one estimate five-to-six million women may have been involved with the Mothers' Movement. As the war continued the Mothers' Movement sought a negotiated peace with the Axis Powers.

February 1941: Barbara Withrop, president of We the Mothers Mobilize for America, gives last-minute instructions to volunteers departing for Washington D.C. to protest Lend-Lease.

Lyrl Clark Van Hyning

Lyrl Clark Van Hyning (born Mary Lyrl Clark 23 July 1892 - 9 June 1973) was a national leader of the Mothers' Movement and a founder of We, the Mothers, Mobilize for America: [The group was investigated for subversive activities and their books seized in April 1942. Not enough evidence was found to return an indictment and their books were returned by the government. In June 1944 the group called for a negotiated peace to end the war].

In February 1941 Lyrl Clark Van Hyning along with Lucy Palermo and Grace Keefe founded We, the Mothers, Mobilize for America, a group organized to keep American out of war. The group started a newsletter Women's Voice which grew into a major American nationalist newspaper published until 1962. Previously she had been a member of the America First Committee and the German American Bund.

Lyrl was the daughter and wife of Masons and later discovered the organization she had admired was actually a Jewish-controlled, anti-Christian and anti-American institution. In her pamphlet on Freemasonry she wrote:

Nothing is so vital as the truth about the control of Masonry by the Jews; it is the Key to the devil's plan of destruction and chaos. It is the Eye of the Octopus-not Communism but Judaism.

Gen. George Van Horn Moseley

Moseley's awards included the Distinguished Service Medal (one oak leaf cluster); Commander, Order of the Crown (Belgian); Companion, Order of the Bath (British); Commander, Legion of Honor, and Croix de Guerre with Palm (French); Commander, Order of the Crown of Italy.

George Van Horn Moseley (28 September 1874 - 7 November 1960) was a United States Army general. Following his retirement in 1938, he became controversial for his fiercely anti-immigrant and anti-Semitic views.

He was the executive for the Assistant Secretary of War, 1929-30, Deputy Chief of Staff of Army, 1930-33. He served as General Douglas MacArthur's Deputy Chief of Staff during the 1932 Bonus March on

Washington, D.C., in the course of which he recorded his fears of a Communist conspiracy against the United States and his identification of Jews with radicals and undesirables. He wrote in a private letter:

We pay great attention to the breeding of our hogs, our dogs, our horses, and our cattle, but we are just beginning to realize the... effects of absorbing objectionable blood in our breed of human beings. The pages of history give us the tragic stories of one-time leading nations which... imported manpower of an inferior kind and then... intermarried with this inferior stock. [ ] Those nations have either passed out of separate existence entirely, or have remained as decadent entities without influence in world affairs.

In 1934, he asked MacArthur to consider the immigration issue in terms of military manpower, contrasting a group of "southern lads" of "good Anglo-Saxon stock" with their counterparts from the North with names "difficult to pronounce" that "indicated foreign blood." Moseley linked the latter to labor problems and "so much trouble in our schools and colleges." MacArthur expressed skepticism in response to Moseley's argument that "It is a question of whether or not the old blood that built this fine nation... is to continue to administer that nation, or whether that old stock is going to be destroyed or bred out by a lot of foreign blood which the melting pot has not touched."

Moseley retired in October 1938 with a statement that described the New Deal as a growing dictatorship: "We do not have to vote for a dictatorship to have one in America... We have merely to vote increased government responsibility for our individual lives, increased government authority over our daily habits, and the resultant Federal paternalism will inevitably become dictatorship." Secretary of War Harry Woodring called his statement "flagrantly disloyal." In April 1939 he attacked Jews and said that he foresaw a war fought for their benefit. He attacked President Franklin D. Roosevelt for appointing Felix Frankfurter to the U.S. Supreme Court. He predicted that the U.S. army would not follow the orders of FDR's leftist Administration if they "violate all American tradition." He described fascism and Nazism as good "antitoxins" for the United States, adding that "the finest type of Americanism can breed under their protection as they neutralize the efforts of the Communists."

In June 1939, Moseley testified for five hours before the House Un-American Activities Committee. He said that a Jewish Communist conspiracy was about to seize control of the U.S. government. He believed the President had the authority to counteract the planned coup and could do so "in five minutes" by issuing an order "to discharge every Communist in the government and everyone giving aid and comfort to the Communists." He said the President could use the army against "the enemy within our gates" but did not seem willing to do so. He said he held no anti-Semitic views and that "the Jew is an internationalist first... and a patriot second." He praised the "impressively patriotic" German-American Bund and said its purpose was to "see that Communists don't take over the country." Among Moseley's supporters who attended the hearing were Donald Shea, head of the American Gentile League and James True of America First Inc. The Committee found a prepared statement he read into the record so objectionable it was deleted from the public record. A few days later, Thomas E. Stone, head of the Council of United States Veterans, charged Moseley with treason and wrote that his praise of the Bund "abets a foreign government in the preparation of disruption against the eventuality of possible future hostilities, and that this he is acting in treason to our national safety."

Moseley held anti-immigrant views throughout his life. In his unpublished autobiography, he quoted approvingly from Madison Grant's The Passing of the Great Race. He used the language of Social Darwinism to describe the problem the United States faced:

Watch a herd of animals. If a member of the herd becomes unfit... the unfortunate is recognized at once and driven out of the herd, only to be eaten by the timber wolves. That seems hard—but is it, in fact? The suffering is thus limited to the one. The disease is not allowed to attack the others. [ ] With us humans, what we call civilization compels us to carry along the unfit in ever increasing proportions.

He described the Jew as a permanent "human outcast." They were "crude and unclean, animal-like things... something loathsome, such as syphilis." Following the Nazi invasion of France he wrote that in order to match the Nazi threat, the U.S. needed to launch a program of "selective breeding, sterilization, the elimination of the unfit, and the elimination of those types which are inimical to the general welfare of the nation." In December 1941, Moseley wrote that Europe's Jews were "receiving their just punishment for the crucifixion of Christ... whom they are still crucifying at every turn of the road." He proposed a "worldwide policy which will result in breeding all Jewish blood out of the human race.

In 1951, the president of Piedmont College in Georgia invited Moseley to speak. Students and faculty protested because of his racist views. TIME magazine called him a "trumpeter for Aryan supremacy." One faculty member was fired for speaking in opposition to the speaking engagement. Calls for the president's resignation followed. Almost the entire faculty and 9 trustees resigned in the next two years and enrollment fell by two thirds.

In 1959, Moseley was one of the founders of Americans for Constitutional Action, an anti-Semitic successor to America First.

In retirement he lived at the Atlanta Biltmore Hotel in Atlanta, Georgia. He died on 7 November 1960.

Col. Eugene N. Sanctuary

Colonel Eugene Nelson Sanctuary (6 November 1870 - 10 March 1957) was a retired U.S. Army Reserve officer and a defendant in the Great Sedition Trial of 1944. He was defended by an anti-communist Jewish attorney, Henry H. Klein.

Sanctuary was a graduate from the University of Vermont. Before the First World War he was a civil engineer for Montpelier, Vermont. He served in Russia during the war working with the Russian Railway Service Corps. During this time he was a witness to the Bolshevik Revolution. Sanctuary headed a lobbying group called American Christian Defenders and accused President Franklin Roosevelt of conspiring to create "a Jewish state where only Jews will own property and reap profits."

He was a regular contributor to Reverend Gerald Winrod's publication The Defender. He issued his literature under the imprint Tocsin Publishers. Sanctuary had written close to five hundred sacred and patriotic songs including, "Uncle Sam We Are Standing By You" and "A Klansman's Song." He was laymen in the Presbyterian Church.

Charles B. Hudson

Charles Bartlett Hudson (18 January 1892 - July 1972) was a science fiction writer and a defendant in the Great Sedition Trial of 1944. He was the publisher of America in Danger!. He worked with the German foreign press agency Welt-Dienst.

Before America entered the war, Hudson called for a "Mothers' March on Washington" to protest pending legislation known as Lend-Lease which would aid Great Britain in her war with Germany. In September 1940 Hudson issued the call in his publication. The next month he and Reverend Gerald Winrod meet with Elizabeth Dilling in Chicago to discuss the march. On 5 February 1941 Elizabeth Dilling and several hundred women - mostly from Midwestern states - marched on the halls of Congress.

Hudson was a mentor to James H. Madole who later became the leader of the New York-based National Renaissance Party.

Gerald Burton Winrod

Gerald Burton Winrod (7 March 1900 - 11 November 1957) was a pro-Nazi and anti-Semitic Protestant fundamentalist evangelist minister, author and political activist, and publisher of several religious-nationalist newspapers, most notably The Defender. He was a defendant in the Great Sedition Trial of 1944.

In 1932 he discovered The Protocols of the Elders of Zion and became a life-long convert to fighting the Jews.

In 1934 he founded The Revealer newspaper which attacked the Roosevelt Administration.

In January 1935 Winrod was invited by Dr. Otto Vollbehr (a German industrial chemist, rare book dealer and National Socialist propagandist) to visit Hitler's Germany "to study social, political, moral, economic, and prophetic trends." The visit had a profound effect upon him. In discussing Hitler, Winrod stated: "One of the first things that disgusted Hitler was the fact that he discovered night clubs, cabarets, centers of vice, nudist colonies, as well as poison literature to be under the control and direction of an organization of Jews, who for money, were willing to tear down the Gentile morale of the nation."

Previously Winrod was hostile to authoritarian regimes and in the past even considered Mussolini to be a candidate for the Anti-Christ. James True a Washington DC journalist fondly gave Winrod the moniker "The Jayhawk Nazi" denoting Winrod's Kansas roots and his anti-Semitism.

In January 1937 he established The Capitol News & Feature Service, a Washington-based news agency with the purpose of supplying his take on Washington events to two thousand rural newspapers. The effort failed in April due to lack of funding.

In 1938 Rev. Gerald Winrod sought the Republican nomination for a seat in the U.S. Senate in the state of Kansas. Critics claimed he was the first American "fascist" candidate to run for office. He came in third place receiving 54,000 votes.

Both Reverends Billy James Hargis and Billy Graham were early associates of Gerald Winrod.
